SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN FOR MRS. PEYTON BY HER SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Community House Was Beautifully Decorated With Flowers

HUNDRED PEOPLE GUESTS AT AFFAIR

A delightful surprise party was given Mrs. William J. Peyton, better known as "Miss Bertie," by the Peyton Class of Emmanuel Sunday School, at the Community House in honor of her birthday on September 1st.

The room was attractively decorated in a color scheme of pink and green with flowers on every table. Baskets of flowers had been placed on the stage and on the window sills and streamers of colored crepe paper hung from the lights, creating a very beautiful scene. The favors were pink and green elephants with packs of candy on their backs. The guest-of-honor table was decorated with flowers and with a beautiful birthday cake made by Mrs. Ben Sterling.

When "Miss Bertie" came in she was greeted with applause from the assembled guests and everyone sang "A Happy Birthday Miss Bertie," played by Mrs. Wellington Tawes.

An opening address was given by Mrs. Olan Bradshaw, the president of the Peyton Class, after which a program was given by some of the talented young people.

Mrs. Eleanor Sterling recited a piece composed by Mrs. Estelle Nock and dedicated to Miss Bertie on her birthday.

Miss Hilda Maddrix sang "The Old Refrain." Little Joyce Fay Millbourne recited a piece entitled "When I Go To Bed." Rev. and Mrs. Bickling sang a duet composed by Rev. Bickling and sang in the tune of "Long, Long Ago." Mrs. Clarence Christy recited a piece "The Partridge Tree" by Edgar Guest. Mrs. Marsh gave a reading, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." Little Miss Rosabelle Somers recited "The Gingham Dog and The Calico Cat." Mrs. Avalynne Tawes sang a lovely piece entitled "Birth-day."

The soloists were accompanied by Miss Sallie Sterling, Little Miss Betty Moore Ruggin rendered a piano solo, after which a lovely table and lamp were given Mrs. Peyton by the Peyton Class.

Refreshments were served and then the children brought to Mrs. Peyton gifts of all kinds from the invited guests.

There were about one hundred members and friends of the Peyton Class present and each of them had a particularly enjoyable time, especially when Mrs. Peyton attempted to thank each individual for the surprise party and the presents and expressed her appreciation for this unique observance of her birthday by those with whom she has been associated in church work for a number of years.

"MAC" LOOKED LIKE GOOD HORSE JOCKEY MATERIAL

Rode Motor Bike Like He Had Had Experience

It takes a good many years to determine just what a man's vocation in life should be, sometimes, and it was not until this week that we knew definitely our good friend McClellan was cut out for a horse jockey.

"Mac" believes that "that good Gulf gasoline" is the best product nature provides and man can use, and he was demonstrating one day this week just how good it is by "jockeying" a bicycle equipped with a sort of outboard motor around the city streets.

"Mac" is naturally graceful, and he rode the bicycle like a jockey rides a horse on the last lap in a race—well forward, head down, knees up, and figuratively speaking, plying the whip.

One could see the light of high adventure in his eye as he chugged past, and it may be that "Mac" even then was dreaming of "the Graw," or of Pindico, with the horses thundering down the stretch, as he urged his own steed onward to the finish line—on Back street.

ATTENDED CONVENTION AS DELEGATE OF COLLEGE

Miss Claudia Somers In Denver With Sigma Kappa's

Miss Claudia Somers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Somers, left last Friday to attend the National Convention of the Sigma Kappa Society which convened in Denver, Colorado, from August 31st to Sept. 3rd.

Miss Somers is president of the Sigma Kappa at Randolph Macon College in Lynchburg, Va. She was chosen by her fellow members to represent their chapter at the Denver convention, and will be gone about ten days on the trip. She was joined at Chicago by her room mate, who made the trip to the convention with her.

Before returning Miss Somers will visit several points of interest in the west and shortly after she arrives home will leave for Randolph Macon College, where she is a senior.

She is a graduate of the Crisfield High School, where she won the prize as the best all-round student, and she also won the Somerset County declamation contest the same year she graduated.

EXPECT LONDON AND KNOX NEXT MONTH

Maryland Republicans Think Both Will Visit This State

YOUTH REPUBLICANS ARE BEGINNING TO GET ACTIVE

Maryland is to be signally honored in this presidential election campaign, according to William P. Lawson, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, who expects that both the Republican presidential and vice-presidential candidates will visit the State in October.

"It is not often that both the presidential and vice-presidential candidates pay tribute to one State," he pointed out, "and it has been Maryland's heritage since the days of George Washington to play host to future presidents of the United States."

Chairman Lawson is awaiting word from John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican Committee, as to when Governor Landon will visit Baltimore in October. His coming will bring a great climax to the campaign now being fought on all fronts by the Republicans in the Old Line State.

Baltimore also will entertain Colonel Knox on either October 8 or 9, and Chairman Lawson soon will know the exact date. Western Marylanders and their friends Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia gave Colonel Knox a splendid reception in Hagerstown on August 19.

An "All-American" Republican political rally will be held at Walter Johnson's farm, Germantown, Montgomery County, on September 11. It will mark the occasion of the meeting of the Landon-Le Gore Club.

The principal address of the occasion will be delivered by Senator L. M. Dickinson, Iowa, on "What Alfred M. Landon means to the Farmers of the United States."

The young Republicans in the State also are getting active, and organizing in each county for the November election. Last week-end several of the leaders of this group in the State made a tour of some of the Eastern Shore counties, contacting various leaders and outlining plans for an aggressive fight for the Republican candidates.

LOCAL FIREMEN ATTEND SCHOOL AT COLLEGE PARK

Maryland University Session Conducted By Experts

Ten members of the Crisfield Fire department left Tuesday morning to attend the Firemen's School at the University of Maryland, College Park, for the three day session which closed on Thursday.

Each year this school, conducted by some of the most famous fire-fighting experts and salvage men in the country, becomes more interesting, and it is largely due to what is taught there that the fire companies in the smaller communities are able to maintain their present high state of efficiency.

The members of the local company who attended the school were: J. Millard Tawes, president of the State Association of Firemen, B. Horace Ford, former chief of the Crisfield Fire Department, E. L. Justice, Johnnie Parks, Carlisle Daugherty, Grover Adams, W. H. Byrd, V. Bonomo, Adolph Justice, and Harold Poleyett.

"BETTER OFF DEAD" SAYS COLORED MAN

Family Virtually Starving In The Midst Of Plenty

WIFE HAS BROKEN ARM, DAUGHTER IS SICK IN BED

"I would be better off dead, but I can't die!"

An old colored man came into the "Times" office Monday morning, leaning on a cane, to tell his story of direct poverty and misery and suffering.

He came just inside the door and then he had to sort of squat on the floor while he talked.

"Folks, he said, 'in the midst of plenty me and my family is starving. I'm almost blind, and crippled and paralyzed, and old. I worked at the railway for a good many years. I had a little store in Jersey, but I had to give that up. My wife worked while she could but she has got a broken arm and a big sore on her leg. My daughter worked and got something for us to eat, but now she is sick. There is five children of hers. Yesterday I had a piece of bread somebody had give me, but when them children saw it, the way they looked at it, I couldn't eat it. I give it to dem. I would be better off dead, but I jes can't die. De good Lord is keepin' me here for some purpose, I dunno what. But I will roon my reward up yander where there won't be no pinchin' and hunger."

Alex Pinkey, a colored man who has always been a good citizen, old now, worn out, just able to totter along, can hardly see, was the man who came for assistance.

For years he was a faithful employee of the "shipyard" when it was owned by Capt. Stephen McCready and Capt. Ben Nelson. He bore a good reputation and he was respected and liked. But age overtook him and illness handicapped him.

For some years he and his wife Sarah had a little store in Jersey and they made a few dollars from that. But changing conditions took this little living away from them and they were left to subsist on the meagre earnings of the wife and what the daughter could bring in.

Several months ago Alex was given an old age pension. It was paid to him for two months. Then, in July, it was cut off entirely.

The pension helped these old, sick people to live. The loss of the pension has brought them to the verge of starvation.

The Chief of Police of Crisfield was asked, by the editor of the "Times" to investigate this case. He reported that conditions were worse if anything, than they had been reported by Alex.

About the only thing this old darkey has left to him is his faith in God. He feels, whether right or wrong, that there is injustice here on Earth, happiness for him only in Heaven. He believes that there is plenty for all of us to eat and he just can't understand why he and his must go hungry so often and so long. He does not understand why his portion of earthly goods should be so small and the portion of others who have lived no better (Continued on page ten)

SIX WOMEN IN W. C. T. UNION FOR FORTY YEARS

All Became Affiliated With Union In The Year 1896

In 1896, when the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Crisfield was in its infancy, eight new members were added to the roll.

Of that number, six are still living and paying their dues. They are: Mrs. L. C. Quinn, Mrs. J. F. Somers, Mrs. H. W. Davis, Mrs. J. W. Thawley, Mrs. Robert Hundley and Mrs. J. W. Disharoon.

Three of them have held the office of President, and one has been Recording Secretary for a number of years and is now serving as Treasurer.

"The money we pay for dues is Missionary money, reaching around the World."

Philathea Class Is Planning Bazaar And Country Store For November

The approach of colder weather brings nearer "Bazaar" time, and the Philathea Sunday School Class of the Baptist Temple are now starting to make extensive plans for the presentation of a big "Bazaar" and "Country Store" in the basement of the Baptist Temple from November 24th to November 27th, inclusive.

This may sound like a long time in which to get ready for an event of this kind, but when it is remembered how successful these folks have been in the past with their undertakings of like nature, it is not to be wondered at that they are beginning early, especially as they try to make every entertainment better and bigger than the

POPULAR BAPTIST PASTOR BAGS HOME

Dr. Fincher Will Preach At Both Services On Sunday

HAS BEEN VISITING RELATIVES IN TEXAS

Dr. J. Yancey Fincher, the popular pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, this week returned to Crisfield from a month's vacation, and was given a hearty welcome by his Church family and friends.

Dr. Fincher has been visiting with his mother in Fort Worth, Texas, with his son and family in Dallas, Texas, and with relatives in other parts of the State, all during the month of August. Of course, he attended the great Texas Centennial, and no doubt wore his spottles "ten-gallon" sombrero while in his home balivick.

In Dallas he had the happy privilege of visiting his home church, the First Baptist, the pulpit of which has been occupied for the past forty years by one of America's greatest Baptist ministers, Dr. George W. Truitt. It was Dr. Truitt, by the way, who recommended Dr. Fincher to the Baptist congregation in this city.

Dr. Fincher will fill the pulpit at his church at both the morning and evening services on Sunday, and the members of his congregation and many of his friends are expected to be present at the services to give him a warm welcome back to Crisfield.

He has had a delightful visit, a good rest, and returns eager to resume his work in this field where he has endeavored himself to people of every religious opinion because of his unfailing courtesy and his respect for the opinion of others, together with his charitableness both of mind and money and his very great ability as a pulpit orator.

GAS PLANT MANAGER GOES, NEW MAN NOW IN CHARGE

E. W. Wofford Succeeded By L. G. Wofford Of Virginia

This week, after having been the manager of the local Gas Company for several years, Mr. E. W. Wofford and his family left for Buffalo, N. Y., where he has accepted a position with the Iroquois Gas Company in that city.

In his place there comes to Crisfield Mr. L. G. Wofford, a Southerner, who for more than sixteen years was with the Lynchburg Gas Company, in Lynchburg, Va., and where he served as manager of that company for seven and a half years.

Mr. Wofford and his charming wife and delightful little daughter will be missed in the community. They all have many friends who are sorry to see them leave, but are glad that his talents will have a larger field in which to develop, and wish them just the best of luck.

In Mr. Wofford the city is getting a Southern gentleman, born in Georgia, but who has lived half his life in Virginia and feels that he is a native of that State. He has had the experience necessary to make him a successful manager of the gas plant here, and under his guidance there is little doubt but that the company will continue to grow and prosper. We are loath to have Mr. Wofford and his folks depart, but we are proud to have Mr. Wofford come into our community to make his future home.

SEE PROSPEROUS OYSTER SEASON AS PLANTS BEGIN WORKING FIRST OF WEEK

Young Man Instantly Killed Early Wednesday Morning In Automobile

Thomas Ira Brittingham, seventeen year old son of E. J. Brittingham of Marumso, was killed early Wednesday morning when he lost control of the car he was driving and crashed into a culvert near Princess Anne.

His companion, Michael Bonnevill, 24, of near Marion, was severely injured and is a patient at Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury.

The two young men had been in Salisbury Tuesday night, and were returning home about five o'clock Wednesday morning, and it is thought that Brittingham fell asleep at the wheel.

A check up indicated that the car swerved from the highway and that Brittingham, in attempting to bring it back on the concrete, hit the abutment, smashing the car and causing his death.

He was the son of Mr. E. J. Brittingham, of Marumso. Besides his father he is survived by two brothers.

His grandfather, J. J. Brittingham, of Salisbury, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swift, of Kingston, also survive.

Funeral services will be held from Marion Baptist Church this Friday, afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. E. C. Andrews, pastor.

Interment will be in the family plot in Kingston cemetery.

GOLDSBOROUGH GETS FAVORABLE REPORT

For Preliminary Survey Of Upper Thoroughfare, Deal's Isle.

TO INCREASE WIDTH OF CHANNEL HUNDRED FEET

Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough has been advised by the Chief of Engineers that a favorable report has been transmitted to Congress through the office of the Secretary of War on the preliminary examination and survey for the further improvement of Upper Thoroughfare, Deal's Island.

The original project, secured through legislation introduced by Congressman Goldsborough and an allocation of funds for the emergency relief of unemployment, was completed in 1934. The total cost to April 30, 1936 was $36,672.79, all for new work, and an estimated annual maintenance is $2,000.

Mr. Goldsborough had inserted in the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1935 an item providing for the preliminary examination and survey for further improvement of the Upper Thoroughfare, Deal's Island. The District and Division Engineers submitted favorable reports in which the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors concurred.

The recommendations made in the report to Congress call for increasing the width of the present channel from 75 to 100 feet, the extension of the 9 and 6-foot anchorage basins to within 50 feet of the wooden bulkhead on the south shore, and the dredging of an additional anchorage basin 9 feet deep, 300 feet wide and 650 feet long on the north side of the entrance channel between the north breakwater and the present 6-foot anchorage, all at an estimated cost of $26,000 for new work and $1,000 annually for maintenance.

The district engineer believes that "if adequate handling, storage and distributing facilities are made available, a commerce of 7,250 tons per year of sea food, fertilizers and general merchandise is to be anticipated, with savings in transportation costs totaling $3,150."

The report also said that "the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors considers the existing channel and anchorage at Deal's Island to be inadequate for the present requirements of navigation."

It also was pointed out that "the improvements proposed will materially increase the capacity of the harbor, with benefits to the locality and to the widespread sea-food industry commensurate with the expenditures required."

It is understood that local interests will cooperate in securing rights of way, areas for disposal of dredged material.

CRISFIELD GIRL ACCEPTS POSITION IN SALISBURY

Miss Beulah Moore Now With Nock's Shoe Store There

Miss Beulah Moore of this city, has accepted a position with Nock's Shoe Store, in Salisbury, formerly Hearn's, where she will be glad to see her many friends from this section. She began her duties there this week.

Miss Moore is well known throughout the lower part of Somerset county as a very courteous and capable saleslady and carries with her to her new position a wealth of experience in this particular line of merchandising, which will make her of great value to the Nock store.

STOCK IS GOOD FOREARLY PART OF THE SEASON

Tonging Season Does Not Start In Somerset County Until September Fifteenth

REPORTED THAT OYSTERS SCARCE IN SOME AREAS

The day marked the opening of the oyster season in Maryland and as is always the case, Crisfield packers started in immediately to ship the bivalves for which the Chesapeake Bay is famous, to many parts of the country.

W. P. Hickman and Co., W. H. Dryden and Sterling and Sun were shucking and making shipments this week, and other houses either will start this week or the first of the coming week.

Tonging is the only way in which oysters can be taken at this time, and while the tonging season opened in other sections Tuesday, it will not be permitted in Somerset county until the 15th of the month, and on that day a large number of watermen will try out the various tonging areas and the result of their work will give a good idea as to the quality and quantity of available oysters in Somerset waters.

The stock that has come in so far is of good quality and the price paid the packers has been from forty to forty-cents per bushel on the rocks. It will be about six pints to the bushel, which is a fair yield for so early in the season.

For some weeks the oyster packers here have been putting their houses in order to get ready for a big season. Repairs and replacements have been made, paint and whitewash has been used abundantly, machinery has been inspected carefully and everything put in fine shape to handle oysters in a sanitary and healthful manner.

Conflicting reports have been received as to the quantity of oysters Maryland waters will produce this year. In some areas a great many oysters were killed by the severe cold weather of last winter or the Spring freshets, and the loss of these oysters will affect the total output, naturally.

The only thing that cannot be determined at this time is—just how extensive this loss will be. On the other hand, some authorities believe that the quantity killed is negligible and that the output this season will go ahead of the number of bushels marketed last season, which showed a big gain over previous years.

The price paid for shucking will be the same as last season, 25 cents per gallon, and hundreds of shuckers will be at work opening thousands of gallons of delectable bivalves very shortly. At the present time most of the shuckers are at work in the canning houses, but the tomato crop will soon be finished, and while there is some talk of canning sweet potatoes here, canning has not in the past interfered with the oyster business and it will not do so this season.

In addition to the oysters to be obtained from the public rocks and bars, several of the large packers here have a supply of their own and most of these privately owned oysters are reported as being in excellent shape.

If this is the case, as the season advances and the market warrants, thousands of bushels of private stock will be marketed.

Oyster packers generally predict a good demand for oysters all during the season, with a firm price maintaining for good stock. In several states the supply is reported below normal, and this applies especially to the larger oysters, so Maryland, which without doubt will have an adequate supply of small and medium stock, should have no difficulty in disposing of all the oysters coming from the waters of the state that are found to be of marketable sizes.

Revival Services To Start At Tangier Sunday

Rv. Albert Turkington Will Be Evangelist In Charge

Beginning Sunday, Sept. 6th, and continuing until Sunday, Sept. 20th, there will be evangelistic services each night in the Swain Memorial M. E. Church at Tangier, Va.

The minister of the church, Rev. Harry N. Bailey, will be assisted this year by Rev. Albert Turkington, of Baltimore.

Rev. Turkington and his wife are consecrated workers and successful revivalists. Each night during the week the interesting and inspiring service of music and song will start promptly at 7:00 o'clock.

Birthday Dinner At Resort

At Ocean City last Sunday a birthday dinner was given by Mr. Ira T. McCready in honor of his cousin, Mrs. Effie A. Wallace. The guests included Miss Marie Davis and Mrs. Mary Horsey, of Crisfield, and Mr. J. W. Nelson, of California, who is spending some time here visiting relatives.

This afternoon (August 25 at Winston Salem) I saw a group of High School dogs perform at the Downie Brothers Circus which brought back memories of twenty-five years ago when Gentry Brothers Dog and Pony Show was the joy of every child and the imitations put on under a burlap bag tent by the neighborhood boys. Dogs painted yellow became lions while most any hound pup made a fair looking "Whatis" when his ears and tail had been cropped off. A merry-go-round plank with a dog tied to one end and a cat to the other made perpetual motion. Stripes might have made the wild cat wild but shoe polish stripes made a "yaller dog" look like a Bengal tiger. Two octagon soap wrappers was the price of admission. Five shows was equal to one Barlow pocket knife or a first baseman's mit. "Dog is man's best friend" is an axiom as well known as "Kick my dog, kick me." And it is well to mention that there is a decided difference of opinion on the humor or sympathy found in the high speed and noise resulting from a poor dog's effort to get away from a founcing tin can tied to the end of his tail. Boys must be thinking better of dogs these days—at least I haven't heard of a "tin-canned" dog in years. "Leading a dog's life in 1936" is to say "Living the life of Riley." Oberlin, Ohio is America's "Dog Heaven."

The big Dog Traders Mart held at Fredericksburg, Virginia every April is a throw back to the days of the nomadic dog-trader who roamed the Southland before the "War Between the States" with a "passel" of dogs selling and swapping much the same as the well-known horsetrader.

American dog loyalty—or should I say royalty—is valued at forty million dollars. Kennels alone in the United States are worth seventy-five million and the canned dog food business amounts to more than $1,000,000 a year. Everything is getting "doggy." The Queen Mary has an ultra-modern kennel in one of her immense smokestacks. Twenty-five hundred dogs are buried in the Aspin Hill Cemetery at Rockville, Maryland. Every year medical laboratories use more than 400,000 dogs. Dogs' friends who don't like this type of experimentation are called anti-vivisectionists, which means, against cutting up dogs. Yet, among the ancient people the dog was held in the same contempt that the Chinese hold the turtle for the dog is mentioned in the Bible only thirteen times and almost invariably it is associated with lowly things.

Chicago has a $100,000 dog hotel, the gift of Marion E. McConnell whose hobby was dogs, which has opened a new field to those who like to work with dogs. Another paying vocation is that of veterinary doctor or small animal surgeon.

Albert Payson Terhune is America's Number One Dog Expert. His writings have brought to millions of readers hundreds of true facts about heroic dogs and Archibald Rutledge's con dog accounts are plenty good. Rev. Lawrason who used to have the M. E. Charge at Oxford recites a most excellent President Taft—Georgia Negro—possum hound dog monologue.

The list of peninsula dog fanciers is constantly growing and among the best known we find Frank Bradley, Federalsburg; E. T. Oren, Denton; H. M. Duyckinck, Rising Sun and Helen A. Schuyler of Easton, an authority on Chesapeake Bay dogs and a prime mover in the Second Annual Talbot County Kennel Club Dog Show, held at Bruffs Island, June 7. It was a howling success and well rewarded its sponsors. The big Western Maryland show was held at Cumberland last week. The Baltimore Pet Show as well as the Cecil County Dog Show opens September 26 and National Dog week is September 20 to 26.

The leading pedigreed dog is the German Police with the Cocker Spaniel a close second and the Boston Bull third. The chances are better than ever that the Spaniel will be the leading dog by 1938. And lest we forget—the jumping flea reminds the dog that he is a dog. No dogs, no fleas. No flea, no flea circus.

To write about the six classifications of dog, the origin of dogs, wild dogs, dog days, dog collars, bites, muzzles, leashes, Latin habits, races, shows, porcelain dog, bench dogs, lathe dogs, Rin Tin Tin, blood hounds and George Washington's fox hounds would each require a full column. You may find many hours of pleasant research and writing if you are canine minded but no matter how much you read and write, you probably will find that the humble lad with "just a dog" is closer to his "mutt" than the Park Avenue is to his $5000 mastiff. Girls as well as boys learn a lot about the golden rule, humanitarian practices and animal reasoning from their dog companions. Do you want a Dog? Do you have more dogs than you need?

Federal agencies located in Salisbury, many of them headquarters for shore wide operations, asked for thirty-one offices in the Postoffice building although present plans call for only a total of fifteen offices, thirteen of them already allotted.

Vineyardists near Seaford are expecting a short crop of grapes this season, and attribute this fact to the severity of the past winter. Thomas M. Smith and J. Edwin Dutton, Jr., both of them owning large vineyards, are starting this week gathering their crop of Concord. Mr. Smith states that the prospects are not good for anywhere near a normal crop.

John Thomas, Rock Hall fisherman, hauled an eight-foot, 475-pound shark out of his net near Love Point Thursday afternoon, thus discounting the rumor that all of the tigers of the deep had fled the Chesapeake Bay waters. Thomas' catch was hauled to Rock Hall.

Swimming the Choptank river from Talbot to the Dorchester shore is not as easy as it looks, according to Lou Reiding of Baltimore. Reiding swam the river in the vicinity of the Emerson C. Harrington bridge on a seven-dollar wager, and won—but not without considerable difficulty. Taking off from the Talbot side at 6:15 p. m., it took the swimmer just one hour to reach the draw, where he found swift current. After battling the current for three-quarters of an hour Reiding finally succeeded in reaching the Dorchester shore at 7:40.

Following the heavy electrical storm last Friday night, the barn on the property of George Campbell, lo-ated along the Elkton-Chesapeake City road about a half-mile south of Elkton, was discovered on fire. The Elkton Fire Company was summoned, but the flames had gained such a headway the building was doomed to the flames. An automobile stored in the building, together with a lot of tools and other articles, were also destroyed. The supposition is that the building was fired by lightning. The firemen prevented the flames from spreading to the residence. The loss is reported to be about $25000, partially covered by insurance.

One white man and four negroes were killed and sixteen others, all colored, were injured early Thursday morning when an International truck, driven by George D. Hart, of Eastings, Florida, loaded with potatoes and negro laborers crashed through a guard-rail and toppled down a 60-foot embankment near the eastern end of the Conowingo dam bridge. The laborers had been, for the past several weeks, working on the potato farm of Charles Basco near Hightstown, N. J. and were enroute to their homes in Georgia and Florida. George H. Hart and Lawrence Yehington, both of Hastings, Florida, were the only white persons in the machine, and Hart was one of the five killed. The four negroes who lost their lives were Anna Simmons and Janice Mair, of Mecanopy, Florida; Clarence Caldwell, of St. Augustine, Florida, and Samuel Grant, of Milledgeville, Ga.

A value of $621,093.75 was placed on the 1936 cantaloupe crop to Wicomico County farmers, according to figures submitted by buyers. A compilation of average prices for the various containers used in shipping the melons was made. Flat crates, containing melons, brought an average of 55 cents. The "24's" containing 24 melons, brought an average of 97 1-2 cents. Three sizes of jumbo crates, containing 36 melons each, averaged $1.75.

Charles N. Weedman was severely burned about the face and arms when gasoline which he was draining from the tank of a car exploded in the garage of William C. Phillips at Sutersville Tuesday morning. The young man, according to reports, was down in the pit at the time and was nearly suffocated and blinded by the explosion.

Ocean City now has a shipyard, known as the Ocean City Marine Company Incorporated. This new development, started by Frank W. Truitt, A. James Clark and Preston J. Woodall, of Baltimore, several weeks ago, will be ready within a week for the booming business which is coming to the resort daily as a result of the new harbor and inlet.

Word was received on Monday of last week from Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough that the application of the town of Preston for $15,187 for the removal of old broken sidewalks and construction of new sidewalks was approved and will be carried forward as a Works Progress Administration project.

Engineers of the State Roads Commission began work on the Ocean City Harbor Road on schedule time Monday morning. The new road is a laboratory in which the State Roads Commission will experiment with a new low cost sand and asphalt paving process. Nathan L. Smith, Chief Engineer for the Commission, said that if this type of road stands up at Ocean City the Commission probably will use that type for low cost construction on the Eastern Shore where free sand is available.

Described as having a tail of all colors and about six feet long, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sparks said they saw a meteor streak across the sky in a southeasterly direction about 6:25 P. M. Sunday. They were able to follow its course for about a quarter of a mile and then it vanished. Mr. and Mrs. Sparks live near the Wye Mills railroad station.

Descendants of Charles and William Wheatley, who settled near Galestown in Dorchester County in the 1700's on a tract of land, which was a grant from the King of England, held the seventeenth annual reunion of the family in Wheatley's Methodist Protestant Church grove, near Galestown

Thursday. Between 350 and 400 attended the reunion. Capt. Irving Wheatley, a direct descendant, aged 75, of Galestown was the oldest member of the family present.

Harold Strohmman, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Strohmman, living east of Dover, met with a serious accident Saturday while riding a motorcycle from his home into Dover. In trying to avoid a collision with an approaching automobile he ran the motorcycle into an abutment and sustained a fracture of the right leg. He is in Kent General Hospital.

Two young boys, wards of the Children's Aid Society, joyfully playing

Tuesday in the treacherous Choptank River, stepped into a deep hole and were drowned. The dead boys are Frank Lotman, 10 years old, an orphan, and Robert Steer, 6 years old, who has a mother living in Cecil County.

Little Carter Middleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Atherton Middleton, of "Gunston," near Centerville, probably holds the record for girl swimmers of her age on the Eastern Shore if not in the state. Last Friday, the little tot, who has just passed her sixth birthday, accomplished the feat of swimming across Corsica River, at the Gunston Camp, a distance of more than one-third of a mile.

POTOLIME

BAKED OYSTER SHELL LIME

The Very Best for the Soils in SOMERSET WORCESTER AND WICOMICO COUNTIES

Is made right in Crisfield where you can get it at any time direct from the factory at wholesale prices.

All Spring, Summer and Fall crops show wonderful results with POTOLIME and many of our customers have been using it every year for 10 to 15 years because POTOLIME gives them better results than any other limes.

POTOLIME is not ground raw shell. Our Exclusive Burning and Crushing Process (not grinding) separate the soft quickly available part from the rest of the shell, producing POTOLIME—the lime that brings such comments as these from successful farmers:

Mr. Detrick, Manager of Bolton Farms, Bristol, Pa., says: "I used POTOLIME two years side by side with Hydrated Lime. On the first cutting I had three loads of alfalfa from the POTOLIME side of the field to every two loads from the Hydrated side. We mowed the POTOLIME side three times the first season and got from two to two and a half tons of good alfalfa hay each time. We mowed the Hydrated side once during first season."

Mr. John Kernan of Elmer, N. J., says: "I used 750 pounds of POTOLIME per acre on 25 acres of wheat for my 1935 planting and I have threshed 32 bushels of good wheat to the acre."

Mr. Henry Stelme of Ellicott City, Md., says: "I have been using POTOLIME for a number of years and have always obtained good results. I was unable to get a good set of clover or timothy until I began using POTOLIME and now I harvest a splendid crop of clover and cut the second crop for seed each year."

STRICTER REGULATIONS TO COVER DAIRY PLANTS

Must Be Equipped For Storage, Washing And Sterilizing

Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, calls attention to the regulations recently adopted by the Department concerning the control of milk produced, shipped, handled and consumed in Maryland. Former regulations are revised and enlarged in the new requirements. The regulations provide that dairies retailing milk must be adequately equipped for the storage of the milk at a temperature not above 60 F. and must have sufficient apparatus for washing and sterilizing all equipment and for the bottling of milk.

The annual tuberculosis testing of dairy cattle is obligatory. Physical examination of milk handlers by the health officers, or by physicians authorized by the health officers, is required for the control of communicable diseases. Such laboratory tests as individual cases may demand, are required. The presence of any communicable disease among persons residing or visiting at any dairy farm, or other milk handling establishment, must be reported to the health officer.

Statements made on the labels of milk bottles indicating milk to be a certain quality or grade, must be approved by the State Department of Health.

New requirements include:
1. Provision for a 2-room house for dairies retailing milk.
2. Mechanical capping of the milk.
3. Provision for suitable apparatus to wash and sterilize utensils, containers and equipment.
4. Sterilization by means of a chlorine solution of not less than 100 parts per million available chlorine is required unless some other means or methods approved by the Department of Health are used.
5. Milk must be cooled promptly and must be kept at a temperature not above 60 F. at all times until delivered to the consumer.

6. The bacterial standard for raw milk is more rigid. Raw milk or cream offered for consumption as such shall contain not more than 100,000 colonies of bacteria per cc. by the official plate method.

7. Milk shall not be held at the dairy farm for over a period of 18 hours. It must be delivered to the dairy or consumer within that time.

8. Cases of communicable diseases among the cattle must be reported directly to the Health Department.

Active enforcement of the regulations will be started 30 days after this notice. Printed copies of the regulations are available to those interested.

LEAGUE CHAMPIONS ENGAGED IN SERIES

Soft Crab Express Is Now Two Games Ahead

ASBURY NATIONALS WON GAME LAST NIGHT

A "Little World Series" between the champions of Crisfield's two soft ball leagues got under way this week and for the past three nights has provided the local fans with thrills and excitement aplenty. As a result of the game last night, the series now stands Soft Crab Express American League, 2 games, Asbury, National League, 1 game.

By defeating the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the last game of the season, the Soft Crab Express became the official champions of the American League, while Asbury winning their game from the Tawes Baking Co., on Monday night won the crown in the National League.

These two games brought to a close the schedule of soft ball games that have been played in this city for the past several weeks and which met with an enthusiastic reception from sports fans of the community.

The new sport was inaugurated here early in the summer and the local Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored the organization of the league. So rapidly did the game gain the favor of young and old alike and so much playing material was found available that in a short while it was found necessary to organize two leagues instead of one.

These two leagues have been playing games on a regular schedule several nights each week on the High School grounds and hundreds of people have been attending each game and rooting for their favorite team.

It was decided early in the season that in order to enliven the competition, at the close of the season, the winning team of each league would meet in a series of five games for the local soft ball championship.

This "Little World Series" began on Tuesday night of this week when the Soft Crab Americans and the Asbury Nationals engaged in their first battle, resulting in a victory for the Soft Crab Expressmen by a score of 7-4.

The second game of the series was played Wednesday night but the Asburyites seemed unable to cope with their stronger opponents and again lost to the tune of 12-5.

In the third game, however, played last night on the High School Grounds, the Asburyites staged a come-back and defeated their American League rivals 13-4.

As a result of this upset by Asbury, considerable speculation is going on in sporting circles as to just what will be the outcome of the series, especially tonight's game.

PLACED ORDER FOR 500 FORD BUSES

Largest Single Order Ever Given in United States

TO BE PLACED IN USE ON DETROIT STREET RAILWAY

A single order for 500 Ford V-8 metropolitan buses has been placed with the Ford Motor Company by the municipally-owned Detroit Street Railway. This is believed to be the largest single order for buses ever placed in the United States.

Deliveries are to commence within 90 days. It is expected that the last of the 500 units will be turned over to the railway company by next spring.

The buses are of a new type with 25-passenger capacity. The design was developed by the Ford Motor Company in collaboration with engineers of the Detroit Street Railway. Their aim was to provide a modern unit for low-cost, high-speed operation in heavy urban traffic.

Purchase of the large fleet of the new type buses was determined upon by the management of the railway company after exhaustive tests over the past two years of 331 Ford V-8 buses on the heaviest traffic routes serving the Detroit metropolitan area. At present the original fleet of Ford V-8 buses is piling up mileage at the rate of more than 1,000,000 miles a month. The first bus of the fleet already has traveled more than 120,000 miles.

The new buses are of the pay-enter type, the entrance door being forward of the front wheel. The exit door is near the rear. Safety devices prevent opening of the doors before the bus comes to a stop and prevent starting while the doors are open.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hillary arrived in Crisfield this week to spend a few days with Mrs. Hillary's mother, Mrs. J. W. Thawley. They were accompanied by Mr. Hillary's mother and sister, from Wisconsin. They all expect to leave shortly for Boontown, N. J., where Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hillary reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Holland and son, Ward, Jr., Mr. E. E. Holland and Miss Dorothy Holland motored to Baltimore Sunday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holland. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. E. E. Holland, who had been visiting her son and daughter-in-law and grandson, for several weeks.

Mrs. Bessie Mitchell, of Washington and Crisfield, and daughter Jackie, have returned from Ocean City, Md., where they were guests at The Hotel Commander for the past ten days. They will remain in Crisfield another week as guests of Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. Jennie Purnell, on Cove Street, before returning to Washington.

Mrs. William S. Quinn and son, Lieutenant William Quinn of the U. S. Army, left this week to visit her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Bowman, in Woodstock, Va. Lieutenant Quinn will go to Fort Benning, Ga., from Woodstock, and then return to Crisfield for a short stay before sailing for duty in the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Will Lowe, while scraping for crabs last Saturday, caught a small crab that had two biters on one of its claws. One set of the biters seemed in working condition while the other set, although perfectly formed, seemed to have grown together at the hinge. The crab was viewed by a number of people, none of whom remembered having seen a crab of this kind before, and was brought to the "Times" office where the "force" in the front office looked it over.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband and our father, Theodore Swift, who departed this life August 31, 1933.

Sleep on dear father, take your rest,
God called you home, he thought it best,
In silence you suffered, in patience you bore,
Until God called you home to suffer no more.

We miss you, Oh! we'll miss you,
Miss you more than tongues can tell,
But every day and hour that passes,
Brings us nearer with you to dwell.

Sadly missed by his wife and children.
Mrs. E. J. Brittingham.

BIG BUSINESS MEN SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Republican U. S. Senator Also Urges His Re-election

BUSINESS HAS CLIMBED FROM FAILURE TO SUCCESS

In announcing his unqualified support of President Roosevelt, in the midst of his campaign for the Republican nomination for re-election to a third term United States Senator James Couzens of Michigan made it clear that his support will be active.

His statement read: "Believing as I do that the most important matter confronting the nation is the re-election of President Roosevelt, I intend to support him. The outcome of my own candidacy for the Senate is neither important to the nation nor to me, but I believe it is important that my many loyal supporters in Michigan be advised in advance of the primary, September 15.

"The reasons for this conclusion will be advanced from time to time between now and election next November."

Senator Couzens retired as general manager of the Ford Motor Co. in 1915 with a fortune of $30,000,000. In that post he worked out the Ford high wage policy and as one of the most successful business men in the country his action dispels the fiction of Old Guard propagandists that the Roosevelt Administration is an enemy of capitalism.

Four weeks ago the Senator expressed "disgust" with Republican criticism of the Roosevelt relief and reform policies. "How could anybody have balanced the budget?" he asked. "How could the States have balanced their budgets if the Federal government had not given them 70 cents for every 30 cents they spent on unemployment relief?"

On August 21 four business men prominent in their communities told over the Columbia Broadcasting System why they are supporting President Roosevelt for re-election and how his administration has been helpful to business.

Maurice L. Breidenthal, President of the Security National Bank of Kansas City, Kan., speaking from his home city said: "As a Kansan I can appreciate what President Roosevelt has accomplished to put an end to the economic problems that have plagued and vexed this section of the country ever since the World War. For years we suffered from the disastrous effects of sub-normal agricultural prices and when farming prices were low it was impossible for us to thrive. . . . Because of the great efforts put forth by President Roosevelt to revive agriculture and to remove the cause of the depression, we are today closer to economic and financial salvation in the Farm Belt than we have been for years. . . .

"Perhaps the keynote of the whole recovery movement now under way is the wise banking legislation enacted by the Roosevelt administration to correct the abuses of the past and to erect a substantial foundation on which sound banking practices could flourish. . . . I have never been able to agree with the view expressed a few years ago by Gov. Landon that deposit insurance is a 'greater blow to the ultimate welfare of the American people than the wildest inflation of the currency could possibly be.'"

William H. Regnery, President of the Western Shade Cloth Co., speaking from Chicago said:

"Perhaps the best tribute I can pay is to point out the obvious fact that the average business man today is not worrying, as he was in 1932, how much longer he can survive. On the contrary, the average business man is wondering how to handle his ever increasing volume of trade, how he shall expand, and what he shall do to meet the growing demands of the coming months and years.

"To put it plainly, the blanket of fear and fright that covered the business world during the dismal days from 1930 to 1933 has disappeared entirely. The country is prosperity-conscious and so are the business leaders.

"I do not know a single man of my acquaintance who does not sincerely believe that the coming winter will see us on the firmest basis of prosperity since the boom years of the late Nineteen Twenties."

Edward A. Filene, President of Wm. Filene's Sons Company of Boston, spoke from Boston:

"Some think it strange that I, a hard-boiled business man, should favor the New Deal; but I favor the New Deal because I am a hard-boiled business man.

"Some business men, to be sure, call the New Deal revolutionary; but when one remembers the state of the country in March, 1933, he may well conclude that the New Deal has saved America from revolution.

"Some call the New Deal reckless experimentation; BUT THE MOST RECKLESS EXPERIMENT IN WHICH AMERICA COULD NOW ENGAGE WOULD BE TO STOP ROOSEVELT.

"No clear-thinking business man would discharge an executive under whom the business had climbed from failure to success, and hire some unknown who promised to reduce total expenditures without reducing any one expenditure."

William T. McCaffery, President of the Lincoln Bank and Trust Company

BYRON BELL PASSED AWAY LAST FRIDAY

Charles D. Mosher Died Saturday At Hospital

MRS. MARY ANDERSON IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Byron S. Bell, well-known carpenter of Crisfield, passed away last Friday at the home of his son, Roger Bell, on Mariners Road, from complication of diseases. He had been in failing health for the past year. He was 70 years of age.

Mr. Bell was the son of the late Charles and Hannah Cox Bell, of this city. His wife, the late Florence Bell, preceded him in death several years ago. He leaves a large number of friends to mourn his death.

He is survived by three sons, Roger Bell, of Crisfield, Orié Bell, of South Carolina, and Charles Bell. One sister, Mrs. J. D. Laird, of Crisfield, also survives.

Funeral services were held from the home of his son on Mariners Road Sunday afternoon at 2:30 P. M., conducted by the Rev. W. C. Mumford, pastor of Mariners M. P. Church.

Interment was in the family plot in Mariners cemetery.

Charles D. Mosher, 5 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mosher, died Saturday at the McCready Memorial Hospital following an emergency operation.

Besides his parents he is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Mosher, of Lawsonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Swift of Crisfield. His great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swift of Kingston, also survive.

Funeral services were held from Asbury M. E. Church Monday afternoon at 2:30 P. M. conducted by the Rev. J. T. Rowleson, pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Asbury cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Anderson, wife of Eric Anderson, highly respected resident of this city, died yesterday, Thursday afternoon, at her home on Chesapeake Avenue. She had been in ill health for some time. She was 80 years of age.

Mrs. Anderson was a native of Finland. When they came to this country, she and her husband lived first on Smith Island, moving to Crisfield about 42 years ago. She was the daughter of the late Eric Akrivars and Margaret Greta, of Finland.

During the many years of her residence here, Mrs. Anderson had made many friends who held her in high esteem and who were deeply shocked to learn of her death.

She is survived by her husband, Eric Anderson, and four children, Mrs. Annie Watson, of Salisbury, Mrs. Esther Somers, Miss Rosie Anderson, and Mr. John Anderson, of Crisfield. Twelve grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held from the home on Chesapeake Avenue Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. H. D. Dukes, pastor of Pilgrim Holiness Tabernacle.

Interment will be in Mariners cemetery.

Visiting Parents Here

Mrs. Waldo Hahn and children, of Pennsylvania, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Barnes, this week.

Return From Baltimore

Mrs. Mabel Dennis and son Franklin and Mr. John Quinn returned last Friday from a short visit to Baltimore.

of Syracuse, N. Y., speaking from that city, recited the condition among banks when President Roosevelt came into office and described the banking and stock market legislation enacted during this administration and its wholesome effect. He concluded:

"I for one am glad to acknowledge that a grand job has been done in the banking field by President Roosevelt and his administration. I believe that any individual or banker unwilling to give Mr. Roosevelt and the present administration credit for the recovery in the banking business is indeed ungrateful."

COLLEGE EXPECTS LARGE ENROLLMENT

Look For Even More Students Than Last Year

EIGHT FROM SOMERSET COUNTY HAVE ENROLLED

Authorities at the State Teachers College, Salisbury, Maryland, expect the enrollment of freshmen to be even larger than at the opening of college in September, 1935, at which time the enrollment was more than 100, or twice that of September, 1934. In addition to the large freshman enrollment it is expected that approximately 80 sophomores, 30 juniors, and 5 seniors will also enroll. This year's senior class will receive their B. S. degrees in June of 1937. It was thought that about 10 former graduates would return for degree work, but the great demand for teachers has lessened this number. All degree graduates of 1936 have already been placed in teaching positions, and more than half of the three-year graduates have also been placed. A list of the 1936 graduating class with their respective placements follows: Rebecca Adams, Prince George's; Harriet Burns, Caroline; Madalyn Carey, Howard; Mildred Dixon, substitute in Caroline; Clotilde Drechsler, Carroll; Carolyn Evans, Caroline; Ellen Greig, Montgomery; Eileen Hales, Dorchester; Sara Hayward, Worcester; Flora Hankins, Harford; Marie Keese, Montgomery; Bernice Lawless, Caroline; Annie Lusby, Prince George's; Nellie Mitchell, Charles; Charlotte Oland, Montgomery; Ethel Potts, Frederick; Dorothy Pruitt, Worcester; Albia Riggan, Howard; Ruth Todd, Montgomery; Helen Tyler, Pennsylvania; Martha White, Montgomery; Raymond Jump, Talbot. Helen Smith will do substitute work in the Campus Elementary School, and also work for her degree.

The following high school graduates from Somerset County have already enrolled for 1936-37:

Mary Emily Byrd, Etta A. Carlson, Rosalie Howard, Garland Jones, Austin J. Loreman, Jr., Rachel Nelson, Mary T. Richardson, K. Jane Short.

GET-TO-GETHER MEETING FOR CON. GOLDSBOROUGH

Wicomico Democrats Will Be Hosts At Ocean City Monday

Friends of Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough in Wicomico county are holding for him an informal "Get-together" at the George Washington Hotel in Ocean City, Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 7th, from three to five o'clock in the afternoon.

Invitations to attend are extended through the newspapers, and all of the Congressman's friends on the Eastern Shore are invited to be present at this gathering.

The Young Democratic Club of Wicomico county will be the host on this occasion.

TRYING TO BRING BACK CHESTNUT TREES TO STATE

Experimenting With Native And With Chinese Varieties

Chestnut trees will come back and Maryland boys and girls and young people will have the joy of chestnut parties again if the experiments being conducted by the Soil Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture, in Maryland prove successful, according to information received by Arthur E. Hungerford, State Director, National Emergency Council.

In the three Soil Conservation demonstrations at Boonesboro, Washington County; Harwood, Anne Arundel County; and White Hall, Baltimore and Harford Counties, 2100 trees have been planted on the farms of farmers who are cooperating.

Two varieties of Chinese chestnut trees and a hybrid of one of the Chinese varieties and the American chestnut have been planted. The trees are two or three feet high.

The chestnut trees of Maryland and practically the entire country have been destroyed by a blight which first appeared in Long Island in 1890, which was identified in New York in 1904 and was reported in 1908. In the course of the next ten years the blight had spread over the entire eastern section of the country. Year after year the old chestnut trees and stumps have put out new shoots which have fallen victim of the blight as soon as they reach a height of from 8 to 12 feet.

STARVATION HAS NO PLACE IN ANY AMERICAN HOME

It is not an indictment of a community that there should be hunger that verges on starvation in its midst, for such a condition might not be generally known.

But when a community such as ours is told of the conditions that surround the family of Alex Pinkney, then unless proper and immediate action is taken, the community would be guilty of about any indictment that might be brought against it.

Here is a colored family that needs immediate AND CONTINUED SUPPORT! Citizens might run their hands down in their pockets today and tomorrow and even the next day, and make contributions for the support of this family, but soon they would begin to give less and less frequently in smaller and smaller amounts, while the needs of the family, because of cold weather, might be mounting.

So there must be CONTINUED SUPPORT FROM SOME OTHER SOURCE!

This is not a case of breast-beating or of trying to put somebody in a hole. It is not a case where criticism should be directed against anybody; but it is a case where PROMPT AND CONTINUED ACTION IS REQUIRED!

There is only one proper agency in this county to deal with this case—the Somerset County Welfare Board, and it should immediately arrange to place Alex Pinkney or his wife on the old age pension rolls for an amount sufficient to buy them bread and fuel.

STARVATION HAS NO PLACE IN ANY AMERICAN HOME!

FATHER COUGHLIN REPRIMANDED

It is heartening to learn that the official Vatican newspaper, the "Osservatore Romano" in a recent editorial criticized the speech Father Coughlin, the Detroit priest, made some time ago when he called President Roosevelt "a liar and a betrayer."

President Roosevelt, no matter whether we like him or not, IS THE PRESIDENT of the United States, and as the highest constituted officer in this country, representing law and order, he is entitled to the respect, at least, of every American citizen, as long as he holds office.

The fact that Father Coughlin's utterance made thousands of friends for the President is beside the point. The fact that Father Coughlin is a Catholic priest attacking a Protestant President in a Protestant country, is also beside the point.

What makes this man dangerous is that he preaches a doctrine that is very near to treason; that he inveighs against constituted authority in the manner of and almost with the language of, a fish monger of Billingsgate; that he had, until very recently, a tremendous hold upon literally millions of people who looked upon him as a sort of Liberator; that his addresses are aimed at the passionate in mankind and not at man's mind or reasoning powers; that he is at the head of a business that, in the hands of those outside the Church, could very easily develop or degenerate into a "racket" bringing in colossal sums of money with which to finance various undertakings.

The Catholic church has suffered in the past because it has been impossible, seemingly, for the church to keep away from politics. Today in Spain is an object lesson of how low the greatest Catholic country of all time can be brought. Mexico has had its purging, other Catholic countries have witnessed horrors that were the direct outcome of the church's program there, and the end is not yet.

While Father Coughlin went unrebuked by the highest Catholic authorities and his rabid utterances apparently were soothing to the ears of the Papal hierarchy, the ordinary American could be excused for believing that Catholicism was fomenting more trouble for itself here in America where religious freedom is one of our greatest inheritances.

Now that we know the Church considers the priest has gone beyond the bounds of decency and churchly dignity, our faith in that institution is revived. While the spanking administered to Father Coughlin was given with an unholstered naddle, the gestures were all there, and now it remains to be seen if the treatment is efficacious—or if the patient will again break out in a rash.

BY THEIR WORKS SHALL YE KNOW THEM

The surprise birthday party given Tuesday night at Immanuel Community House by her Sunday school class in honor of Mrs. Margaret E. Pevton shows that under the surface people have not changed much in the past twenty, thirty or forty years.

About a hundred persons were present and it would not be too much to say that they all enjoyed themselves immensely; further, we are confident that the first thought of all those people was for Mrs. Pevton, and their greatest enjoyment came from feeling that she was happy.

Entertainments of this kind were the order of the day some years ago, but lately a great many people had begun to think that Sunday school members had become, like many of us, worldly-minded to the point where school or teacher meant little to them.

But Tuesday night showed that there was no ground for such a belief. The attendance indicated interest, both in Mrs. Pevton and in what she has stood for, in these many years, Christianity and Christian teaching in the church school.

To be beloved as this woman is, by the members of her Sunday school class, and to be held in the high esteem and regard by all members of the community in which she has lived her life, as she is held, is better than riches and better than any other honors that could be given to her.

May she be given strength to continue her good work, and continue to grow in Grace!

OUR CONGRESSMAN GETS THINGS DONE

Hardly a week passes but that some bureau of the government announces that a program of dredging, or harbor improvement, or building, or something of value, sponsored by Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough, has been O. K'd and that work will be started soon.

Our Congressman has not won recognition in Congress as one of the hardest workers there without working. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to secure appropriations of government funds for the various improvements communities in his district have asked for. HE HAS BEEN SUCCESSFUL, in most cases, IN GETTING THESE FUNDS APPROPRIATED!

The value to a district of its Congressman consists not alone in his willingness to do things but also DEPENDS UPON HIS ABILITY TO GET THINGS DONE! In the very highest percentage of cases, Congressman Goldsborough HAS GOTTEN THINGS DONE!

So, is it expected that the people of the First Congressional District will swap Congressman Goldsborough, A MAN WHO GETS THINGS DONE, for another man who may be willing BUT CAN'T PRODUCE RESULTS? NO!

Letters To The President

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Somewhere-in-the-West, Dear Mr. President:

I am well and hope you are the same. Well, Mr. President, I see that you are still travelling out there in the west, looking over them farms where they ain't had enough rain to wash out a pocket handkerchief for weeks and everything, including the grasshoppers, is either dead or dying, except the people, and they are just hanging around because they don't know where to go if they leave, and even if you don't see how them people are making or going to make from the government, why, they will be Americans owing the money to Americans, which is a lot different from them European countries owing us money that they won't pay, so just because there is some doubt about their ability to pay it all back ain't no reason right now why we should not help them people who have been hit so hard by the drought, and there is another thing to remember, and that is that people who have been living in one spot for a long time, where their children have been born, and some of their folks has been buried, ain't in a hurry to move out to some other place even if things is down near starvation and they should be allowed to stay where they are if there is any possibility that they may be able to make a living a little later on when the rains do come.

Mr. President, that was a bad incident the other day when a Spanish airplane bombed one of our war ships, and our warship shot right back at the airplane, and it was a good thing that neither side in the shooting hit anything because it might have developed a good deal of unpleasantness, and me and the boys are still proud of that ship of ours, but we hope that all of our ships can be taken out of the trouble zone right soon because we don't want no trouble with them people say over in Europe, and if one of them bombs had hit our ship and blew her up there would have gone up a cry all over the country like "Remember the Maine," and the first thing we knew we would have been in another war over something that we didn't want to fight about anyway, and if there is any way to get our warships away from there and keep them way, why, we oughta do it.

As you know, Mr. President, I am always looking out for your interests, and I can report that there is a definite tide toward you in this section where some weeks ago it seemed like it was all slack water and nobody could tell when the tide was going to start or in which direction it was going to run, but now it is making headway in your direction, and by the time November rolls around, why, this section of the country will be for you strong, and anyway, with things as good in a business way as they are and with the farmers most all having some money in their pockets again, why, it is going to take a lot of real slick talking to get people to vote against you and so far the talking that has been done ain't convinced many people that your opponent can do anything any better than it is being done, and unless all signs fail you will get a good majority of the votes here at election time.

Now Mr. President, I see that they are sending out a lot of your and Mr. Garner's pictures, and some buttons, and etc., but so far me and the boys have not heard from headquarters about any money for the campaign, and as old man Bibbins, the store keeper, says, "you can't hardly expect politics to warm up in season, when the oysters come back in season, when the deal out to the hired hands," and we want that you will take this matter up with whoever is handling the campaign funds and tell them that we are waiting patiently, all pepped up and ready to go, but that we need some funds to get started with and that the sooner we get started the further we can go and you know, Mr. President, you may need all the votes you can get, so don't overlook this important matter any longer.

We have organized a Woman's Auxiliary down here right lately, with Aunt Sophronia Haywire as the president, and Mr. President, we can't quite make up our minds right yet whether it was a good move or not, on account, Zeb Whitaker's wife joined and after the first meeting some of the good sisters told her of some of Zeb's carry' ons, and she has made Zeb sleep in the wood shed every since, and we are a little fearful that Miss Whitaker's action is only the beginning of what may prove to be a embarrassing program to us men voters, and it might be a mistake to have women in politics after all, but maybe we can get this situation ironed out before it gets entirely out of hand. Hoping you are the same and with best regards from me and the boys, I am, Democratically and oratorically yours, Juniper Tarr.

P. S.—I see, Mr. President, again, where you are going to balance the budget by 1938 and nobody will be prouder than me and the boys when this is done because we have had a hard time getting along while it was unbalanced and we were getting a little bit afraid that somebody else might get the job of balancing it before you did—maybe Mr. Gov. Landon.

TREASURE AND TRASH

The Forest By Moonlight

How sweet and solemn is the midnight scene!

The silver moon unclouded holds her way Through skies where I could count each little star:

The fanning west wind scarcely stirs the leaves; The river, rushing o'er its pebbled bed, Imposes silence with a stilly sound. In such a place as this, in such an hour,

If ancestry in aught can be believed, Descending spirits have conversed with man, And told the secrets of the world unknown. —John Home.

The Ocean

Roll on, thou deep and dark blue Ocean—roll!

Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain;

Man marks the earth with ruin—his control Stops with the shore;—upon the watery plain

The wrecks are all thy deed, nor doth remain A shadow of man's ravage, save his own,

When, for a moment, like a drop of rain, He sinks into thy depths with bubbling groan,

Without a grave, unknell'd, uncoffined and unknown. —Lord Byron.

A crab caught on Saturday that had two biters on one claw. As a rule, one biter on the end of a crab's claw is sufficient for it to work with and make the ordinary individual be careful, but to supply a crab with two biters looks like persecution, and there oughta be a law. However, on close examination it was found that while both sets of biters were fully formed, only one set would work—the other set evidently having been grown for moral effect only.

Seeing the machinery unloaded for work on the sewerage system that will be put in Crisfield. The comments were varied, because the machinery was fairly well rusted in places: some wondered if it would do the work; others said it was all right; meanwhile the contractor's men went about unloading it like it was all in a day's work, and this week will see the beginning of the installation of the sewerage about which Crisfield people have talked for a great many years.

To the astonishment and confounding of many critics the curb and gutter work resumed this week on Somerset avenue. The multitudinous conversations held about this project, the bets made, most of them thin as air, that it would not be resumed after the men were taken off it some weeks ago, show just about how much effort is expended by a part of the populace damning something they could not accomplish themselves, and feelingly doubt its accomplishment by others. But here it is—actually being done.

Step right up, lad-i-e-e-a and gentlemen, and see the most astounding, colossal, stupendous aggregation and conglomeration of wonders gathered from all parts of the known world! There is a carnival in town—sponsored by the Knights of Pythians—and so this week a sort of circus atmosphere has pervaded parts of our fair city. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

About fifty years ago aluminum was worth more than $500.00 a pound; while today it is worth about 21 cents and you can buy a pretty dandy little aluminum pan in any ten cent store in the land.

September, the "R" month, when oysters come back in season, when the leaves begin to fall, reminding us of the quiet time to come, Winter. Just now the poinsettias are blooming and the beauty and perfectness of them would seem to indicate that days like the present will last always. There are a number of the blooming shrubs on Main street and their gorgeousness adds more color to the risk of color.

Other Fall flowers are showing in the yards on that thoroughfare. Soon they will be gone; Nature will pull up the drab blanket of Winter and take a rest until Spring, and we shall be just as delighted, just as surprised and just as thankful for the yellow Spring flowers when we see them again as we are now pleased with the very lovely array of Fall flowers that are blooming so profusely in many sections of the community.

Charles Richardson's talks of his travels, appearing in the "Times", and speaking this week of New Orleans he breaks into poetry or rhyme, which is not really bad in itself, but might be an indication. An indication of what? Well, several things. They say the "cawn" liquor of the Tennessee hills will make a rabbit chase a bull dog, and the mint julep that Charles imbibed may be responsible for the rhyming, but then again, where there are "bits of France and Spain, and an individual style," anything can happen that might cause poetry to ooze out of a fellow's mind and Charles may be paying tribute to the atmosphere or to something he saw there more substantial.

The old fashioned fun of "skipping" oyster and clam shells on the water. Remember when you held the shell in your hand and tried to make it skip offener and farther than the other fellows? Must have a tournament some time—with prizes.

PLAIN ENGLISH

By W. NOTFILC EZID

(Uncle Ezid)

1. This week we heard a stranger say that there were more automobiles in Crisfield per population than there are in Philadelphia. It may be true as it seems that nearly every family here has some kind of a car. And by the way—it won't be long (if the present building of filling-stations continue) before there will be a filling station for each and every automobile. The old horse and buggy days are gone. Rarely do we ever see a horse-drawn vehicle on our streets these days. If so it is almost a curiosity. Below is an appropriate verse for our present era:

A horsefly flew in a stable door Where he'd been welcome years before; He lit on the tail of a Chevrolet And the backfire took his breath away.

—Anonymous.

2. A resident of Crisfield accosted us on this street this week and had the following to say: "Have you been to Salisbury lately? Ain't that town wide-awake, a hustle and bustling little city? Did you notice the activity and improvements being carried on in that town which in only a few more years, will be the biggest town on the DelMarVa Peninsula? And just to think Salisbury is only about thirty-five miles from Crisfield—it doesn't seem possible that such activity can be going on at such a short distance away, while here at Crisfield are still waiting for something to turn up, for instance, New State Roads, factories, ferries, etc. Salisbury is spending on their municipal park more than half what we are spending on a sewerage system which should have been installed twenty-five years ago. Would we build a municipal park or anything for the benefit of our citizens in the way of pleasure or an improvement to our city? Would we spend money on anything to beautify our town in order to make it a better place to live in? The vote on the sewerage system sometime ago answers those questions. We do not believe in public improvement. We do not believe in the future either. All we Crisfielders are thinking of is TODAY. We didn't even think we were going to have a new postoffice building here at one time. Remember the argument that was going around at the time. Everybody that owned a corner lot in Crisfield wanted the Postoffice built on their lot. If it wasn't built on THEIR lot they didn't give a hoot whether or not it was built in Crisfield at all. Those who had sites down town wanted it down-town. Those that had sites uptown, wanted it uptown. We have had several places in Crisfield which with a little cooperation would really have been places of beauty and an improvement to our town, but the people, the public, gave no encouragement to the idea, and they soon faded away. Take the Corbin Mausoleum for instance—a fine structure and a credit to the town. It would have been a place of beauty but vandals from among our nativity desecrated the building, just for the fun of it. 'Tis sad brother, but we don't believe much in public improvements."

3. Have you noticed how many tablets, composition books and pencils, the kids have 'o have nowadays when they start off to school? When we went to school back there in 'ye old days, we used a slate and a slate pencil which we kept for two years, providing we didn't break it. We sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be just as cheap to send the youngsters to Yale or Harvard then to send them to the present day public school. Which reminds us of this one: The pretty teacher was drawing an antlered deer on the black board. When it was finished she turned to little Willie. "What is the name of the animal I have drawn?" she asked. "I don't know mam," said Willie after a careful scrutiny. "Oh come now Willie, what does your mother call your daddy?" "Heck!" said Willie. "Jackasses don't have horns."

4. When the Dan Rice Brothers Circus was in Crisfield recently a small boy who was accompanied by his younger brother was seen pointing out the elephant to his wee bit of a brother. The elder boy said, "Do you see that thing hanging down in front of that elephant? Well that's what you will get if you keep picking your nose."

5. An inferiority complex is said to be the feeling that sweeps over a notorious hold-up man when he gets his check in a night-club. It is then he realizes, as an expert hold-up, what a duffer he has been.

6. During the millennium when Prosperity's sun shone benevolently, great financial structures hoisted their gorgeous trappings and serenely sailed on the tranquil financial era. During that prophetic period of "a chicken in every pot", a garage with every home and two cars in every garage, a storm broke in October 1929 with a deluge of downpouring stock value that lashed the sea of finance into a turbulence that rocked every financial industrial, social and economic ship afloat. The entire fleet was gravely threatened. During this great convulsion many hardy mariners went "down in the deep". Great structures of commerce and trade sank, others torn from their mooring drifted helplessly. Sturdy—believed unsinkable—galleons, founded, going down—all on board. Stately ships and great financial steamers of the line were devoured by the storm and disappeared, leaving

CONCERNING VACATIONS

By CHAS. F. RICHARDSON

New Orleans is noted for its famous restaurants, so after a good rest our first job is to select one for dinner. Frog Legs at Gluck's, no we have been there, so tonight its to be Arnolds for Pompano, here we find waiters and cuisine typical Parisian. As Wallace ordered I looked around at the other patrons and my gaze centered on a worldly and sophisticated man with a little black mustache, as I looked one of the stiff backed waiters placed before him a platter ablaze with a lovely blue flame, it was all I could do to refrain from yelling over and asking, "Hey Buddy, what's that you've got?" but being a well bred Eastern Shoreman of course I refrained from such uncouth procedure, I simply gave a correct little cough and dabbed daintily at my lips with my napkin. Maybe I did give a quick glance now and then to see if there would be anything left after the blaze went out but what of it? When our waiter brought the Pompano we had ordered and busied himself deftly cutting the thick paper in which it was cooked I happened to catch this same gentleman stealing a curious look, giving him one of those "how daughty stares that seem to say 'How did you get in here?' I was gratified to see the sheepish look on his face and felt a hundred percent better. Just one of those get even boys I am at heart. All nonsense laid aside Arnolds is really a grand old place and I will long remember the delightful meal we had there.

Leaving Arnolds the next stop is almost compulsory, the old Absinthe House wherein is the oldest bar in America and no one wants to leave New Orleans without standing at the famous old bar and drinking one of its equally famous Absinthe Frappes. In the large book which the affable Pierre keeps there are names of the notables of the world who have passed through the doors of this establishment. In the place where it says favorite drink I was surprised to find in some places Coca-Cola. From Pierres its up to the individual where you choose to go, if you care to take a chance with lady luck you can do so, its possible you may prefer to take in a show or a movie or maybe simply to meander along the streets of Vieux Carré with the stars shining over head. At any rate you will end up at the old French Market drinking its world famous coffee, then to the hotel and bed.

The window of our hotel room afforded a lovely view of the city and as I gazed down at it the next morning bathed in the sunlight of this mid summer day I said to myself that here indeed was a city different from any I had heretofore visited. So lets leave New Orleans with this little verse which I composed:

Blend of modern and of old That's New Orleans. Bit of France and Spain they stole That's New Orleans.

Where they greet you with a smile Where there's everything worth while Where there's the individual style That's New Orleans.

Where the Mississippi flows That's New Orleans Where the folks are on their toes That's New Orleans

Where you find that life is grand Work and play go hand and hand Nothing like it in the land That's New Orleans.

Where the skies are always blue That's New Orleans Where there's room enough for you That's New Orleans.

Where they've learned the art of play Tho industrious day by day Where you'd like to go and stay That's New Orleans.

After leaving New Orleans we decided to run up to the late Huey Long's town Baton Rouge and inspect the marvelous Capitol Huey built there. I can say this, if we ever decide to do away with our Capitol building at Washington the one down at Baton Rouge will fit in very nicely. Rising majestically, I would say twenty-five or thirty stories, it is something the folks of Louisiana can point to with pride. From the ob-anguish, suffering, poverty, hopelessness and misery in their wake. Do you remember those trying days or have you forgotten those few short seven years ago? But now after those seven years there seems to be a decided change. During the last four years we have had a new Captain standing on the bridge of the good ship "U.S.A." Have you noticed that the storm has greatly abated, practically over. Now that the storm has subsided and a natural recovery is in evidence everywhere the time is propitious for an enthusiastic demonstration in honor of the Captain who brought the ship out of the storm. As a mark of our appreciation and esteem we suggest that a day be set aside on which we should show our thanks, appreciation or whatever you may call it, first to our God above us and next to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, the Captain who stood at the helm of our ship of state and brought her safely through the storm.

EDITOR PRESENTED WITH JAR OF PICKLED PEACHES

They Probably Will Be Our Favorite Dish In Future

The editor of the "Times" was presented with a jar of pickled peaches this week that were put up by Mrs. Benjamin F. Sterling, and while we have not sampled them yet, from the looks of the fruit, a most pleasurable experience is in store for us. We don't know what pickled peaches taste like, but these have got to be good, because they look so good, and we shall in all probability fall for them so hard that every peach season our neck will be stretched and our eyes will be strained, looking for more of the same.

Several years ago Mrs. Sterling presented a jar of this kind of peaches to an employee of the "The Times" office who hailed from Pocomoke City, and he was so impressed with their beauty that he entered them as an exhibit in the Pocomoke Fair that year. They won first prize, much to Mrs. Sterling's astonishment.

This jar that we have is even prettier than the jar that won the prize. It has a golden beauty that is a delight to the eye and when we contemplate the perfect peaches surrounded by what looks like liquid sunshine we are tempted to open the can, and of course, soon we shall yield to temptation. Thanks, Mrs. Sterling, for the fruit, and also for the thought that caused you to send it to us!

PARTY FROM CCC CAMP HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Looking For Material For Helping Make Rock Garden

A party of the boys from the CCC camp at Westover, including the Educational Adviser, Malcolm Sterling, Dr. Wohl and Mr. Gill, were in Crisfield Wednesday looking for some oyster shells with which to help build a rock garden at the camp.

Dr. Wohl is a New Yorker, while Mr. Gill comes from Cuba, and each of them likes the Eastern Shore very well.

Efforts to beautify the camp have been successful in wonderfully improving its appearance, and the proposed rock garden will be a part of a planned landscaping project that includes a sort of sun-burst flower layout in the midst surrounding shrubbery at the camp.

servation platform in the top, the country surrounding it can be seen for miles and miles. Just in front of the Capitol and in the center of the beautifully landscaped grounds is the tomb of Huey Long, at night from the top of the Capitol building a searchlight plays upon it enabling those who look to read this inscription:

Sleep on dear friend And take your rest They mourn you most Who loved you best.

Going through this five million dollar building one is amazed at its splendor and luxurious decorations and appointments. In one corridor there is a huge star set in the floor marking the spot where Long fell, the victim of the assassin's bullet.

We crossed the Mississippi here on one of the old Mississippi ferry boats, and from the looks of it, it must have been built when Mark Twain was a boy. Standing looking at the old river, I was suddenly accosted by a young fellow that looked a little down on his luck. "Say Fella, I see by your car tags that you are from Maryland", he said. After admitting that I was I found out that he too was an Eastern Shoreman from Rock Hall, that he was on his way to seek employment on one of the government flood projects down that way and that he had served time with a boy from Crisfield that I know for hobnobbing. Well when you meet an Eastern Shoreman a thousand miles from home you are going to help him if you can. He was such a youngster too, so we gave him a lift, during the time he was with us he told many interesting things that these knights of the road encounter, and how so many had disappeared since Roosevelt started the C. C. C. Camps. When he got out of the car I gave him a package of cigarettes and some change and as he started off through the Louisiana twilight I couldn't help but think that somewhere back in Maryland maybe someone was wondering where and how he was. I wonder how many thousands of young fellows like this one the Civilian Conservation Corps has taken from the streets and highways of our country, clothed, fed and given useful occupation. How many youths through restoring their moral and self-confidence they have helped avoid the path that leads finally to lawlessness and handiarity. In how many thousands of homes today can parents of young boys rest easily with the knowledge that their children are well cared for, disciplined and being instructed in things that when the time comes the Citizens Conservation Corps is no longer necessary, will enable them to go out in life far better equipped to shoulder responsibility that if they had been forgotten and left to their own resources to wander about in idleness. Surely the protection of our young manhood can not be measured in dollars and cents, and to you Mr. President I take off my hat for your Civilian Conservation Camps.

Special Important Notice

Much has been advertised in the last few weeks about Ambulance Service. For several years we refused all calls of that kind because we did not consider it sanitary or proper to carry the sick in our Hearse as others were doing. A touring car was a poor substitute, so we got a sedan delivery, which was neither a dead wagon or hearse but ideal for ambulance cot and patient but not so good for passengers.

Now I have a car built by Sayers & Scovill of Cincinnati, Ohio, the largest makers of ambulances in America. Built especially for invalid use, plenty of room and comfort. There is no reason for free ambulance service, only an advertisement for other business. I have undoubtedly given more free service in the forty-five years I have been a Funeral Director, than anyone on the Shore, and if Crisfield is to have free service to and from the local Hospital there is no reason why our neighbors should not enjoy the same privilege. Therefore, we shall extend free service up to Marion, and realizing how painful it must be for sick people on the Islands to be carried from home to boat and from boat to wharf I will lend to such people an adjustable cot on which they can be placed and remain there until they reach the Hospital.

With the addition of a new Hearse and our staff of workers we are prepared for any emergency. Our lady assistant for women and children can't be beat. We have lately added to our force Mr. John R. Corbin, Jr., a competent young man of good habits, refined and intelligent, who is willing to serve our clients to the best of his ability. When in need of our service call 120 from 5 P. M. to 8 A. M. from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. call 146.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept 1.—Hollywood's football season is under way today. Long before America's leading colleges clash on the gridiron and members of outstanding eleven fight for positions on the mythical All-American, cameras are catching motion picture huskies galloping valiantly down film capital fields for winning touchdowns.

Three studios are already filming football classics. Paramount's 1936 gridiron production will be "Rome Bowl." Radio presents "The Big Game." 20th Century-Fox is mixing football and music to the tune of "Pigskin Parade." Universal and M.G.M. are planning as yet untitled tales of collegians in molestines.

ON THE SET: Of the new Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy film "Maytime" you can hear Nelson Eddy singing an aria from "La Tosca." It's only a rehearsal for he's in his shirt sleeves just like the members of the large concert orchestra. This marks the first time in pictures that both will sing numbers from famous operas.

Nelson Eddy tells me that they're releasing one of his first pictures again in which he only had a bit. That of "Dancing Lady" which starred Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, and Franchot Tone. A surprising bit is that Fred Astaire was brought out from Broadway by M-G-M and played the dancer opposite Miss Crawford in this vehicle and still no one at this studio saw his possibilities.

After a whispering conference Sigmond Romberg and Director Edmund Goulding came over to greet us. In case you didn't know—Mr. Romberg is supervising the picture from the musical end and he had this to say, "Maytime will be the finest operetta the screen ever turned out, it will even top 'Naughty Marietta,'" he said.

If you thought the "Pretty Girl" set in "The Great Ziegfeld" was great you should see the present set at M-G-M which is being used for the "Swinging the Jinx Away" number in the forthcoming Eleanor Powell musical "Born to Dance." It even tops the very gorgeous number in the new Marion Davies picture "Cain and Mabel." Cedric Gibbons, husband of Dolores Del Rio and art director, told me yesterday when I visited the set that it weighed more than 120 tons and is 25 feet higher and 15 feet wider than the elaborate one in "The Great Ziegfeld," which was said to be the largest musical set ever built in Hollywood.

It took several weeks work with men working on a 24-hour shift to construct the set which will serve as background for Miss Powell, Virginia Bruce, Frances Langford, Una Merkel, Buddy Egan, James Stewart and Sid Silvers.

FASHIONS BY HAZEL MAY:
Hollywood's actresses who set the style pace are now seen with evening hats in fact to be smartly costumed you must have one.—The newest formal this season completely forsakes sophistication for romance.—It was of white satin made with a bodice and a high back balanced by a low heart shaped front décolletage.—The lowest point of the décolletage is accented by flaming red flowers that seem to add more romance.—A small hat of the same flowers to match.—Also red sandals.—This will make a grand entrance at your first party this fall.—Shoes like hats are complimentary to a costume and both should be conspicuous.—Actresses are always shoe conscious. In evening try to have your shoes and hat match.—For streetwear all accessories must match.—Avacade green, burgundy, and warm russets are the new shades for fall streetwear.—

Tweeds in these shades are very smart for Swagger suits.

FILMTOWN WHISPERS: The Eleanore Whitney-Tom Brown romance getting warmer... the two are getting everywhere together... which makes that watch which Tom gave Toby Wing sort of like a parting gift... Ketti Gallian insists her romance with Jack Dunn, is off.

Yes, girls, that's Mary Ann Jones, who strokes Gary Cooper's hair about 50 times a day—and gets paid for it. As Wild Bill Hickok in DeMille's "The Plainsman," Cooper is making the sporting gesture toward the Indians that history reveals all the early scouts made—wearing his hair long so that the Sioux and Cheyennes will have as fair a chance at his scalp as he has at theirs. So Mary Ann is assigned to keep his locks in order. Some people have all the luck!

Here's some record! Did you know that Flora Finch, one of America's first screen comedienne, is appearing in her one-thousandth picture this week, the two reel musical comedy, "No Place Like Rome?"

INSIDE GOSSIP: The Hollywood film couple thinking of eloping to Yuma is Ann Sothern and Roger Pryor.

WHAT male actor imported from a foreign country with an accent has been seen lately at the late spots with a new actress who has the distinction of being the only girl in Hollywood with one word as her stage name? The gossip comes from the fact that his steady girl friend has been away. That's all for today. Until next week I remain your Hollywood correspondent who says "some girls marry for money, but most marry for a fancy figure!"

HEY MOTORISTS LISTEN!
UP IN THE ATTIC!
By THE LITTLE ENGINEER

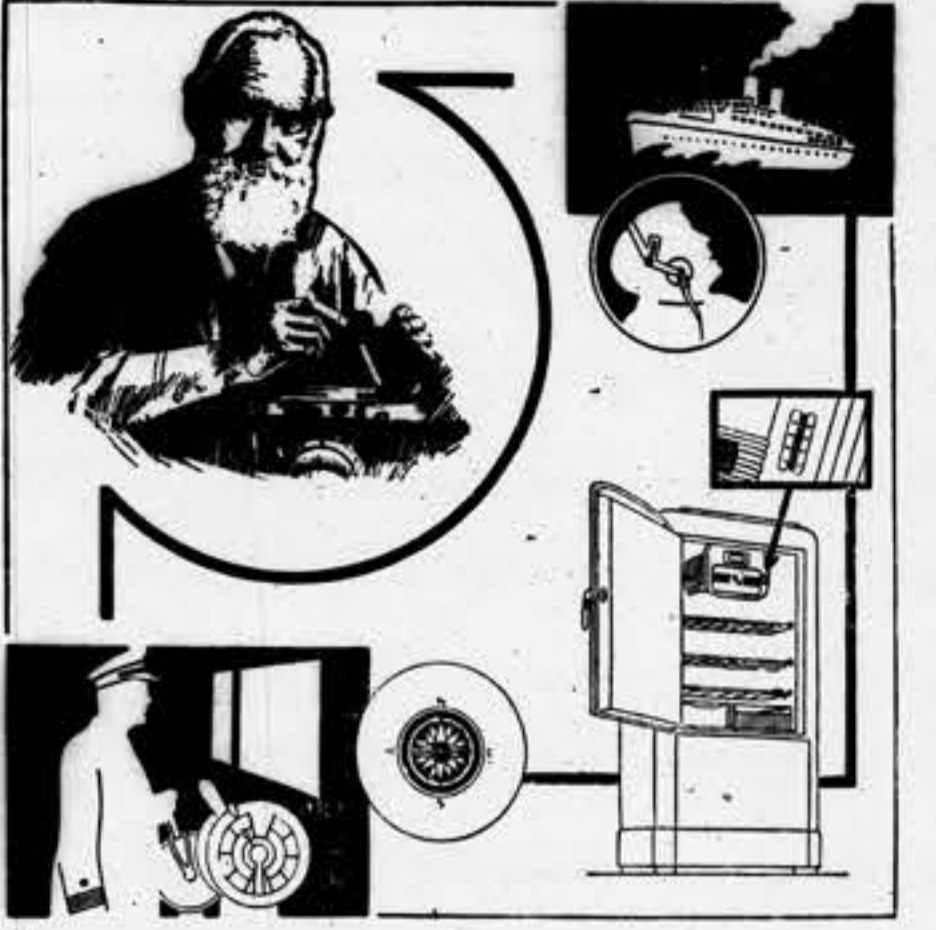

THE attic of your motor is the top of the cylinders. Carbon is the equivalent of cobwebs and dust. An untidy car attic means loss of power, sluggishness on hills, slow pickup and expensive damage to valves, cylinders and other parts. Here's how:

Carbon is a natural product of combustion. Every time your engine "combusts"—and it "combusts" thousands of times a minute—the flame produced by the spark plug in each cylinder sets fire to the mixture of gasoline and air and liberates countless tiny specks of carbon which are supposed to pass by the valves. If one of these specks stops for a second on the seat of the valve, the valve itself comes down on it and squashes it into the valve seat causing a "pitting." And when thousands of little specks do this your valves get so "pitted" that they cannot close properly, your engine loses compression (power) and eventually your valves are burned and have to be replaced at considerable expense.

Most of this, of course, is all unnecessary. Careful motorists avoid it by providing "top cylinder lubrication." This can best be done by using one of the well-known advertised gasolines containing a top cylinder lubricant and a carbon solvent which will greatly reduce the ability of carbon to damage the engine of that nice car of yours.

An untidy car attic is more costly than a neglected house attic.

Anniversary of Birth Recalls Lord Kelvin's Services to Science

LORD KELVIN, who put science to work for humanity, was born 112 years ago. No ceremonies are needed to commemorate his birth. Every cablegram that is sent, every mechanical refrigerator, every ship at sea—the age of electricity itself—are memorials to his greatness.

Lord Kelvin formulated the laws of thermodynamics, making possible the development of the mechanical refrigerator, in recognition of which, Kelvinator Corporation, pioneer in electric refrigerator manufacture in the United States named their product and organization in his honor. Scientists in the field of thermodynamics refer to absolute zero as zero degrees Kelvin, measuring all changes in temperature on the Kelvin scale.

Lord Kelvin developed the first instruments for measuring electricity, the electrometers and electric current balances.

When the Atlantic Telegraph Company was formed to lay the first trans Atlantic cable, Lord Kelvin was placed on the board of directors. The job proved too difficult for the engineers, so the brilliant English scientist showed them how it should be done.

The problem of safety at sea interested Lord Kelvin greatly. Compasses were not very accurate in those days. So Lord Kelvin created a compass based on entirely new principles. This compass, though modified somewhat, is still in use today.

Lord Kelvin's major interest, however, was in the study of heat—the science of thermodynamics. So great was his recognition of the importance of temperature, his biographers report, that he always carried a thermometer in his vest pocket. It enabled him to know, among other things, whether the room in which he sat was being kept at proper temperature for maximum efficiency, just as the built-in thermometer in every Kelvinator enables the housewife to know if her food is being kept at the proper temperature for maximum safety.

Lord Kelvin was born in Belfast, Ireland on June 26, 1824. He died on December 17, 1907 and was buried in Westminster Abbey. On his death, Sir Richard Glazebrook said: "In the century that has passed the progress of the world has been great; and toward that progress there were few men—may I say there was no man—who contributed more than Lord Kelvin."

As the major American agency engaged in overseas rehabilitation work, it has expended $37,000,000 alone in behalf of Jews in eastern Europe. For 1936 this committee, from funds raised by voluntary contributions, will expend $1,150,000 in that territory.

Generally speaking, the longer a crude has been mellowing and filtering in the earth, the tougher the lubricating film it will provide. Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils each give a lubricating film that is ten times tougher than your engine normally requires.

Men's Cooking Class at Gas Co. Taught Art of Jelly Making

SOMETHING new under the sun is the men's cooking class organized by a big gas company in New York City to equip their sales force with practical knowledge of housewives' problems. Forty salesmen were divided into five groups and each week-day morning, from 10 to 12, Francis McBeath, head of the home economics division, instructed them in such practical tasks as broiling steaks, cooking vegetables and baking simple cakes.

Early in the summer, one of the lessons covered jelly making. To be sure, Miss McBeath taught the modern, rapid boil method. Can you imagine men making jelly the old way, watching over the long, tedious boiling of fruit juices? Well, hurry!

The men were surprised to find jelly making such a simple thing completed in so little time. The fruit was prepared rapidly, measured, sugar added, the combined ingredients set on the gas stove, the boil timed—only 1/2 minute—and presto, the jelly was ready to be poured into glasses.

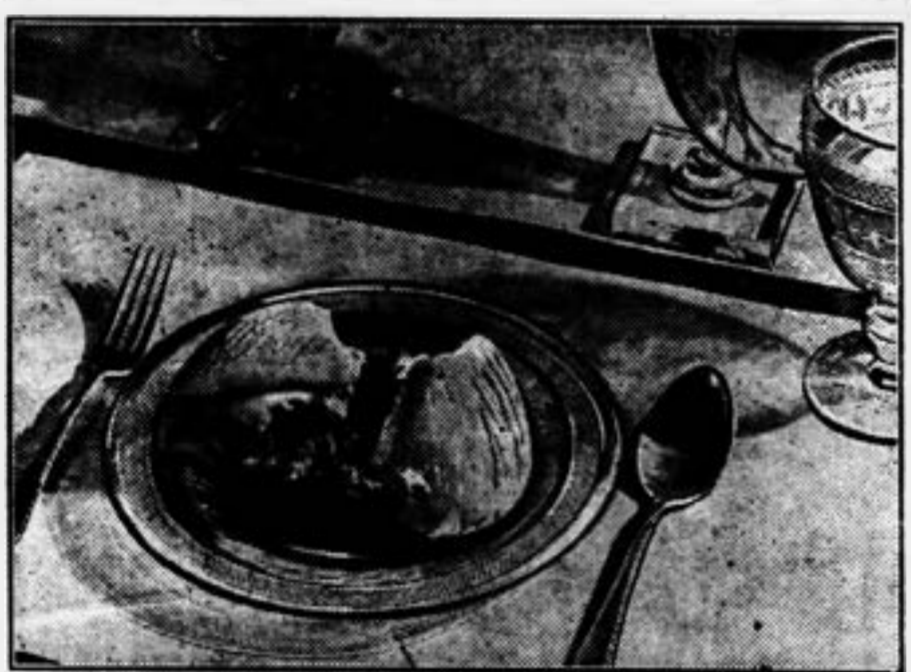

Miss McBeath was guided by these recipes:

Apricot and Blackberry Jam
3 1/2 cups (1 1/2 lbs.) prepared fruit
4 1/2 cups (2 lbs.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
To prepare fruit, pit (do not peel) about 1 pound fully ripe apricots. Cut into small pieces and crush thoroughly or grind. Crush thoroughly or grind about 1 quart fully ripe blackberries. Combine fruits. Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5-to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, 1/4 teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 8 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Mint Jelly

1/2 cup apple vinegar
Green coloring
3 1/2 cups (1 1/2 lbs.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon spearmint extract
To prepare tea, pour about 2 1/2 cups boiling water over 2 teaspoons tea leaves, steep 3 minutes, and strain.
Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure tea and vinegar into a 2- to 3-quart saucepan and add green coloring to give desired shade. Use coloring which fruit acids do not fade. Place over hottest fire, add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, add spearmint, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. A Simple Three-In-One Dessert

Director, Sealtest Laboratory Kitchens

WITH fine berries of many sorts now available at the markets—with delicious ice creams providing a variety of flavors—we've found in our kitchen a way to make and serve a "three-in-one" dessert that makes you ask for seconds, every time. Berries and ice cream in a pudding! Ask the men folks how that sounds to them and then try it out, tonight. It's really easy to make; wholesome and new! Use your own variations of this suggested recipe.

Blueberry Ice Cream Pudding
1 cup buttermilk
2 cups toasted bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg

2 eggs
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon water
1 cup blueberries
1/2 cup flour
Vanilla ice cream
Four the buttermilk over the bread crumbs. Cream together the butter and sugar and add the salt, nutmeg, well beaten eggs, lemon juice and soda dissolved in water. Combine the two mixtures and fold in the blueberries, sprinkled with the flour. Pour into a buttered square pan and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour. Cut in squares and serve while still warm with the ice cream. Serves 6 to 8.

The Rules Of Table Service

Setting the table is like drawing a picture. The family spends from one to two hours at the table for the three meals a day. It is of great importance, therefore, that the picture spread before them conforms to the laws of beauty in design. An attractive, well-set table is a background for good manners and a successful meal.

1. The set table must appear balanced. Dishes must be so placed that no spot is crowded, no side or end is over-balanced with dishes.
2. All the lines on the table should go across or lengthwise of the table. A diagonal line attracts attention, and should be avoided. Therefore, the handles of dishes, bread-and-butter spreaders, oyster forks, salt-and-pepper sets, must follow this rule. If round dollies are used, the threads should also be placed parallel to the edge of the table, not on a diagonal. All dishes, linen, and silver must be placed to follow this rule, or the effect is one of carelessness.
3. Dishes and serving silver must be placed for convenience. Do not put a dish of jelly or pickles so far toward the middle of the table that no one can reach it.
4. The silver, china, linen and glass put in a place for one person at the beginning of a meal are called "a cover." Each cover requires twenty to twenty-four inches of length and fifteen inches for depth. The cover should not be crowded, yet it must be a definite unit. This does not permit sprawling silverware and straying glasses and plates.
5. The table is set according to the type of service that is to be used. If there is no maid, set the table to make the service simple and easy. Avoid unnecessary steps. The service table is set with silver and dishes for the courses to follow. This is more simple than to go to the kitchen for everything.

6. All silver, china, and dishes for a cover are placed where they are most convenient, and so that the cover is a balanced unit.

KITCHEN AIDS

JUDGE is one confection of which every cook is apt to say—"now it does, now it doesn't." Here's one way to assure yourself of a pretty passable parcel of fudge, provided you cook it long enough. Refrain from the desire to get at the candy the moment you take it from the gas flame. Simply go away and leave it for ten minutes, or set the saucepan in a larger pan containing a little cold water, for a few minutes before beating. Cooled candy has smaller sugar crystals and finer texture in the finished product.

GUNNING SEASON OPENS THIS MONTH

Railbirds, Dove And Squirrels May Be Hunted In September

OPEN SEASONS AND RULES FOR ALL GAME ARE GIVEN

September marks the beginning of the gunning season in Maryland and the State Game Warden, E. Lee LeCompte, feels that full information as to the length of the season for each kind of game should be known to all hunters, as well as the bag limit, and State and Federal regulations.

There are a number of changes this year in the gunning season, and the Federal law and regulations take precedence over the State law and State regulations. This season it is unlawful to shoot canvas back or red-head ducks, and the ducking season runs from Nov. 26th to Dec. 25th, inclusive. It is also unlawful to have dead game in possession during closed season.

The regulations as issued follow: Open Seasons: Railbirds, Sept. 1 to Sept. 30, inclusive; Dove, Sept. 1 to Sept. 30, Nov. 15 to Dec. 31, inclusive; Squirrel, Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, Nov. 15 to Dec. 31, inclusive; (Garrett County, Oct. 1 to Oct. 31); Woodcock, Ring-necked, Mongolian or Mutant Pheasants; Ruffed Grouse; Rabbit; Wild Turkey; Partridge (Quail) Nov. 15 to Dec. 31, inclusive. (The open season on Woodcock, under Federal Regulations, which supersedes the State law, is Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, inclusive.)

Male Deer, with two or more points to one antler: Allegany County, Dec. 1 to Dec. 10, inclusive; Garrett County, Dec. 1 to Dec. 5, inclusive; Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, Dec. 1 to Dec. 15, inclusive.

Raccoon and Opossum, Nov. 1 to January 31, inclusive.

Muskrat, Jan. 1 to Mar. 15, inclusive.

Exceptions: Unlawful to hunt squirrels in Garrett County except between Oct. 1 to Oct. 31.

Unlawful to kill female pheasants at anytime.

Unlawful to set any trap, net or snare (except box traps for rabbits) for the purpose of taking game except fur-bearing animals.

Unlawful to have dead game in possession during closed season.

Unlawful to hunt when the ground is covered with snow, except in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Unlawful to sell, offer for sale, wild waterfowl; partridge (Quail); pheasant; ruffed-grouse; wild turkey, or rabbit except the person killing a rabbit may sell same to a consumer in the county where the rabbit was killed for food. It cannot be offered for resale.

Unlawful to cut a tree to dislodge raccoon or opossum except with consent of owner.

Unlawful to set steel traps or other similar devices for the purpose of catching raccoon and opossum.

Unlawful to shoot muskrats, dig in to or destroy any part of a muskrat house or den.

Federal Regulations just released, after being signed by the President on Aug. 12, supersede the State laws, and provide an open season Nov. 26 to Dec. 25, inclusive, for wild waterfowl, and may be hunted, in season, from 7 A. M. to 4 P. M., standard time. (Jacksnipe between 7 A. M. and sunset).

Exceptions: The three-shell limit on repeating shot-guns in effect last year, is continued this season.

Hunters may use shot-guns not larger than No. 10 gauge and said gun must be plugged with metal or wood incapable of removing from the loading end thereof.

The 100-ft. regulation for the location of blinds has been eliminated. Therefore, the State law will take precedence.

Duck blinds cannot be erected in the water at a greater distance than 300 yards from shore, (except on certain areas). Unlawful to use a sink box.

Bushwhack rigs may be used where the state law provides for same.

Unlawful to bait or place food of any description which would lure, attract or entice wild waterfowl to the hunter.

Unlawful to shoot wild waterfowl while resting on land or water, except cripples not otherwise retrievable.

Unlawful to use directly, or indirectly, live decoys.

Unlawful to use airplane, powerboat, sailboat, or other device for the purpose of concentrating, driving or molesting wild waterfowl.

Unlawful to hunt, pursue, or kill snow geese; brant; wood-ducks; ruddy ducks; canvas back ducks; red-head ducks; buffal-head ducks and swan.

Bag Limits: Rabbit, 8; Squirrel, 25; Partridge (Quail), 10; Male Pheasant and Ruffed-Grouse, 2; not over 6 per season. Wild Turkey, 1, not over 4 per season. Male Deer, 1; not over 1 per season. Doves, 20.

Wild Ducks, 10; not more than 10 in possession at any one time. Wild Geese, 4; not more than 4 in possession at any one time. Jacksnipe, 18; not more than 15 in possession at any one time. Rails and Gallinules (except Sora and Coot), 15 in the possession of all kinds. Sora, 25, and life than he has lived, so generous. He is willing to give the crust of bread he has to the children of his daughter, but "why, O Lord, ain't there more bread for me and mine, when others is havin' plenty?"

To him Death would be a welcome visitor, into whose arms he would ease himself with smiling countenance and utter content, to be wafed, as he believes, "in the twinkling of an eye," to the footstool before the Throne of God where he could get down on his knees and looking right up in God's face tell his Lord and his Jesus all his troubles and be forever relieved of them.

His hunger and the hunger of his family was relieved on Monday. It will be taken care of, maybe, all the week. But there is no organization here now that will continue to look after the material welfare of this family until the sick daughter can get to work again. Winter is coming on. Think of the prospect these people face then. In addition to hunger, there will be the cold.

"A kind white woman gimme a sandwich. That's how I got the strength to get down here this mawnin'," said Alex. But who is going to give him and his wood and coal this winter?

Can you blame Alex Pinkney when he raises his almost sightless eyes to Heaven and laments: "I would be better off daid, but I can't die!"

CRISFIELD BOY TO BE MARRIED THIS SATURDAY

Robert W. Sterling And Miss Josephine Planz Will Wed

Announcement was made this week of the approaching marriage of Mr. Robert W. Sterling, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jerome Sterling, Jr., and Miss Josephine Planz, of Albany, N. Y.

The ceremony will be performed in the First Presbyterian Church in Albany this Saturday afternoon, September 5th, at four o'clock. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom will leave on a wedding trip. They are expected to visit Mr. Sterling's parents in Crisfield before returning to Albany, where they will make their future home.

AUGUST GOOD MONTH FOR THE PENNY A DAY CLUB

Nearly Seven Thousand Pennies Were Collected

Another great month for "The Penny A Day Club", of Asbury Church, has passed with six thousand, eight hundred and seventy-two pennies counted as the total amount for August. Mrs. Mary Beauchamp leads the Ladies group with over fourteen hundred, followed a close second by Aunt Mary Mason.

Big Lee Tyler leads the men with a total of twenty-four hundred, followed in second place by Elmer Riggins. All the other collectors made a fine report.

Do not put your pennies in the slot machines but save them for the Penny A Day Club and watch them grow in to dollars and Real Service for God.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAD SEVERAL WEEKEND CALLS

Ask Property Owners To Have Chimneys Inspected And Fixed

Members of the Crisfield Fire Department have had a busy weekend. Saturday evening an alarm was sounded for a fire of unknown origin back of the plant of the Crisfield Manufacturing Company on Chesapeake Avenue, which was extinguished without any loss.

Later the same evening the members of the department were called to the home of Mrs. Alice Webb, on Somerset Avenue, but here too, no loss of property resulted from the blaze.

Sunday night the department was called to a home on Paper street, where a lamp had exploded, but the loss here was slight.

With the approach of winter the department calls attention to the need for having chimneys inspected and repaired, as with the advent of cold weather chimney fires become prevalent and make many calls on the fire department that would be unnecessary if the property owner would make sure that the chimneys in his or her house, were in proper and safe condition.

Also, the rubbish and waste paper, about the premises should be gotten rid of. It should be hauled away or otherwise destroyed, as it is a constant and dangerous fire hazard as long as it remains close to the home.

Fire prevention week will be observed this year from October 4th to the 10th, and all property owners who have not done so before that time will then be especially asked to have their homes inspected for possible fire hazards, and where any are found, to have the matter remedied at once.

CRISFIELD MAN VISITS MARBLE EXHIBIT IN EAST

C. D. Briddell, Jr., Among Hundreds At Vermont Show

Mr. Charles D. Briddell, Jr., of the C. D. Briddell, Inc., manufacturing concern here, was a recent visitor to the educational exhibit dealing with marble at Proctor, Vermont, which this year has been the Mecca for tourists to the Green Mountain state. Since its opening on Decoration Day, nearly five thousand tourists from all parts of the United States and from many foreign countries have visited the Vermont marble exhibit. This year's exhibit is double the size it was last year when it was seen by 2,000 tourists from every state in the union except two and by foreign visitors who came as far as China and Japan. It is expected that 30,000 persons will visit the exhibit this year.

More than 60 different varieties of marble are on display, many of the examples being of brilliant coloring, causing the visitors to express astonishment that the natural product of the quarries should be of various shades of red, rose, green and other hues. Many visitors thought marble was prevailingly white.

LOCAL SALESMAN WINS HIGH AWARD

Ray Heaster Receives Nice Prize For Work

WAS ONE OF FIFTEEN WINNERS IN CONTEST

Not content with winning one of the intermediate prizes offered during the contest in which it was demonstrated who were the best gas range salesmen in the country, Mr. Ray Heaster, the genial, affable and persistent sales representative of the Gas Company here, comes forward now with other honors thick upon him and additional cash in his pocket.

When it is remembered that Ray has been in competition in selling gas ranges with men in every city in the country and with men in every part of the United States where gas is used, his feat in placing himself among the fifteen winners in his division to receive a cash prize of $25.00 is all the more remarkable, for after all, Crisfield is limited in opportunity for sales of gas equipment, and certainly Ray must have been on his toes at all times during the contest to get the results that he did get.

Stimulated by this cash award and by the admonition that he will sell even more gas ranges in the latter half of the year, Ray is working steadily to pile up another average on sales that will keep him among the topnotchers, and judging by his past performance, he will succeed.

The following letter was received by him this week and tells the story of Ray's success in placing gas ranges in homes in this territory:

AMERICAN GAS ASSOCIATION Gas Range Contest Committee

September 8, 1936

Mr. Ray R. Heaster Crisfield Light & Power Co. Crisfield, Maryland

You are to be congratulated on being one of the fifteen salesmen in your Division of the National Gas Range Sales Contest to win the $25.00 award for selling the greatest net dollar value of modern gas ranges throughout the entire Contest.

The Committee thanks you for your active participation in this program for more and better gas range sales.

We hope that this award will stimulate you to even greater sales during the remainder of the year.

Very truly yours, R. J. Rutherford, Chairman, Domestic Range Committee

FORMER SOMERSET RESIDENT IS DEAD

Mrs. Ella N. Parks Died in Cambridge Saturday

MRS. WILLIS STACEY PASSED AWAY FRIDAY

Mrs. Ella N. Parks, widow of the late Captain Grant Parks, died at her home on West Avenue, Cambridge, at noon on Saturday of last week. Although her health had been failing her condition was not considered serious until a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Parks, who was formerly Miss Ella N. Chelton, was born and spent her girlhood days in Fairmount. She attended the Fairmount Academy, later going under the private instruction of the late Rev. William H. Merrill. After finishing her education she was a tutor to the Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Anti-Saloon League.

At the age of twenty-one years, she was appointed as teacher to the Holland's Island school and remained in that capacity for three years, at the expiration of which she married Captain Grant Parks of the Island and there lived happily with her family.

In the time of the World's War, she was again appointed as teacher of the Holland's Island school, and taught during the years 1915, 1916 and 1917, and had the distinction of teaching her children, her grandchildren, her nephews and nieces. In 1918 she purchased a home in Cambridge, Md., where she made a host of friends.

She is survived by three sons, Mr. Lloyd Parks, of Crisfield; Mr. W. G. Parks and Mr. Irving M. Parks of Cambridge, Md. Five daughters, Mrs. P. H. Todd, Mrs. William Price, Mrs. R. C. Todd, of Cambridge, Md., and Mrs. L. L. Todd, and Mrs. E. H. Parks, of Crisfield. Three sisters, Mrs. Ernest Cox, of Fairmount, Mrs. W. E. Billmire, of Baltimore, and Mrs. J. H. Henderson, of Honger, Md., and one brother, Mr. H. F. Chelton, of Crisfield.

Funeral services were held at her home on Monday at 2:30 P. M. The Rev. C. W. Spry officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. T. S. Mulligan. As the service her favorite hymns were sung. Mrs. Willis Stacey, wife of Marion Stacey, of Crisfield, died at the McCready Memorial Hospital on Friday last from complication of diseases after a short illness. She was 30 years of age.

Mrs. Stacey was the daughter of the late Jackson Bradshaw, and Mrs. Sadie Tull Bradshaw, who survives. She was a young lady of lovely character and had many friends who held her in high esteem. The large number of floral tributes at the funeral attested to the esteem in which she was held.

She is survived by her husband, Marion Tracey, and one daughter, Willis. One sister, Mrs. Nina Lawson, of Lawsons, and three brothers, Coulbourne Bradshaw, Jackson Bradshaw, of Crisfield, and Paul Bradshaw, of Batavia, N. Y., and her grandmother, Mrs. Susan Tull, of Crisfield, also survive.

Officials Of Western Union Have Great Time On Fishing Trip Here

Last Saturday two of the officials of the Western Union Telegraph Company, Mr. Thomas W. Carroll, general manager, and Mr. R. C. Folger, assistant to the First Vice-President, both of New York City, enjoyed the day fishing in Tangier Sound.

They were accompanied by the local Western Union manager, C. Custis Cartwright, and went out on J. Millard Tawes yacht the "Pathfinder."

In the morning Millard acted as captain and guide, and in the afternoon his brother Marvin piloted the yacht and the party visited historic Tangier Island.

The fishing in the morning was great. The day was just made for the sport as there was just enough wind to make the Sound choppy without being rough, and enough sunshine to make the air balmy but not too hot. The party had a lot of sport pulling in the fine trout, mullet, headhams, and other fish, and then in the afternoon, after fishing awhile the yacht

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TURN DOWN PROPOSITION FOR BUILDING DITCH BANK

Mayor Bradshaw Broadcasts As W.F.B.R. Gives Salute To Crisfield

The salute program was held in honor of the stations sound float which toured the city several hours before the broadcast and then parked on Main street for several hours giving the residents of Crisfield who were not within reach of a radio at 12:35 noon a chance to hear the "Crisfield Salute Program." The float, a massive structure, displayed all of the products that are advertised over the station and also featured pictures of radio stars appearing on the red N. B.C. network, and W.F.B.R.

"Travelling with the float was James J. Booth, director; Joseph W. Shackley, assistant director; George N. Rogers, representing the promotion department of W.F.B.R., and Charles Fenhooper Laker, sound technician.

The salute to Crisfield concluded the months tours of W.F.B.R.'s sound float and the stations program of salute to the many enterprising towns in the great state of Maryland. Mr. Booth, director, said, "I was very well pleased with the cooperation that we received in Crisfield and wish to thank each and every resident of Crisfield on behalf of my crew and W.F.B.R. for a most enjoyable stay in 'The Sea Food Capitol of The United States.'"

LABOR LEADERS ARE BACKING ROOSEVELT

New York Federation Is For His Re-election

WORKERS ARE ALIVE TO CHANGED CONDITION

At its opening session at Syracuse last week the convention of the New York State Federation of Labor declared unanimously for the re-election of President Roosevelt and also endorsed the administration of Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

Supporting the resolution endorsing President Roosevelt, George Meany, President of the State Federation, emphasized the fact that President Roosevelt always has considered human rights paramount to property rights.

"No man in our nation's history," he said, "has ever accomplished more for our common citizenry and no man is better qualified to lead the way in the direction of a better day for those who toil. The workers of this State are fully alive to the changed conditions since 1932 and are completely convinced that these changes are due to the earnest and sincere efforts of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"His every effort has been for the abolition of industrial slavery and for the industrial freedom and advancement of the toilers of our country. His policy still remains that human rights are paramount to property rights."

The resolution endorsing President Roosevelt was signed by Mr. Meany, Joseph P. Ryan, vice-president and John M. O'Hanlon, secretary. Its text follows: "The New York State Federation of Labor, through the undersigned, its non-partisan political committee, in accordance with the duties imposed upon it, has made a survey and analysis of the records of the respective candidates for President of the United States of the several political parties and the committee, after such survey and analysis, is unanimously of the opinion that the hopes, aspirations, ambitions and future well-being of the working people of our State and nation is in the re-election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

COUNTY ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE LESS THAN $200.

Federal Government Ready To Spend More Than $7,000 On The Project

Tuesday afternoon the matter of sponsoring the building of the ditch banks in the lower section of Somerset county was broached to the County Commissioners by a representative of the Works Progress Administration and by several prominent Somerset citizens.

This was the regular meeting of the Board of County Commissioners and of course there are always many matters of importance to be considered, and it may be that is one of the reasons why the proposition, which means so much to a great many residents whose land is threatened by the salt water of the rivers and Sounds, was received coldly by the Commissioners.

As presented to the Board, the proposition was to build two miles of ditch bank, starting just below the S. W. Somers home at Cove Landing and running down to Jenkins Creek, near the old bridge, and then on to the Clarence Thornton home.

The cost of the project would be $7218.20, of which practically all would be spent for labor, as the only materials to buy would be materials with which to build the proper and necessary flood gates.

Of this amount, the County Commissioners were asked to contribute the sum of $172.00. The government would assume and pay the balance, $7109.20. In other words, for an expenditure by the county of $172.00, there would be spent in Crisfield and Asbury districts $7218.20, ninety per cent. of which would be paid for wages.

The first section of the ditch bank that it is proposed to build is more or less in the nature of an experiment to determine its cost and its value to the land it protects. It is calculated to cost about $3600.00 per mile, and is expected to afford protection to many hundreds of acres of good, arable land, that will, without doubt, be given up to the tide within a few years and become worthless unless some protection in the way of banks and flood gates is provided.

Commissioner W. Clyde Ford seemed favorable to the proposition and so expressed himself. The other two Commissioners, Mr. L. Cooper Dize and Mr. Frank Porter, while not absolutely turning the proposition down, did not give the petitioners any encouragement whatever that the money asked for and the sponsorship of the project, would be forthcoming.

However, the matter will be taken up again next week at the regular meeting of the Commissioners, and it may be that a decision to go ahead with this work will be made by the members of the Board. In the meantime there is considerable comment about the proposition, comment that is almost unanimous for the construction of the ditch banks.

Hollywood Star-Lites

By CHUCK COCHARD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—If you have often wondered how Hollywood romances have started here is one that had its beginning at a doorstep. Did you know that the first time Gene Raymond ever met Jeanette MacDonald she was standing on a doorstep, ringing a doorbell. It was at Rosika Dolly's party, about a year and a half ago. Both had come to the party alone, and happened to arrive together.

Strangely enough they met the second time at another party—that of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Swartz' residence—and each had come alone and arrived simultaneously. Jeanette again rang the doorbell. As they entered the hostess remarked: "So nice of you to come together." Jeanette and Gene looked at each other with amazement. Next time was at a preview. They met at the ticket office. A cameraman thought that they were together, snapped their picture, and the next day the papers announced a new romance.

However, the real romance didn't start until the next day when he called her on the telephone and said, "I think it would be a good idea if we both had a date to go to the same place together since we're supposed to be having a romance." She accepted and the list of eligible bachelors is beginning to dwindle away.

With the announcement that Jeanette will wed Gene as soon as her present "Maytime" is finished and the news of Henry Fonda's engagement to Mrs. George T. Brokaw, New York socialite, leaves James Stewart and Robert Taylor stand as the only Hollywood bachelors.

"KNOCK KNOCK!"

Anent the "knock-knock" craze, Joan Crawford pulled two nifties on Clark Gable, between scenes in "Love on the Run." Number one: "Knock, knock." "Who's There?" "Fanny." "Fanny Who?" "Fannyone calls I'm not at home."

She topped it with the following: "Knock, knock." "Who's There?" "Tarsan." "Tarsan Who?" "Tarsan stripes forever!" Even Greta Garbo was caught pulling one on the assistant director the other day. "Knock, knock." "Who's There?" "Greta." "Greta Who?" "Gretta long little doggie, Greta long!" Ho hum.

And speaking of "Love on the Run" Director W. S. Van Dyke shot two and a half days work on the first day which is some sort of a record. And incidentally Van Dyke besides being the fastest in the business is one of the best. "San Francisco" and "His Brother's Wife" are his most recent.

The "Stylescope" By Hazel May: "Girls here is the autumn style-scope!" Now that school days are approaching, we must get prepared for the fall semester. With all our school activities ahead we must not forget one important factor (clothes). Here are some of the outfits the younger set is wearing. One of the very smart dresses worn by Anne Shirley is a wool Scotch plaid tailored dress buttoned all the way down the front with a lay down collar of white pique. June Lang is thrilled over her newest ensemble which is a gray tailored suit with powder blue blouse and accessories. A gray swaggar felt hat with a blue quill on one side completed it. Wendy Barrie reveals the latest mode for fall in a pine green wool suit with double breasted hip-length jacket and a plain skirt. All the seams are stitched in gold thread and the jacket is accented by a gold buckle and gold filigree buttons. This makes a distinguished finish to the ensemble.

DO YOU KNOW: That Jean Harlow and Myrna Loy are introducing skirts three to four inches shorter in "Libeled Lady?"

CELLULOID MURMURS: Although Howard Hughes offered to fly Ginger Rogers to California from Manhattan, Ginger prefers to keep her dancing feet on the ground; no planes for her!... John Arledge escorting two Hollywood beauties, Madge Evans and Una Merkel, to dinner at the Trocadero... During Gene Raymond's recent trip to Wichita, Kansas, to play in a charity baseball game, he spent more money on telephone calls to Jeanette MacDonald than the cost of the entire trip... When Isabel Jewell weds Owen Crump, radio executive, in October, they'll buy a yacht to celebrate... That Eleanor Whitney-Johnny Downs romance hasn't cooled entirely even though Tom Brown is very, very much interested.

INSIDE GOSSIP: The handsome male actor imported from Prague, Czecholovakia, is Francis Lederer and his constant companion these days is Margo, the RKO actress.

WHAT foreign movie director in Hollywood whose name was linked romantically several times with the great Garbo has caused the gossips to start talking plenty? She's a brunette. That's all for today. Until next week I remain your Hollywood correspondent who says "girls who wink at kisses, kiss at a wink!"

EASTERN SHORE NEWS IN BRIEF

Items Gathered Here And There On The Peninsula

Children playing with matches, it is alleged, set fire to the barn on the Johnson farm, located between Middletown and Warwick, Tuesday afternoon. The children narrowly escaped with their lives. Mrs. Hazel Johnson saved her five-year old son, Fred, from being burned to death with the aid of her apron. The lad leaped from the loft of the burning barn into straw in the pound-yard. The straw had caught fire and Mrs. Johnson, holding her apron in front of her for protection, managed to get to her son and drag him to safety.

Winning every ribbon in three out of the four events open to experienced riders, a trio of 16-year-old girls topped the field Saturday in the sixth annual Quaker Neck Horsemanship Show, held at Rigg O'Marlow, the farm of J. Kellogg-Smith. Marleen Grieb, Nancy Shakespeare and Marcia Earle cantered away with all the jumping honors. John Mendenhall riding Magic, won the open saddle class. All of the young ladies were students the past year at Gunston School, near Centreville.

About four hundred Democrats from Queen Anne's and adjoining counties attended the Democratic Rally and Crab Feast staged last Friday evening at Love Point. Edwin H. Brown, Jr., State's Attorney for Queen Anne's County, was chairman of the meeting and introduced Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, United States Senator George M. Radcliffe and State Comptroller William S. Gordy, who were the speakers of the occasion. The guests included prominent Democrats from all sections of the county.

Plans for the entertainment of representatives of more than 100 of the 150 fire companies invited from five different states and the governors of these states and the handling of a crowd of at least 10,000 on parade day, were discussed at the meeting in Seaford of the executive committee of the Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Association last week. The committee said plans for the sixteenth annual convention to be held September 16 and 17 were progressing rapidly.

Tomato prices are holding up well in Queen Anne's county with canneries expected to operate five or six weeks more. On Wednesday growers around Centreville were receiving 30c a basket on the farms. Growers around Sunnysville were getting 35c on Monday. Late tomatoes are showing up much better than the early ones. Early plants frequently lacked strength and more than the usual amount of fruit was sun-kissed. Better yields are expected from the late crop.

An additional appropriation for the work on the Ocean City inlet and Sinepuxent Bay Channels was announced by Harry H. Woodring, acting Secretary of War, last week. Supervising engineers at Ocean City have not as yet received any information regarding the plans for the use of this new appropriation, however, it is believed that some of it will be spent on the re-dredging of the inlet channel.

Head Coach George Ekaitis and Director of Athletics J. Thos. Kibler have ordered candidates for the Washington College football practice on Kibler Field, Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 16. This is the date for the opening of Freshman Week, with college set to open officially on Sept. 21st.

A new record for a single day's precipitation in Salisbury and vicinity was set by the exceptionally heavy rainfall on Saturday night of last week, the government cooperative station at Homestead Dairy Farm recording 9 1-2 inches, it being nearly twice that registered during the tropical storm of August 1933 when hundreds of thousands dollars worth of damage was done on the Delmarva Peninsula.

A trio of severe wind and electrical storms which swept over Queen Anne's county beginning Saturday afternoon wrecked considerable damage as lightning struck at several points, burned a stable near Carville and killed cattle at Sudlersville while the wind tore branches from trees, whipped corn flat or tangled it so that cutters may not be used, smashed a veteran oak tree at Old Dudley's and blew a log canoe ashore on the Corisca.

Salisbury's Municipal Park has been selected as the site for the new United States Weather Bureau reporting station recently authorized for the Eastern Shore. Instruments will be shipped there within the next four weeks, and the station is expected to be ready for operation about the middle of October.

With more than 1,500 Democrats and spectators cheering and roaring their wholehearted approval, James H. Hughes, Sr., of Dover, was nominated for United States Senator and Richard C. McMullen, of Wilmington, received the nomination for Governor of Delaware at the Democratic State Convention held in Dover Tuesday.

The long anticipated and much talked of Pocomoke cut-off was opened to the public last Thursday and already travelers are using the new route. Plans for the building of this road was started about two years ago, the survey being made November 10, 1935. The actual work began in April of this year. The cut-off starts at the junction of the Virginia, Stockton and Pocomoke roads and runs northward to the Snow Hill-Pocomoke highway, about two miles north of Pocomoke. It is about a mile and a half long and 20 feet wide with 10 foot shoulders on each side.

Babies, children, grown-ups, and even the older folks in Queen Anne's County will get beauty, health and personality tests at Stevensville this week when the Woman's Club of Kent Island put on a two-day carnival in behalf of their new home. The affair, to be held September 11-12, comes closest to description when called a "Baby Carnival" although the various step-ups through childhood, youth, maturity, and ripe old age are all provided for in one event or another.

Seven thousand crabs, each fitted with a neat, small red tag, have been loosed in the waters of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina by the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory at Solomon's Island in conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Fisheries. Five thousand have already been tagged in the bay, and 2,000 in North Carolina waters. The program will continue until 12,000 have been marked. Operations extend from Barnegat, N. J. to New River, N. C.

Work will begin October 1st on the new municipal building in Pocomoke City, according to Mayor H. W. Ross. At a meeting of the Mayor and City Council Friday night, the city officially accepted the PWA grant and the plans drawn up by Riggan Buckler, of Buckler and Fenhagen, Baltimore archiects. The Mayor and Council received the terms and conditions of the $22,000 grant, and passed an ordinance accepting them.

A reduction in operating cost per consumer of the Salisbury Water Department of nearly a dollar over an eight-year period was pointed out in the semi-annual report of the department presented to the mayor and council Monday night by City Engineer Clarke Gardner. The report said "the operating cost has been reduced to $4.62 per customer account as compared with $5.60 in 1928, or an equivalent reduction amounting to 17.75 per cent."

In anticipation of severe storms with possible floods during the next few weeks, Mrs. Margaret Lewis, Red Cross executive secretary for the State of Maryland has established headquarters in Federalsburg for the month of September. According to advance reports, several severe storms of hurricane intensity are expected to do great damage to the Eastern Shore this month.

A number of citizens in every part of the Eastern Shore of Virginia saw an unusual and beautiful spectacle around noon on Wednesday. It was the sun surrounded by a halo of many hues. The atmosphere appeared clouded and around the sun was the small circle. Looked at through a smoked glass the circle appeared like a rainbow with its myriad hues of colors.

Over forty business men and prominent citizens were present at the Ridgely Fire House on Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a business men's association. The meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers and appointing various committees; also for the laying of a concrete form for the function of the organization.

Saturday afternoon about four o'clock a miniature cyclone struck near Chestertown uprooting trees, some tin roofs, blowing down tree limbs and was accompanied by much rain. The wind wrecked the cow barn on the farm of Leon Brown, near town, and caused considerable damage to corn and tomato crop. Several large limbs of trees in front of this fine estate were blown down.

POTOLIME

The Very Best for the Soils in SOMERSET WORCESTER AND WICOMICO COUNTIES

Is made right in Crisfield where you can get it at any time direct from the factory at wholesale prices.

All Spring, Summer and Fall crops show wonderful results with POTOLIME and many of our customers have been using it every year for 10 to 15 years because POTOLIME gives them better results than any other limes.

POTOLIME is not ground raw shell. Our Exclusive Burning and Crushing Process (not grinding) separate the soft quickly available part from the rest of the shell, producing POTOLIME—the lime that brings such comments as these from successful farmers:

Mr. Detrick, Manager of Bolton Farms, Bristol, Pa., says: "I used POTOLIME two years side by side with Hydrated Lime. On the first cutting I had three loads of alfalfa from the POTOLIME side of the field to every two loads from the Hydrated side. We mowed the POTOLIME side three times the first season and got from two to two and a half tons of good alfalfa hay each time. We mowed the Hydrated side once during first season."

Mr. John Kernan of Elmer, N. J., says: "I used 750 pounds of POTOLIME per acre on 26 acres of wheat for my 1935 planting and I have threshed 32 bushels of good wheat to the acre."

Mr. Henry Stelling of Ellicott City, Md. says: "I have been using POTOLIME for a number of years and have always obtained good results. I was unable to get a good seed of clover or timothy until I began using POTOLIME and now I harvest a splendid crop of clover and cut the second crop for seed each year."

Our Church School meets at 2:30, each Lord's Day afternoon. Classes for all ages.

Mid-week service of Prayer and Praise.

OUR INVITATION

To all who mourn and need comfort, to all who are friendless and wish friendship, to all who are homeless and wish sheltering love, to all who pray and to all who do not, but ought to all who sin and need a Saviour and to whosoever will, this church opens wide the door and makes free a place and in the name of Jesus, the Lord says Welcome!

Little Worries

In the first place, expect them, make them the subject of our morning prayers, and say to ourselves, "Here is my daily cross. Do I accept it willingly? Surely, for it is God who sends it. After all, these little worries, looked at calmly, what are they. Oh, if there were never any more!"

In the next place, we must be prepared for them. You know if you wish to break the force of a blow falling on you, you bend the body. So let us act with regard to our souls.

Accustom yourself, wrote a great saint of old, to stoop with sweet condescension, not only to exegencies, but to the simple wishes of those about you, and you will never find yourself crushed. To bend is better than to break. To bend implies a certain sweetness, that yields all constraint, sacrificing one's own wishes. Blessed are those whom God selects to work for Him.

"Hypocrisy is a gold brick swindle; jealousy a viper in the pocket and covetousness an enemy in the camp."

"You may juggle human laws, you may fool with human courts, but there is a judgment to come, and from it there is no appeal."

"Wherever there is a human being, there is an opportunity for a kindness."

"We must not conceive of prayer as an overcoming of God's reluctance, lent as a laying hold of His highest willingness."

"There is no darkness too dense or night too dark that the Light of the World cannot penetrate or dispel."

"There are few difficulties that hold out against real attacks; they fly, like the visible horizon, before those who advance."

"Go to Church and give your Soul a chance."

The Pastor.

"The Word of Our God Shall Stand Forever"

Bible Societies And Their Work
By Edgar Cordell Powers
Executive Secretary

A question often asked by callers at the Bible House and friends with whom the Executive Secretary may be conversing is this: "What does a Bible Society do?" In the case of the Maryland Bible Society, the answer can be given in five words: "It carries on Bible distribution." This it does within the boundaries of the State of Maryland, and as an auxiliary of the American Bible Society.

Bible Societies sprang up in Europe and America in response to a genuine missionary crusade, which began about a century and a half ago. Missionaries in foreign lands met, at the very beginning of their task the greatest of all barriers—that of language. In China, India, and the islands of the sea, the Gospel message had to be brought within the language and understanding of the people. Until this was done the Nations could not be evangelized. But even after Missionaries and their native helpers succeeded in translating one of the Gospels, or the entire New Testament into a foreign tongue, to be made largely available, the translation must be printed.

Statesmanlike leaders of the Christian Church, realizing this necessity, in 1804 formed the British and Foreign Missionary Society in England, interdenominational in its scope, and dedicated to a three-fold program. The translation, publication, and distribution of the Holy Scriptures, for all people, and without note or comment.

Following this lead of the Mother Country, the American Bible Society had its birth in 1816, and was devoted to the same principles as the older Society. These great Societies do not overlap. When one of them assumes the responsibility for publishing the Scriptures in a language, the other gives it "right of way," and furthers its distribution wherever need exists among the language groups represented within its own territory. Thus not a dollar is wasted in duplication of effort, and every dollar given for this service is expended with utmost discrimination as to the desired result, namely, the widest possible distribution of the Word of God.

Last year the British and Foreign and the American Bible Societies, together had a joint distribution of over 27,000,000 volumes of the Scriptures, in more than 500 different languages and dialects. Since the work of translation began, the Bible in whole or in

Boys and girls usually find the hobby of learning things very interesting for the more information one has, especially on one certain subject, the better prepared he is to discuss that subject. Occasionally, school teachers find that students who learn quickly usually have a good hobby at home, which gives them freedom for direct thinking.

A few years ago Wilson Dillon spent his spare time learning the numbers of all the automobile license tags in Preston and vicinity and could give without hesitation the name of the car owner of any tag one might mention. Sounds simple but what is the license number on your own car? It is just a matter of concentration and retention. Incidentally, the students at the University of Cairo in Egypt memorize the entire Koran, which is the Mohammedan Bible, much the same as colonial American families held learning sessions around the fireside.

A lot of things are involved in the attitude of learning things. Among them are interest, natural curiosity, willingness, attention, action, the law of readiness and the ability to concentrate.

One's attitude toward learning things can be improved by reading, observing, doing things and listening. A number of radio programs have possibilities for creating interest in learning things. Several are the March of Time, Vox Pop and George Denny's Town Hall.

Of course, desire is a vital factor in any learning process which brings to memory the struggle of Lincoln, Wilson, Helen Keller, Holland B. Wilkinson, and numerous others. There are, no doubt, persons in your community whose desire for learning has meant a terrific struggle and sacrifice though now they are reaping the rewards.

Learning is not confined to reading books but may be obtained from experimenting and working on machines, problems in science, and the manipulation of the language to make it easy and interesting reading.

Most school students do not know how to study or reason out problems. Whipple's little book is one book that all students should read for ideas on how to study. It is better to overlearn than to underlearn. The principal key to learning things is asking questions. While there is no closed season on learning things as learning is a continuous process, the active season for institutional transfer of learning is opening up at this time.

Learn thoroughly—master the subject or machine—for retention and application are the tests of learning when these are thoroughly mixed with common horse sense.

Learning things will be easy if learning things is your hobby.

part has been translated into 972 tongues. Verily, a modern Pentecost. Vast as this achievement appears to be, it is but a scratching of the surface of earth's fields for the sowing of the good seed, when compared with the billions of souls who have not heard the glad tidings of Salvation.

The attention of our readers is called to a series of articles appearing from week to week in which the romance of translation will be set forth, and a mighty array of Bible Society achievements presented.

Next week, however, we shall tell how a little girl's love for the Bible inspired this movement in Great Britain.

RADIANT LIVING
The Other Side Of The Road
By Rev. C. M. Griffith
Pastor Calvary M. E. Church
Sudlersville, Md.

The other side of the road often appears to be better than the side on which you are driving.

I have often observed this as I have been picking my way between the holes and bumps. And I would often pull over to the other side of the road, but before long I would be back again.

I always found the other side of the road just as rough, if not more so.

The other fellow's job seems better than ours. His hours are shorter, the pay larger, his opportunities greater. If we were only over on his side of the road, how we could speed along—toward success!

"If I were only with Blank & Co. I am sure I would find more congenial-ty, more opportunity, more recognition."

But don't forget that a job with Blank & Co. will open your eyes to the fact that your present difficulties, as you will then look back upon them, will not appear to be so hard after all. A little keener application upon your present problems will master them.

Why waste energy in looking at the smooth places on the other side of the road. Why not rather show your masterly hand at driving a bumpy road? Show others who ride with you through life what a smooth ride you can give them over a rough road!

Stick to your own side of the road. Take the bumps as they come. Straight ahead is the shortest course to the smooth going that lies ahead!

MRS. PARSONS WAS LUNCHEON HOSTESS

Guest of Honor Was Miss Mary Horsey Of Marion

LOVELY GIFTS PRESENTED WITH APPROPRIATE VERSE

One of the most delightful affairs of the season was given on Saturday afternoon when Mrs. George Parsons, at her home in Marion, entertained at luncheon in honor of Miss Mary Horsey, who was soon to leave to resume her teaching duties at Hyattsville, Md.

The luncheon party was planned as a surprise to Miss Horsey, who knew nothing of the affair until invited to the dining room, where she saw the dies, and a number of her friends who had gathered about it, to enjoy a delicious luncheon with her.

As guests lingered over coffee and mints, Miss Horsey was given another surprise when her hostess placed before her a huge tray piled high with packages. As each was opened a gift was found, with an accompanying card which said "goodbye" to her in clever verse.

Those who enjoyed the Parsons' hospitality with the guest of honor were Mrs. Thomas Long, Jr., Mrs. Lewis Hall, Mrs. Earle Parsons, Mrs. Brice Whittington, Mrs. Norman Whittington, Mrs. William Hall and Miss Nora Lynch.

BREAKS OUT IN POETRY ABOUT COVERED BRIDGE

Salisbury Wanted Structure; Cecil County Will Keep It

Several weeks ago the State Roads Commission decided to do away with an old covered bridge up in Cecil county, and the wide-awake citizens of Salisbury saw an opportunity to obtain a real antique for their park so they immediately made representations to the Commission to secure the bridge, dismantle it, bring it down to Salisbury, and set it up there, as an attraction to tourists and to lend an air of quaintness to the very beautiful park.

But when the people of Cecil county realized that the old covered bridge, which they had regarded as a nuisance, was wanted by a sister county which saw in it a thing of beauty and of value, right away they reared up on their hind legs and decided that they wanted the bridge to remain where it was. So of course the State Roads Commission agreed to let it stay there.

In last week's issue of the Cecil "Whig" published at Elkton, was a poem written by a lady living in North East, about the old bridge, that is worth reading. The paper containing the poem was sent to City Treasurer H. H. Matthews, who was, by the way, born about a mile from where the old bridge stands and lived there until he was about twenty years old. The poem is as follows:

REWARDED (Old Bridge, Bay View, Md.) Dear old bridge, we are so glad they've decided to let you stay. For it wouldn't be like Gilpin Falls if they took our bridge away.

Through all the passing years You've certainly stood the test We cherish fond memories of you For we know you've done your best.

The older residents of the county Well remember the good old days, And the fun they had at Gilpin Falls, In many and different ways.

The rocks are still so lovely And the music of the water falls But isn't it grand to feel honored And to be loved by all?

So, after years and years of service You're still there and there you'll stay, For you're just like old folks, pensioned, Until you crumble and decay.

Mrs. Elizabeth Logan North East, Md. August 23, 1936.

WORK STARTED ON SEWERAGE SYSTEM

Project Will Employ Large Force Of Men Long Time

Actual work on the construction of Crisfield's new sewerage system was begun this week when machinery was unloaded and set up, men were hired, and operations started at the corner of Sixth and Main streets.

At the present time a force of about twenty-five men are working daily, but within the next few weeks it is expected that a force of at least one hundred men will be employed on the project.

Machinery for use in construction of the system arrived in Crisfield last week, and as soon as this could be unloaded and set up, work on the project was started.

The sewerage system is a P. W. A. sponsored project, and will cost, when completed, approximately $125,000. It is expected to employ one hundred men for a year.

MARION H. S. PRESS CLUB AGAIN ACTIVE

School Opened With Enrollment Of 293 Pupils

TWO NEW COURSES ADDED THIS YEAR

Back to school! At first the idea seemed hard, but when September finally rolled around, everyone was eager to meet his old classmates and faculty once again. With renewed "pep, vim, and vigor" the students and faculty of Marion High School are starting this new year of 1936-37.

What an enrollment this year! Twenty-eight new beginners have begun their journey of school life in the first grade. The second grade is not quite so large, but seventeen make a good class. The third grade can boast of twenty-six members. The fourth Twenty-nine, the fifth thirty, the sixth thirty-five, and the seventh thirty-seven. This makes a total of two hundred and two in the elementary grades.

There are thirty green little freshmen becoming used to the devices of high school. The Sophomores have only fifteen, but the Juniors have twenty-six. The dignified Seniors have twenty. What a nice graduating class! This makes a total of ninety-one. The entire enrollment of the school two hundred and ninety-three.

Not only have the students and faculty returned with rested minds and bodies, but our school building has been repaired also. The roof has been mended, and the wings have been given new plaster. These repairs were made possible by the County Board of Education.

Two new courses have been added to the curriculum of the Marion High School this year; namely, Ancient History and economics.

The course in Economics does not pretend to give a complete enlightenment of our economic, social, and political lives. It does give a foundation upon which the boys and girls may build better understanding of such sciences from their own activities and from the information which they gather from books, magazines, and papers. Also, it attempts to give them some ideals or standards by which they may appraise the everyday occurrences of their everyday lives, and some appreciation of their share in the advancement and development of group life.

Mr. Thomas Eveland is taking Mr. William Lowe's place as teacher this year. Mr. Eveland was graduated from Western Maryland College last year, and he is teaching general science, biology, first and second years of algebra and economics, a new subject which has just been added to our regular course of study this year. This subject has proven to be very interesting so far. Mr. Eveland is also coaching the boys' athletics this year.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our dear Mother, Maggie I. Daugherty, who passed away one year ago, Sept. 15, 1935.

You are resting in peaceful slumber One sad year has passed away You are gone but not forgotten As we think of you each day

What would we give her hand to clasp Her patient face to see To hear her voice to see her smile As in the days that used to be

God saw the road was getting rough The hills were hard to climb He gently closed her loving eyes And whispered "Peace Be Thine."

Her weary hours, her days of pain Her weary nights are past Her ever patient wornout frame Has found sweet rest at last Gone dear Mother, it was his will Her vacant place no one can fill Down here we mourn but not in vain For up in Heaven we will meet again.

COMMISSIONERS SHOULD RECONSIDER THEIR ACTION

The Board of County Commissioners Tuesday turned down an application by the Works Progress Administration and by some Somerset county residents and tax payers to sponsor the building of two miles of ditch banks in Crisfield and Asbury districts at a cost of $172.00 to the county.

This is the same project that Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough became interested in two years ago. It is the same proposition that has been worked for, steadily and consistently and hopefully, by Somerset taxpayers, since that time. It is the same proposition that Crisfield and Asbury residents hoped would be put through.

Congressman Goldsborough has done his part. The Works Progress Administration is ready to spend $7100.00 if the County Commissioners will spend $172.00. The money will go to workers on the job. The ditch bank will protect property on which people are now paying taxes but which will, in a few years, BE WORTHLESS FOR TAXATION OR ANY OTHER PURPOSE UNLESS IT IS GIVEN THE PROTECTION THESE DITCH BANKS WILL GIVE!

The County Commissioners have many perplexing problems facing them and many demands for funds for various purposes. They must of necessity draw a line somewhere, but—

WHEN THEY ATTEMPT TO SAVE $172.00 AT THE EXPENSE OF THE LOSS OF TEN TIMES THIS AMOUNT IN TAXES ON PROPERTY THAT WILL EVENTUALLY BE GIVEN UP TO THE SALT WATER, it looks like they have drawn the line in the wrong place; when they attempt to save $172.00 at the expense OF THE LOSS OF MORE THAN SEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS IN WAGES AND MATERIAL TO THEIR OWN PEOPLE, it looks like they have drawn the line in the wrong place.

We hope the Commissioners will reconsider their decision at their meeting next Tuesday. It is not to their discredit that they take time to thoroughly investigate all sides of any proposition presented to them where the expenditure of the taxpayers money is involved; it would be to their discredit if they persisted in the refusal to grant a small amount of money that would do as much for Crisfield and for Asbury as building the ditch bank would do, and it is our belief that that can be depended upon to act, on Tuesday, like the kind of business men and public servants we all want to continue to think they are.

THANKS, W. F. B. R.

Thanks, W. F. B. R.! The people of Crisfield appreciate Maryland's Pioneer Broadcasting Station's "Salute to Crisfield" broadcast. And our Mayor William H. Bradshaw, who spoke over the air at that time, didn't do bad either. His address was interesting and effectively delivered. To us, out here in the middle of the "Sea Food Capital of the U. S. A." Crisfield, the program gave a thrill like the one a boy gets when he nuts on his first lone pants, or kisses his first real sweetheart. You remember it as long as you live. So when the "Salute to Crisfield" was announced Thursday we got that kind of a thrill, and at the same time wondered what Mayor Bradshaw's granddaddy would have thought if he could have been brought back to Smith's Island and placed alongside of a radio and heard his grandson's voice in a well constructed and delivered address that will be of inestimable value to Crisfield and its industries.

REMOVE THE BAR AGAINST ILLEGITIMATE CHILDREN

The move to draft a bill for passage in the Maryland Legislature to place illegitimate children on the same basis as other children as regards welfare work, is a move in the right direction.

Under a recent ruling, illegitimate children cannot be cared for under the dependent children classification of the Social Security Act.

In other words, as the law now is, an illegitimate child could be allowed to starve or freeze to death through no fault of its own, but simply because it had no choice in the selection of its parents, if they were not wedded when it was born.

Sounds like something we might have inherited from some of our Puritanical ancestors who probably were no better than they should have been, and who wrote the law into the statute books of Maryland at the behest of some extra-religious zealots who would send the progeny of unmarried couples straight to hell, and the quicker the better.

The repeal of the law is so necessary that there should be no argument about it when it comes up for action. Fortunately, the Legislature meets soon, and this remedial legislation should be passed as an emergency measure so that the class distinction now made between children in Maryland may be erased and food and clothing provided where it is needed and when it is needed, irrespective of parentage.

SOFT BALL GAMES MADE BETTER SPORTSMANSHIP

The recent games of soft ball played here by teams comprising the American and the National Leagues has shown to Crisfield the finest kind of sportsmanship, and fastens firmer in the minds of our people the knowledge that sports, in reason, make for better sportsmanship.

This was further exemplified by the spirit displayed in the World's series when the Soft Crabbers defeated the Asburys.

The men composing the various teams were from all strata of society, all walks of life. They fought hard while on the ball field, but kidded and laughed with each other before and after the games. They finished the season with greater respect for each other and greater liking for each other.

Everybody who saw the games enjoyed them greatly. It is too bad, in a way, that the League season ended so soon. But there is still balm in Gilead.

The High school grounds are to be lighted, and beginning Tuesday evening, soft ball games will be played there again. The High school students will play, but the men in industry and commerce will also play. From a sports standpoint, the Fall season promises well.

Letters To The President

September 9th, 1936. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President: I am well and hope you are the same. Well, Mr. President I see that you have been on a visit to the West where the drought has hit the hardest and where there is the greatest need to help the poor people who have lost their wheat and their corn and their cattle and most everything else they had, and have promised them that the government will help them out by putting a lot of them to work and by lending some of them money to buy seed to plant when the time comes again that they have rain, and it was a wise move, Mr. President to call in the Governors of all them dry States and ask their opinion about what ought to be done to help out so many people that need help so much, and to find that they agree with what you are proposing to do as the head of the government is a great thing, too, Mr. President, and shows that when an emergency comes up, why, everybody who amount to anything are in favor of meeting the emergency in a way that will protect and take care of American women and children and their men-folks.

Mr. President, from seeing in the newspapers some of the speeches some of your supporters are making me and the boys has about come to the conclusion that if you was to ask all the speechmakers to stop orating in your behalf, and just make a few speeches yourself, it would be better, for all concerned, for some of the things they are saying, especially about the opposition, are foolish things to say and don't get any votes, and anyway it is better to say something good about people or keep your mouth shut unless they say something bad about you first and in a campaign usually you can get just as far by telling your story in a good clean understandable manner to the people and then leave it to their intelligence to decide who they want at the head of the Nation, for by and large, the average citizen can usually be depended on to make a fairly wise choice, and the thing to do is to tell people what things have been accomplished, both good and bad, and why they were done, and etc., and then if you have done a fairly good job, and you have done a good job, Mr. President, why, they will vote to keep you where you are for four more years, and that is as long as any President ought to be in office anyway, so give this matter of speechmaking some consideration and maybe you will see it like we do.

I see, Mr. President, that there is a fight on in New York City between the city and the milk dealers about the price of milk, and it is about time that somebody looked into this matter of the prices the big companies charge for milk in the city, because the farmers only get a small price for the milk they raise on the farms, and by the time it gets to the people who have children in the cities the price of the milk is .11 or maybe .12 cents a quart, and a lot of them city people who have babies that need the milk can't afford to pay the prices for it that is charged, and the farmers, on the other hand, don't get paid what they should be for raising the cows and feeding them and everything, so why should not the city authorities step in and buy the milk from the farmers and pay them a decent price for it and at the same time see that the milk is sold cheaper and at a price that everybody can pay, and it may be that here is a campaign issue right in the making, Mr. President, that has in it many of the elements of the great disparity in prices paid by the consumer and received by the producer much of it due to faulty distribution of products, because certainly there is too great a difference between three cents a quart received on the farm for milk and eleven or twelve cents a quart charged for it in the cities, especially by the big corporations that handle most of the milk that goes into the cities, and some of this difference could well be passed back to the farmer, and part of it could well be taken off the consumer.

As you know, Mr. President, I am always looking out for your interests, and me and the boys are depending a lot on you and Mr. Secretary Hull to keep us at peace with the World, which is going to be a hard thing to do maybe, especially as all them European nations are adding to their armies and their navies, but the thing we want to do is to have plenty of ships and airplanes so that we can sit here at home and watch what goes on across the seas, and still attend to our own business unless some of them fellows should take it into their heads to come over here; and if they do, why—It will be just too bad for them. Hoping you are the same, and with best regards from me and the boys, I am,

Democratically and oratorically yours,
Juniper Tarr.

CONCERNING VACATIONS

By CHAS. F. RICHARDSON

Louisiana under Huey Long accomplished much, for it was Long that eliminated the annoying toll bridges in the State, was responsible for free text books in the public schools and gave the state roads that equal if not surpass those of any other in the entire South. The Huey Long bridge across the Mississippi is one of the most impressive structures I have ever seen, and while the people of the state are free to admit his faults the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the State owed Huey a debt of gratitude for the things which he accomplished.

Alexandria is the next town of any size we reach, and here we spent the night, to be off again early in the morning, anxious to reach Dallas by midday. Someone wrote a song once entitled Louisiana Hay-Ride; well one called Louisiana Sunrise would not be amiss for the Sunrise that morning was the most colorful I ever witnessed. No wise cracks from my friends nor either for I have seen another sunrise once, and I'd been to bed too. For breakfast we stopped in Shreveport the largest city in Northeastern Louisiana with a population of ninety thousand. This city has doubled its population in the past fifteen years and that's enough to say about any place, it must have something to do that. Shreveport is the home of Barksdale Field, the world's largest airport, and it is the commercial and industrial center serving Louisiana, East Texas and Southern Arkansas.

After we leave Shreveport it's only a short while until we are within the boundaries of the Lone Star State; and believe you me, folks, it's some state. First in size, it comprises an area of 265,896 square miles with about 224 counties. When you compare that with our 23 counties you can get a pretty good idea of its size.

Around Gladewater we find the oil fields and for about twelve miles our route takes us through a maze of derricks and oil wells. As far as the eye can see the steel frameworks point towards the sky. Wherever oil has been found one of these derricks has arisen, one in particular that I took a picture was erected in the center of a cemetery with some of the tombstones at the very base of it. As we drove along we noticed ahead of us a great amount of black smoke curling high in the air, and when we arrived at the point from whence it came we found it to be an oil well on fire and were informed that it may burn for days before it could be extinguished. One peculiar thing that had me stumped for quite a while was the fact that for every well there was a pipe coming out of the ground, and rising about eight feet in the air from the end of it there came a continuous blaze. Upon asking the reason for this I was informed that these pipes were sunk to act as a vent for escaping gas from the well and that the gas was burned as it came out to eliminate any chance of an explosion.

At night these hundreds of lights look like a gigantic torchlight procession. Ripley in his "Believe It or Not" had a drawing only recently showing a scene along these twelve interesting miles and called it "The Main Street of Texas". He was just about right.

The soil in Texas is the blackest and richest looking I have ever seen, and while I know absolutely nothing of farming it is my belief that in this State you can grow anything that can be grown anywhere else, and do it raise cotton! Honestly at times for miles and miles there is nothing to be seen but cotton growing. Texas produces, I have been told, almost half of the cotton crop of the United States and I believe we passed every pound of it that day. Occasionally now we passed a herd of Texas long horns grazing peacefully. Then a little after midday we caught our first glimpse of the skyline of Dallas about twelve miles away over the lowlands, Dallas center of the Southwest's first World's Fair, our destination.

There is nothing easy going about this city, and on Main Street you might easily feel that you were in Philadelphia or New York. Mammoth buildings, congested traffic and folks moving with that hurried gate we feel is so much a part of the North. Arthur Brisbane said that the Chamber of Commerce of Dallas and Houston could climb to the top of a thousand foot greased pole, and I agree with him. Can you imagine a City of about three hundred thousand population putting on a $25,000,000 fair? Well that's what they have done and they are making a go of it too, while we folks up here have been crying the blues about hard times they have been going ahead and doing things.

Our stopping place in Dallas was the Baker Hotel, and after getting our room we took a nice long rest, arose got our dinner grabbed a cab and headed for the Exposition grounds. The battery of vari colored searchlights within the grounds transformed the night sky into a fan shaped riot of color which could be seen all over the city, but not until you enter the grounds themselves do you appreciate the splendor of decorative lighting effects.

I stood there speechless gazing in open mouthed wonder and admiration to think that the human mind could conceive and scientific and engineering skill could bring into actual fact such

TREASURE AND TRASH

The man who rushed into one of the downtown stores one day recently out of breath, and said to the proprietor, "Give me a shot; I'm in a h— of a hurry." Of course the proprietor was intrigued right away, as he knew that always before this his visitor had plenty of time, if nothing else.

"Now see here," he said, "just what's the rush? Where are you going in such a hurry?"

"Well it's like this," said the fellow who wanted the 'shot.' "I got drunk and got locked up, but I felt so bad that the officer let me out to get a drink to kind of straighten me out. I promised him I would be right back, so he could lock me up again, and I don't want to disappoint him."

The funniest part about this tale is that it is true, and speaking of getting drunk and disorderly, one of the "regulars," that is, one of the boys that can be depended upon for a drunk and a fine every week or ten days was hauled up before Magistrate Wyatt a short time ago, and after hearing the evidence, the Magistrate gave the usual verdict for drunk and disorderly, $8.65. The man fined did not have any grievance against the Magistrate for the amount assessed, but he evidently had been doing some figuring and felt that, as a regular, dependable patron of the Squire's office he had some rights and privileges, so he said: "Judge, I know what you make often these fines. You get .80 cents profit. Now that's all right with me, but I do think you ought to give me ten cents back to get a drink with. That would still leave you seventy cents. And you know I come here right often."

The negro minstrel show that has come back and pitched its tent in the downtown section of Crisfield gave a street parade Monday, Labor day, to advertise its return. The colored members of the show and the band strutted up and down the principal streets of the city, and with six horns and two drums, gave more real good peppy music than many a larger aggregation has turned loose on a patient populace, in times past. Of course, the red uniforms of the paraders, and the very evident enjoyment they showed in beating the drums and blowing the horns probably made the parade seem a greater event than it actually was.

"Git out your dish pan! Here comes the fish man! Trouties—trouties!" The colored fish peddler who advertises "trouties" or weak fish for sale by the direct method of yelling about his wares when he pushes his little cart containing this and other varieties of fish over the streets. He has a good strong voice, and the fish he sells are fresh and nice. There is something about this kind of salesmanship that is appealing—it is so different from what you find elsewhere. After all, there is something about living in the country and being satisfied to live there!

Crisfield used to be a great bicycle town, and to judge by the number of "wheels" that are stacked up around the school houses, it is forging to the front again in this respect. In fact, one of the local merchants has put in a great big stock of nice looking bicycles, and it is likely that there is a boy or girl in the community to fit every one of them. Whenever you pass a job of work that has a number of men on it, you are impressed by the number of automobiles parked around, belonging to the workmen. Pass by the school house now and you will be equally impressed with the number of bicycles used by the workmen there—the scholars. It would be a good idea for the athletic coach or one of the other teachers to take time out at least one day each week to deliver a two minute talk on safety measures to these bicycle riders. Might be the means of saving a life or two, for as the number of bicycles in use increase, the danger of accident on the highways also increases.

A scene of beauty. With the few words at my command it is impossible to paint a word picture for you that would convey in even an infinitesimal manner the beauty of this scene.

Stretched before us was the expanse of State. In the center a long lake and reflecting basin illuminated from beneath, the waters having an opalescent color changing slowly from dark green to light and then blue. The fountains brilliantly illuminated with lights of changing colors. Back from this and at a slightly higher level, the lake is a sort of sunken garden affair, are situated the magnificent exhibit buildings, all of them flood lighted, while at the far end is located the Court of Honor immediately in front of the Hall of State, while in back the battery of searchlights throw their rainbow hues high in the heavens. The lights all change simultaneously first a light green then crimson, blue, amber and violet. I remember talking to some folks from Chicago who freely admitted that the lighting effect here surpassed the World's Fair at Chicago. As I looked it made me feel proud to be associated in even such a small way with the industry responsible for this miracle of light.

"It's C. K. We've Got the Light with Us"

Traffic signals are electrically timed to aid the orderly flow of traffic. They are timed in fairness to all who use the streets—drivers and pedestrians—and it would seem a simple matter to obey them. A review of the accident records, however, would indicate that drivers need to be reinforced as to their meaning.

RED means "stop," not "slow down, make sure no officer is in sight, and then sneak through."

AMBER means "wait," not "step on it and get through before the turns red."

GREEN means "proceed with caution, and with due respect for the rights of others," not "go like blazes."

Nine out of ten accidents that involve drivers' mistakes, according to Travelers Insurance Company records, are caused by undue haste.

Slow down, and live longer.

TRAINING INSTITUTE FOR RED CROSS NURSES

Designed To Develop Better Home Hygiene Practices

A two day training institute for nurses in Virginia, Maryland and Delaware who teach the Red Cross Course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick will be held in the headquarters of the District of Columbia Chapter, 1730 E. Street, N. W., on September 11 and 12, it was announced by Miss I. Malinde Hovey, National Director of Red Cross Health Nursing and Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick.

Mrs. Charlotte M. Heilman, Assistant to Miss Hovey, will conduct the Course. Sessions will be held from 10:00 A. M. until 5:00 P. M. on both days. No fee will be charged for the instruction.

The program, it was announced, will be closely related to the actual teaching experience of the instructors themselves. Each instructor attending will be asked to present for discussion one or more of the problems which she has encountered in her class work; she also will be asked to outline teaching methods she has found helpful. It is also expected that each person attending will submit at least one article of equipment, a scrap book, a poster or similar instructive guide used in her class work.

As taught by the American Red Cross, Home Hygiene is not designed to train practical nurses, but rather to develop better hygiene practices in the home by teaching parents and children alike the rudiments of good health and good living, and instructing them in caring for and preventing illness in the home, under the direction of the family physician.

The increasing popularity of this Red Cross course is evidence by the fact that in the past year over 63,126 persons completed the Course; in Maryland the total certificates awarded were 498; in Virginia 395; and in the District 219.

THREE WAYS TO SAVE ON GASOLINE CONSUMPTION

Tank Should Never Be Filled To Capacity, Says Official

L. K. Marshall, general service manager of Pontiac Motor Co., outlines three ways to save gasoline.

"Heat expands gasoline," he says. "Most motorists have probably noticed that a brimful tank will run over after a short time. This happens because the heat has expanded the gasoline. Room should be left for this expansion. The tank never should be filled to the very top."

"The best time to buy gasoline is in the morning—before the heat of the day has had a chance to expand the gasoline in the pump. Gasoline evaporates from the tank. Tests show that as much as 20 per cent of the gasoline in a partially filled tank may evaporate during two days of driving. The best way to fight this particular 'gas-banister' is to keep the tank filled within a few gallons of capacity. This leaves less room for the gas to slosh around in and reduces excess evaporation."

The reductions in rates for extension stations and hand sets, which have just been made, were considered in the negotiations between the Commission and the Company last winter but at that time the Company could not see its way clear to include these reductions with the others which were made effective on February 1st. The Company did agree, however, to reduce the charges as soon as conditions permitted and, in accordance with that understanding, the reductions are now being made effective.

Special Important Notice

Much has been advertised in the last few weeks about Ambulance Service. For several years we refused all calls of that kind because we did not consider it sanitary or proper to carry the sick in our Hearse as others were doing. A touring car was a poor substitute, so we got a sedan delivery, which was neither a dead wagon or hearse but ideal for ambulance cot and patient but not so good for passengers.

Now I have a car built by Sayers & Scovill of Cincinnati, Ohio, the largest makers of ambulances in America. Built especially for invalid use, plenty of room and comfort. There is no reason for free ambulance service, only as an advertisement for other business. I have undoubtedly given more free service in the forty-five years I have been a Funeral Director, than anyone on the Shore, and if Crisfield is to have free service to and from the local Hospital there is no reason why our neighbors should not enjoy the same privilege. Therefore, we shall extend free service up to Marion, and realizing how painful it must be for sick people on the Islands to be carried from home to boat and from boat to wharf I will lend to such people an adjustable cot on which they can be placed and remain there until they reach the Hospital.

With the addition of a new Hearse and our staff of workers we are prepared for any emergency. Our lady assistant for women and children can't be beat. We have lately added to our force Mr. John R. Corbin, Jr., a competent young man of good habits, refined and intelligent, who is willing to serve our clients to the best of his ability. When in need of our service call 120 from 5 P. M. to 8 A. M. from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. call 146.

Make Cherry Jelly and Jam For Roasts, Fowl, Desserts

A BASKET of cherries, ripe and ready for use... a kettle of suitable size... the proper pectin... a sufficiency of sugar... and the right recipe. Put them all together and they spell jelly—or jam. If you prefer—of a gorgeous color and universally liked sweet-tart taste.

Cherry spreads are nice to have the year round. The jam is particularly delicious with fowl. And when you make a pie of that leftover chicken, by all means serve the cherry jam with it too. Or use it with roasts of all kinds. The jelly is especially good in salads and desserts, and with cottage cheese.

Start now building up the section of your jam cupboard to be devoted to cherry spreads. Here are the recipes you will need:

Sour Cherry Jelly

3 cups (1½ lbs.) juice
4 cups (1½ lbs.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem (do not pit) and crush about 2½ pounds fully ripe cherries. Add ¼ cup water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. If a stronger cherry flavor is desired, add a few crushed cherry pits during simmering. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If there is a slight shortage of juice, add small amount of water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again.)

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 3- to 4-quart saucepan and place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Sweet Cherry Jam

2½ cups (1½ lbs.) prepared fruit
4 cups (1½ lbs.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, pit about 2½ pounds fully ripe cherries; crush thoroughly or grind. (If a stronger cherry flavor is desired, add a few crushed cherry-pit meats to fruit during cooking.)

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hot fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ tsp. spoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 3- to 4-quart saucepan and place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

HEY MOTORISTS! LISTEN!

THE LITTLE ENGINEER

THERE is a lot of hokum going around concerning driving signals. Some people and organizations recommend an elaborate code of hand and horn warning. They are not necessary and may even be dangerous through distracting the driver's attention.

At night it is wise to step on the brake long enough to flash the rear stop light sufficiently in advance of making a right or left turn to warn the driver of the following car that you are going to change direction. Sudden turns without this warning are the cause of many accidents.

There are only three hand signals that are really useful and these should be given so emphatically that there can be no doubt of your intentions. Holding the left hand out broadside is a definite warning that you are going to stop. Extending the left arm and pointing with the index finger tells your follower you are going to make a left hand turn. Putting out the left arm, extended somewhat downward and waving the hand in a circular motion announces to the parade behind that you are about to turn to the right and following cars should go around you to the left.

That's about all there is to motorized signaling but many drivers get into difficulties because they signal in a careless, confusing way that fails to give proper warning to speeding machines behind them.

SOFT CRABBERS ARE VICTORS IN SERIES

Take Fourth And Final Game By Close Score Friday

REAL SPORTSMANSHIP DISPLAYED BY TEAMS

After a lot of pulling and hauling, hitting and running, yelling and yodelling, laughing and crying, the local World's series in the soft ball league came to a close Friday afternoon, when victory perched atop the banner of the Soft Crab Express club of the American League.

The Soft Crabbers won three out of four games, playing with the League leading Asbury club of the National League, and the last and final game, played Friday afternoon, ended in a score of 5 to 3 in favor of the crabbers.

But the battles were not as one sided as the final results would indicate, and up until the last man was out in the final inning the Asbury Nationals gamely fought to make the games two all on Friday.

The best kind of sportsmanship and gamesmanship was displayed throughout the series, but the Crabbers did have a slight edge on the Asburyites.

Many amusing situations arose as the series got going good. Our old friend John Hurley, for instance, who is a Deacon in the church, looks like one of the prominent wrestlers both in size and contour, and acts like a dorky preacher at camp meeting time when he is at a ball game, shouting and praying, did a good job the first two games, but at the third game his "magic" or "voodooism" or what have you, went wrong, and his team, the Crabbers got licked.

John almost dead still; so still that he sent Bill Sinclair out to the fourth and final game to do the rooting, and Bill came through like a pinch hitter in the ninth inning with the score tied, two out, three men on base, and the count three and two. He fanned. In spite of this, the Crabbers won the game.

But what probably turned the tide of battle and made victory certain for the champions of the American League was the change of pitchers. The Crabbers had had good pitching all through the series, but during the third game, the Nationals began to pound their pitcher, who was not so very big, all over the lot, and lay up for themselves a good many runs. Something had to be did. The skipper of the Soft Crab fleet, about whom more anon, went into a trance with himself, and out of this evolved the idea of intimidating the other side, so he sent in as a relief pitcher "Bellyache" Evans, who is as big as most of the barn doors hereabouts, and he proved to be an intimidator extraordinary.

Whether it was his curves or "his" curves that got the other batters hitting the air, the scoring stopped, although too late to save that third game.

But on Friday the Soft Crabbers skipper came right back with "Bellyache," who had nobody else but Dynamite Dunn himself, of pugilistic fame and the Quinn "smell" truck, as catcher, and the game was in the bag. All "Bellyache" asked of his team mates was four runs—the other side had three, and the Crabbers came through like an old time team of fire horses going to a fire, with five runs, one more than was needed, but that's the way those boys do things.

"Bellyache" had a position as first baseman on the team and he was good there, while John Matthews was the pitcher, and chalked up two wins before the suburban nationals got on to his pitching and won themselves a game. Just who would have been placed in the box if old "Walter Johnson Bellyache Evans" had not come through, is a problem but no doubt the Crabbers skipper would have been equal to the occasion and he might even have had a shot gun in reserve—he is a gunner, in season.

And now for the skipper, "Old Jimmy Crab" Dize. Starting out the first of the season with the greenest rookie that could have been obtained anywhere from Dan to Boersheba, he first uniformed them in white pants and yellow and black shirts and caps. This made the boys feel that they were a whole lot superior to the players on the other teams, who wore uniforms of any and all kinds, and with this superiority-complex in high gear, they stomped through the league battles like farmers at a barn dance—the faster the game the better they liked it.

Then skipper Dize had previous advantage. He has had another baseball experience—especially on the paying out end, which fitted him for the management, and he brought into play his great knowledge of the game by telling the players to catch the ball when it was hit in the air, to throw the ball to first base to get the player out when the ball was hit on the ground, etc., with the result that his boys developed a real flair for the game and finally came to know which way to run when they made a hit themselves.

The series championship would have been over, no doubt, in three straight games if Skipper Dize had not developed indignation. That slowed down the thinking apparatus, and but for the fact that he succeeded to the extent of thinking to substitute "Bellyache" for John Matthews, the story would have been entirely different, at least as far as the Crabbers are concerned. Of course the members of the team are the ones who won the ball games. The lineup was as follows: John Matthews, p; "Bellyache" Evans, 1st base; Floyd Lawson, 2nd base; Paul Maddrix, s. s.; Spence Stewart, 3rd base; Harvey Cullen, r. f.; Thomas Riggins, c. f.; "Art Shires" Ford, l. f.; Dynamite Dunn, c.; Woody English, utility.

TAKE CHILDREN TO THE DENTIST

Mouth Health Often Overlooked Or Thought Unimportant

DISEASE FREE CHILDREN MAKE BETTER SCHOLARS

"Don't forget to check up on the necessary dental care, when you are getting your child ready for school," is the advice of Dr. Richard C. Leonard, Chief of the Division of Oral Hygiene, of the State Department of Health to parents.

"Very few people realize," he continued, "the bearing that mouth health has upon the general health. Mouth health is a phase of child health that frequently is either overlooked or is regarded as of but little importance. Grown-ups who have ever had any experience with decayed teeth or diseased gums know or should know only too well that they can cause suffering and have far reaching consequences.

"Children are equally sensitive, and a child's progress in school, maybe, and often is, seriously hampered by the distracting influence of aching teeth. The trouble doesn't end with aching teeth and a painful mouth. If neglected, such conditions frequently open the way to infections that undermine the health of the entire system.

"Periodic examination of the mouth, by a dentist trained in preventive care and the prompt correction of conditions in need of attention, is the best insurance obtainable for children as well as for grown-ups, against the extensive harm caused by dental neglect. The secret lies in early detection and prompt correction of the endangering conditions. The regular visits to the dentist should begin by the time a child is two years old.

"A special effort is made each year, through the Bureau of Child Hygiene, the County Departments of Health, the Department of Education and the Parent-Teacher Associations, to have the children who are reaching school age, given a complete physical examination in preparation for their admission to school. This is urged so that unfavorable conditions—if any are found—may be attended to before the children are subjected to the strain of school work. It is equally important for the older children to be protected in the same way against physical conditions unfavorable to good health—underweight, defects of vision and

MIRACLE HOUSE CLOSED FOR SEASON LAST WEEK

Tuberculosis Preventorium Has Been Host To 121 Children

The seventeenth season of the Miracle House at Claiborne was brought to a close September 2nd, when nearly a hundred tanned and healthy children returned to their homes after spending the summer on the Eastern Shore in quest of health.

The Miracle House, a tuberculosis preventorium for Maryland children, has for the past few months been the host to 121 children from all over the state. These children are from homes that have been visited by tuberculosis and in most cases the children were greatly run down and malnourished. During the summer months at the Preventorium they hardened their little muscles and filled out their thin bodies. Every child responded well to the treatment, some gaining more than ten pounds. The largest gain made was fifteen pounds.

This past summer 49 children from the counties of the state attended the Miracle House. These children represented 11 counties.

The purpose of the Miracle House is to take these children who are susceptible to tuberculosis through their contact with the disease, and build up their resistances and strength so that they might overcome any future infections. This is accomplished by a regimen of play, rest and sleep in addition to a planned diet of health giving fruits, vegetables and meats.

The Miracle House is operated by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association and is supported by the annual sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals.

of hearing, decayed teeth, unhealthy conditions of the throat and nose—before school work gets under way.

"Experience has shown that the children who start the school year free from avoidable physical handicaps, have greater resistance to communicable diseases, make better progress, have fewer absences charged against them, and make the grades with less effort than is required of the children who are dragged down by ill-health.

"To safeguard your child against avoidable illnesses see that he has a complete physical inspection before the work gets into full swing—just as you would do for your machine, if you were starting on a long trip. And don't forget to take him to your dentist."

Large Crowds Greeted Congressman on Monday

Goldsborough Guest Wicomico Democrats At Ocean City

One of the largest crowds ever assembled at just a plain "get-together" meeting greeted Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough at Ocean City on Labor Day, when he was the guest of the Young Democrats Club of Wicomico County.

Hundreds of people, political leaders and just plain, everyday friends of the Congressman, stopped at the George Washington Hotel to shake hands with Mr. Goldsborough and wish him success in his fight for reelection.

More than four hundred people were there from Wicomico county, the home county of Mr. Goldsborough's opponent, and they brought every assurance to the Congressman that he would carry Wicomico by a substantial majority in November.

Others from every county on the Shore gave assurance to the Congressman that their counties were safe for him, and the meeting turned out to be one of the most representative and enthusiastic gatherings that have been held on the Eastern Shore in a great many years.

BAPTIST PASTOR ANNOUNCES SERIES OF DAILY MEETINGS TO BEGIN SEPTEMBER 20TH

"Let's Make Worthy Preparation," He Says in Letter

PRESENCE AT MEETINGS WILL BE VERY HELPFUL

The Pastor's Message To the Members of Baptist Temple: My Very Dear Friends and Fellow Workers:

It has long been the habit of our church to have a brief series of daily special meetings sometime during the year. This year the services are scheduled for September 20th (next Lord's Day) and will continue some two or three weeks, the services to be conducted each evening at 7:30, Saturdays excepted. This is to urge that these dates be very carefully noted by all our Church family, to the end that we may make the most and the best of these brief days. Brief as is the time for such meetings, yet by intensive devotion to the great interest involved in these allotted days, vast good may be confidently expected from the meetings.

Beginning today, let us all make worthy preparation for the meetings. Remember the words of the old Tory general: "The secret of our victory is in getting a good ready." This truth applies to Christian work as vitally as any where else. The Bible urges that Christians shall properly relate themselves to the ongoing of Christ's Kingdom. They are to remove stumbling stones and to prepare the way. They are to be fellow workers with Christ.

How may we wisely prepare for these special services? This should be done in various ways. First of all, let us pray, and pray much for the meetings. For ourselves, let us pray, and for our fellow Christians, that we may be revived in our own hearts, and be made right and ready to help others whose needs call poignantly for our best help, and call for it now.

Let us plan to attend every service, unless hindered by Divine Providence. Our very presence will be helpful in more ways than we can realize. Example is victorious when all other arguments are futile. Recall Gladstone's immortal saying: "One example is worth a thousand arguments." Recall the far greater saying of Jesus: "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in heaven."

Let us definitely and wisely plan to bring others to the services. "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." Here is a great field for parents who would wisely care for their children—and for Sunday School teachers who would faithfully shepherd their pupils—and for friends who would give the highest and best help to their friends who are not Christians. It is a gracious thing to ask another to be a guest in your home. It is likewise a gracious thing to ask another, in the right way, to attend the services of God's house. Such an invitation has doubtless led many to say with the Psalmist: "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord." This great matter of asking others to attend the services of God's house should have our best thought and our most earnest prayers. Great meaning goes with the words: "He is wise that winneth souls." If only we will faithfully realize our responsibility for others, than we must, and will voice our care for them.

MISS ADELINE HOLLAND WAS MARRIED WEDNESDAY

Became Bride of H. E. Sterling, Jr., and Now on Honeymoon

Miss Adeline Frances Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Holland of Mariners' road, and Mr. Harold E. Sterling, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Sterling, of Chesapeake avenue extended, were quietly married Wednesday evening of this week by Dr. J. Yancey Fincher, pastor of the Baptist Temple.

Both of the young people are popular members of the young social set here. The new Mrs. Sterling graduated in June from the Crisfield High School, and during her attendance there she took a prominent part in athletics and other school activities. Mr. Sterling will be associated with his father in the auto supply business. The young couple left on their honeymoon Thursday, first going to Baltimore, and from there they expect to visit Niagara Falls and other sections of interest. The "Times" extends sincere congratulations and hopes they will enjoy a long and happy married life.

FRED N. HOLLAND, JR. BURIED ON SUNDAY

Died Early Saturday Morning From Blood Poisoning

WAS SICK LESS THAN WEEK WITH INFECTION OF FACE

One of the saddest deaths that has occurred in this community for many years was that of Fred N. Holland, Jr., who died at the McCready Memorial Hospital early last Saturday morning, from blood poisoning.

"Rick", as he was familiarly known to his large circle of friends and acquaintances, had a small pimple on his lower lip which he evidently nipped while shaving about a week before his death, and it became infected. On Sunday his lip began to swell and on Monday it caused him considerable discomfort.

On Tuesday evening he went out to the Hospital to take home his wife, who is a graduate nurse and who was employed there. She noticed that his lip had swollen so much more during the day that she insisted that he immediately go to bed in the hospital, and a physician was called.

On Wednesday his condition continued to get worse, and special day and night nurses were placed at his bedside to minister to him. The poison continued to spread through his system however, his temperature for a about forty-eight hours was above 106, and on Saturday morning at about five o'clock the end came.

"Rick" was only 23 years old and had been married only a short time, to Miss Doris McDaniel, a graduate of the McCready Memorial Hospital school of nursing. He had many friends in all walks of life, friends who showed their interest in his condition and the game fight he made for life, by making inquiries time after time about him, and who were greatly shocked when they heard of his death, within such a short period after he was stricken, although on Friday it was rumored that his physicians and family had no hope that he would pull through.

He was the son of former Magistrate Fred N. Holland and the late Ethel Sterling Holland, and beside his widow and his father, is survived by a sister, Miss Mary Anne Holland, a brother, John Holland, his grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Holland, two aunts, Mrs. Edith Maddrix and Miss Minnie Holland, and three uncles, Edward E. Holland, Thomas J. Holland and Harold Sterling.

"Rick" was an active member of the Crisfield Fire Department, the members of which marched in a body to the Baptist Temple where funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the pastor, Dr. J. Yancey Fincher in charge of the ceremonies, assisted by Rev. C. M. Elderidge and Rev. H. D. Dukes. Interment was in the family plot in Crisfield cemetery.

The pall bearers were Rupert Somers, Fletcher Sterling, George Daugherty, B. Horace Ford, Benjamin Mills and Ralph Charnock, all members of the Crisfield Fire Department.

At the funeral service the church was filled to overflowing with "Rick's" friends, and friends of the family, and some idea of the esteem in which this young man was held could be gained from this great outpouring of people and the beautiful floral pieces that had been sent to the home.

The "Times" adds its expression of sympathy for this particularly distressing death, to the many expressions of the bereaved family already has received.

Crisfield Couple Married

Miss Margaret May Nelson and Mr. Courtney Charles Taylor, both of Crisfield, were quietly married at the Baptist Temple Wednesday evening, Sept. 16th, by the pastor, Rev. E. C. Andrews.

Pittsburg Railroad Men Have Good Luck On Fishing Expedition Here

Some men are good at more than one trade, as was proven this week when several of the employees of the Union Railroad Company, of Pittsburg, came down here for a fishing trip.

They were chaperoned by our good friend Charley Harbaugh, who bosses things around out there in Pittsburg when said things affect the Union R. R., and it is his special job to see that nobody lifts any of the locomotives or cars while the engineer or the conductor has his back turned. So far Charley has been able to keep the rolling stock on the roll.

The boys came here in a nice looking car, and what, if anything, they lacked in equipment for catching fish in Tangier Sound, their host furnished them. So it is not to be wondered at that they enjoyed excellent fishing and expect to make more visits here.

KEEP THE BRIDDELL PLANT IN CRISFIELD

Rapidly Expanding Concern Now Interesting Outsiders

NEW ANIMAL TRAP LOOKS LIKE A BIG MONEYMAKER

A great deal of thought and sincere effort has been expended in efforts to get new industries for Crisfield, industries which will employ men, particularly, and now the time is here when consideration should be given to keeping in Crisfield a pretty large industry that is already here and employs quite a number of men—Charles D. Briddell, Inc.

This company, built up over a period of years to the point where it is a real factor in the novelty advertising business, this year is rapidly expanding its activities, and in addition to its regular lines, which embrace the manufacture of novelty calendars, desk pads, and numerous other items with advertising value, covers the field of oyster knife blades and butchers' cleavers and butchers' knives of many kinds, now has a department devoted to the manufacture of a new kind of muskrat trap that promises to be a great moneymaker for the company.

The Briddell Company has a basic patent on these animal traps, and already outside interests are beginning to interest themselves in their manufacture to the extent of making inquiries concerning the field of distribution and the making of parts. Always when this state of affairs exists, when interest develops in the "big boys" minds, when investigation discloses that the maker has a good thing, efforts are made by large financial interests to "buy out" the owner of the patents, and usually the business is moved, bodily, to some other location. That there is danger this may happen to Charles D. Briddell, Inc., is admitted.

It was not many years ago when the Webb Packing Company was a Crisfield concern, pure and simple. Now it is an enormous packing plant in Salisbury, employs many men, and is doing a whole lot of business, profitably.

If the people of Crisfield do not want to see the removal of the plants of the Briddell Company elsewhere, but want to keep the plant here and see it develop into an enterprise that will employ hundreds of men, instead of the 72 it employs now, it is said that the citizens must take some action in a financial way.

And the reason they must take some interest in a financial way is because this business of the Briddell concern is expanding at a rate that demands more working capital, and part of that working capital must be capital that the concern can use for an indefinite period, and especially during the period of expansion must part of it be used for new machinery, etc., to employ more men to turn out more goods to make more profits for the concern and for the community.

Here the city has a proposition, the Chambers of Commerce, Senior and Junior, the Rotary Club, Crisfield business men, all have a proposition, laid on their doorsteps, that with their assistance can be developed into a great addition to the employing agencies of the community. Here is a proposition that offers an opportunity to develop a going industry about which every citizen of Crisfield knows something, or can learn something easily. Here, in plain sight, instead of elsewhere, out of sight, is the beginning of what could in time change Crisfield from a seaford city to a manufacturing city.

It is not sensible to say that such a change could be made overnight. Nobody believes that it could be done so quickly. But on the other hand there is no one who could successfully contradict the assertion that here is an

MARION CLUB IS OFF TO A GOOD START FOR YEAR

Have Rented Methodist Protestant Social Hall In Which To Hold Meetings

PROGRAM OF SONGS AND POETRY GIVEN BY CLUB

By GOLDA E. WHITTINGTON

"It's September"—and the Homemakers of Marion by an unusually large attendance at the home of Mrs. George Parsons on Monday afternoon, Sept. 14, showed that they were anxious and interested to have club meetings start again. The meeting opened with the club singing "America, the Beautiful," and with the president, Mrs. Aden Davis bringing happy after-vacation greetings.

Among the more important items of business was the vote by the club to change the meeting day from the second Monday in each month to the second Tuesday. This was done to help the Home Demonstration Agent to arrange her program. Mrs. George Parsons reported that her committee had been able to rent the Methodist Protestant Social Hall in which to hold club meetings for a second year.

The reports from various chairman on special projects revealed that plans have been made to assure outstanding work in each field. The hostess committee for October announced a covered luncheon at one o'clock on the regular meeting day.

A discussion of school lunches, for health and vigor was given by Miss Hilda Topter, C. H. D. A. This was a timely demonstration in as much as many of the members are faced with that problem every day.

The September program, under the direction of Mrs. Norman Whittington, assisted by Mrs. Paul Gunby, Mrs. Allen Greene and Mrs. Harry Doane, was dedicated to a woman loved and honored by rural women throughout the state, Miss Venia M. Kellar, State Home Demonstration Agent. Miss Kellar came to this state from the far west and brought with her cherished dreams for rural women. Through the force of her personality, much arguing and much more hard work, many of her dreams have come true, and she has given to the Rural Women of Maryland at least one thing which no other state in the Union can boast, College Week for Women.

The following program contains favorite songs, poems which are dear to her and help to express her philosophy of life and a few facts about her early life, for the story of her years of service in Maryland is a familiar and lovely tale to the Maryland women.

Song—"The Bells of Saint Mary's,"—Club.

"It's September"—Mrs. Fred Marshall.

Current Events—Mrs. Paul Gunby. James Hilton's "Lost Horizon,"—Miss Louise Doane.

Miss Venia Kellar—A Leader of Women.

Poems—by Edward Rowland Hill—"Life"; "Opportunity"; "A Morning Thought."

"These Things are Best", by Blaine C. Bigler—Mrs. Norman Whittington. Song—"The Church in the Wildwood," Club.

With all she has accomplished, Miss Kellar still has dreams and hopes without end for the fullness of living in the Rural families and quoting her—"Daily I give thanks to the Maker of all life for the privilege of being a public servant to the girls and women of what I think is the finest state in the Union."

Following the program, Mrs. Parsons and her committee, Mrs. Arthur Taylor, Mrs. Stanley Conner, and Mrs. William Lustinger, served delicious and dainty refreshments of sandwiches, iced tea and mints. Marion Club is off to a new start.

Teaching in Virginia

Mr. Charles Chaffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Chaffey, of near Marion, left last Monday to assume his position as teacher of mathematics in South Hill High School, Mecklenburg county, Va. He will also coach baseball, basket ball and boxing. Mr. Chaffey is a graduate of Washington College, at Chestertown, and is well trained in athletics.

Thursday evening of next week, September 24th, there will be a big meeting in Crisfield in honor of Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough, who is a candidate to succeed himself in Congress.

The night will be known as "Goldsborough Night," and there will be a crab feast, music and street dancing. Congressman Goldsborough will make an address from the Post office steps, early in the evening, and then the huge crowd will feast on crabs and those that wish to do so will dance.

Arrangements have been made to rope off Main street from Fourth street down to the Somerset Hotel, and it is in this area that the great numbers of Somerset citizens, Republicans and Democrats alike, who are friends and well-wishers of Congressman Goldsborough, will assemble.

The meeting is being held to give impetus to the campaign of Congressman Goldsborough for reelection. In this county, as in every county on the Shore, he has innumerable friends of all political persuasions. It is said of him that no Congressman who ever has served the Eastern Shore has as many personal friends as Mr. Goldsborough has, and these friends are from every walk of life and apparently, know no political lines when he is a candidate for office.

Because he is an old member of Congress, Mr. Goldsborough heads some important committees, places that can only be attained by Congressman after many years of service. In Congress he is regarded as one of the few well informed members, especially in the field of finance, and it has been suggested that when President Roosevelt is reelected in November, Congressman Goldsborough should be made the Secretary of the Treasury.

But to the people down here in Somerset it does not matter whether he is elevated to a cabinet position or not. They are for him and for his continued stay in Congress because of the value he has been to his constituency. They say that he has been able to get more constructive things done for the Eastern Shore than any Congressman we ever had. They believe he will be able to do even more in the future than he has done in the past, and they have decided, if expressions as heard in most all sections can be regarded as of value, to keep him in Congress.

So the meeting on "Goldsborough Night" in Crisfield is going to be a meeting of the Congressman's friends, and he wants them all there, as he has a message of importance that he wants to deliver. Everybody is invited, according to the sponsors, and it is expected that most of them will come.

Announce Daughter's Marriage

Hollywood Star-Lites

By CHUCK COCHARD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—If you were a big shot star in Hollywood you would be deluged with thousands of letters of which many would be entirely personal for your own good.

Thousands of fan letters engulf Robert Taylor weekly, but one in particular has him guessing. Unsigned, written in a beautiful handwriting on costly scented stationery, the letter states the author is an eastern heiress, visiting in Hollywood.

"I must see you, for reasons I cannot reveal, before I return East. So for goodness' sake, will you walk into the Brown Derby tonight between 9 and 11 o'clock, so I can have a look at you. You will not learn who I am and I promise I will not walk up and talk to you. I may, however, walk past your table to get a closer view. This means a lot to me. Please don't fail me."

Nine times out of ten a star will do what the writer suggests just for the adventure in it. It's not unusual for some movie-struck girl to run up and put her arms around some screen hero and kiss him in front of everyone in a Hollywood restaurant. It always ends up with the fact that the girl had bet someone back home that she would kiss him.

So you see after all there's much more to being a screen star than just acting before the cameras.

THE TEN BEST-DRESSED MEN:

The ten best-dressed men for 1936 have been chosen by Eleanor Powell, star of the musical extravaganza "Born to Dance." Here are her choices: Robert Taylor for his slacks. Ronald Coleman for his top-coats. Robert Montgomery for his shoes. Fred Astaire for his dress clothes. Lewis Stone for his general wardrobe. O. McIntyre for his shirts and ties. Clark Gable for his "careless" outfits. Frank Buck for his hunting clothes. Leslie Howard for his tweeds. James Stewart for his sweaters.

Yes, you could have almost bet money before she picked the ten that the name of James Stewart would be included. Ho hum.

DO YOU KNOW: That Robert Woolsey started earning money as a jockey and that his screen partner Best Wheeler began as a newsboy in Paterson, New Jersey... first big stage success in "Rio Rita" they repeated it in the films... Best is active and restless, loves golf and travel... Bob is a homebody and the team's manager... last opus was "Hummy's Boys" next "A Pair of Sixes."

HOLLYWOOD STYLESCOPE

BY HAZEL MAY: The fashion deadline on summer clothes is rapidly approaching. Right now summer frocks are passe because the actresses are adorning smart, fall costumes. Katharine Hepburn was seen wearing a clever adaptation from "Mary of Scotland" made of black taffeta, princess style, fastened down the front with ten dozen small taffeta covered buttons and a high winged collar of white lace... One of the clever designed hats being worn by Lily Pons was a small close hat built high with two large flowers in the front. This makes a perfect cocktail hat.

MOVIE MUTTERINGS: Here's one for your files. Mary Carlisle called this laugh to her mother in Hollywood from Naples, Italy. The actress packed her clothes in her trunk preparatory to leaving for Naples from Rome, and just as she expressed her name she discovered that all she had to wear was the silk pajamas which she had on... For the first time in several years Claudette Colbert is banishing her famous bangs for the Puritan girl role in "Maid of Salem"... Mae West, star of the forthcoming "Go West Young Man" (which by the way is a very good title for her opus), has revealed her description of her favorite masculine type. She told me she must have masculinity, personal charm, sympathy, strength of character, and distinctiveness. "A man doesn't have to be big, strong or handsome to have anyone of those," she added... Simone Simon (both pronounced the same way), the French imported actress deluxe, has created a mild sensation with the release of her first picture "Girls Dormitory." Simone tells me she hasn't any boy friends because they talk too much about themselves. Believe it or not she's looking for a boy friend who will take her places and won't talk so much about himself.

INSIDE GOSSIP: The romance between Director Rouben Mamoulian and his actress sweetheart Gertrude Michael is becoming more and more alarming. They're being seen everywhere together.

WHAT brunette feminine screen star has all Hollywood guessing over her love life? No one knows the identity of the man who holds her favor. Yet she's engaged. The son of the former auto magnate W. C. Durant, Jr., used to be number one man. Do you know who he is, That's all for today. Until next week I remain your Hollywood correspondent who says "just because marriage is a farce, doesn't mean you'll get any laughs out of it!"

EASTERN SHORE NEWS IN BRIEF

Items Gathered Here And There On The Peninsula

The herd of pure-bred Holsteins owned by Frank Kelly made a strong come back in August landing in first place by a large margin. Their production for the month, 43.1 pounds of butterfat and 1026 pounds of milk being the highest monthly average made in the Cecil County Cow Testing Association during the past year or more. This being a gain of 8.8 lbs. of butterfat and 227 lbs. milk over last month's production and 9.6 lbs. of butterfat above their nearest competitor this month.

Muskat and hay marsh rentals have increased briskly in Sussex County, as a result of the larger yields since the installation of mosquito control ditches, it was brought out by a survey recently conducted among trappers and marsh owners. Marshes which formerly were considered worthless are once again being trapped, and large catches were reported last season on areas that were stagnant and worthless prior to the ditching.

Mr. J. H. Noble, prominent Federalsburg lumber dealer, is now eligible to become a member of the Maryland Swordfish Club and to have his name inscribed in the hall of fame of big game fishermen. Mr. Noble was the only successful fisherman in a party composed of Russell Hollowell, Ridgeway Brown, Robert Eddington and Russell Morgan, who left from Ocean City in quest of Marlin on Monday of last week. His catch weighed 51 pounds, was six feet, eight inches long and had a tail spread of 24 inches. Mr. Noble landed the mighty fish after a forty-five minute struggle.

With even the weatherman cooperating by tossing in a warm, beautiful September day, the 16th Annual Horse Show of the Queen Anne's Horse Breeders' Association hung up new highs for excellence all along the line as the group staged what was by far the most colorful and successful show in their long history at the Race Track near Centreville, on Labor Day.

Competition was keener than ever before as large classes of high type animals faced the judges. Chief honors of the Show again went to the hunters entered by the Webley farm of Mrs. Evelyn Walker Robert, of Talbot county, but not by as wide a margin as previously.

After waiting patiently for several months, the Laurel Volunteer Fire Company and the Laurel Town Council received word Wednesday evening that a PWA grant had been approved for a new fire house and city hall to be constructed in Laurel. Miss Mildred Coleman, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hodge Coleman, of near Crumpton, was killed instantly Sunday night when an automobile in which she was riding with three companions was involved in a three-car crash on the Chestertown-Kennedyville highway. Edwin Seward, with whom she was sharing the rumble seat in the rear, is in the Kent-Queen Anne's General Hospital, Chestertown, with a fractured skull, and is in a serious condition. Miss Margaret Turner, of Ruthsburg, and Norville Patton, driver of the car, sustained minor injuries. Miss Coleman was hurled headlong from the car and died of a broken neck.

Captain Harry Dill, Centreville's last link with the days of skipper-own- ed craft plying the rivers and the Bay, died at the helm of his bug-eye "Sarah Wingate" off Pioneer Point Tuesday at 9 P. M. Obviously stricken and unsteady as he neared Town Bar buoy, Capt. Dill had steered his craft on the wrong side of the buoy. It was then that Charles Barnes, a Negro and the only other man aboard the boat, noticed that the veteran skipper was not himself. Capt. Dill called for a drink of water. When Barnes returned with it he had slumped down and died at the wheel. The Sara Wingate grounded on a sand bar. The Negro came ashore in a dinghy and walked into Centreville for assistance. The body, after examination by Dr. H. F. McPherson, was brought to his late home at Centreville Landing at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The fourteen month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alben Serverson, of near Felton, Del., was drowned in a fish pond at the home of his parents about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. With another playmate the child was playing in the yard while the mother and Mrs. Virginia Hollaway, a friend, of Harrington, Del., were inspecting the garden. Returning to the place where they had left the children, they found the young child missing. A hurried search was made which resulted in finding the child in the fish pond with his face down.

Dorchester County is represented in the National Rifle Matches being held at Camp Perry, Ohio, by Corporal Ernest L. Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bell, of Woodford. He expects to return sometime the latter part of this month. While attending Camp Ritchie this summer, he made the highest score in the First Regiment, which is composed of 1100 enlisted officers and men. He scored 237 out of a possible 250.

Setting up a figure of 1,355 pounds of milk and 50.1 pounds of butterfat for August, Brownie, a graded Guernsey owned by John Smith led all the animals in the Queen Anne's Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month, according to results announced by Wilbur H. Morris, tester.

Impressive services were held at the Long Wharf last Sunday afternoon in memory of Capt. Calvert Leonard, a former member of Cambridge Yacht Club, which organization was in charge of the services. lar Hill Avenue, and East and West Main street. The cooperation of State Police from the local substation in the movement has been assured.

The Ocean City Chamber of Commerce has re-elected Capt. W. I. Parnell president for the next two years. Alan Goldborough will talk at the first 1936-37 meeting of the Wicomico County Council of Parents and Teachers which will be held in the Wicomico High School auditorium on Friday evening, September 18, at 7.45 according to an announcement made by Mr. S. Denmead Kolb, president of the organization.

Highway accidents took a toll of two deaths Friday on the lower Eastern Shore of Maryland, as a Newark, Md., farmer was instantly killed near Berlin when his car overturned and a negro woman was struck by a hit-and-run driver near Rhoadesdale. The dead are Norman H. Jones, 45, of Newark, and Midgie Robinson, a negro woman, of near Rhoadesdale.

The last section of the present dual highway program of the Delaware State Highway Department, the five-mile Glasgow road section between Bear and the Maryland line, has been completed and was thrown open to the traveling public last Saturday.

The Queen Anne's county 4-H cattle judging team, disrupted by the enforced withdrawal of Hodge Coleman, Jr., owing to the death of his sister, placed 12th out of 18 county squads at Timonium Fair Monday. The team was the second highest on the Eastern Shore, however, being headed only by Wicomico.

Plans are about complete for the annual flower and horticulture show sponsored jointly by the Centreville Woman's Club and the Future Farmers of America, Queen Anne's county chapters, which will be held at the Centreville Armory Friday and Saturday, September 18 and 19. The doors will open Friday at 3 p. m. and Saturday at 10 a. m.

The State of Delaware did not have one serious accident resulting in serious injury or death by motor vehicles over the Labor Day holiday. This is a record of which the state can well be proud as it was not duplicated anywhere in the country.

Christian Science Services

"Matter" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 20.

The Golden Text will be from John 3:16—"That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit."

Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon will be the following from the Bible—Isa. 55:1—"Ho, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, page 286, "God's thoughts are perfect and eternal, are substance and life. Material and temporal thoughts are human, involving error, and since God, Spirit, is the only cause, they lack a divine cause. The temporal and material are not then creations of Spirit. They are but counterfeit of the spiritual and eternal."

Services: Sunday, 11 a. m., Chamber of Commerce Hall, Salisbury, Md. On Sunday afternoon, September 20, from 2:45 to 3:00 o'clock a Christian Science program will be broadcast over Station WCAO, Baltimore, 600 k. c.

"Fore." I'm teed up and here I come. Driving around the downs with one club, which recalls the pasture golf called "Peggy" played by boys about twenty years ago. The ball was a stick about as big as a broom handle, six inches long, pointed on both ends. It was laid across another ball or "Peggy" with one end on the ground, the other tilted up in the air. An ordinary broom handle or hickory sapling was the club used to hit the point end of the "Peggy" which lifted it into the air. A quick swing caught the Peggy and drove it seventy-five to one hundred yards where it often "pegged" or stuck up in the ground. It was not unusual for one of them to land on Mr. "Chal's" cow.

This pasture golf game "Peggy" is not unlike the first golf or "kolf"—a variation of hockey played on ice by the Dutch. It is thought the game was carried to Scotland about 1600 and early in 1600 it is recorded that James I and Charles I were golf enthusiasts. Golf still is the national game of Scotland and the royal sport of Britain. I came to the United States by the way of Canada where the Royal Montreal Club was organized in 1873. The St. Andrew's Golf Club in New York, the first in the United States, was organized in November 1888, but there were few if any public links before 1900. It was the rich man's game. It changed his ways of living and doing business and gave his wife a new name—"golf widow."

First it was the children's game; then an old man's game; then the tired business man's and now it appears to be returning to the youth of the country. It is called the scientific game. Really, it is everybody's game. Probably, the most progressive club on the peninsula is the Talbot Country Club in Easton. On Labor Day Billy Shannahan, Talbot's leading golfer lost the Eastern Shore championship to Joe Schiller, crack Salisbury player. Those participating are still talking about the wonderful reception they received while visiting the Talbot Club. Last week the 4th Annual battle was won at Garden City, Long Island, for the Amateur Championship of the United States. It is difficult to think about champions without mentioning Bobby Jones, Glenna Collett, Terry Dunlap and Walter Hagen, who visited a number of Peninsula courses several years ago.

Clubs can be had at almost any price one desires to pay. Some of the players still prefer the apple or thornwood head with hickory or lancewood shaft. Most of the young players prefer the newer steel shafted club. Why a course has nine holes or eighteen holes is called an official round has not been answered up to this time but it is certain that the game cultivates courtesy, patience, body control, and gives walking exercise.

Back in 1930 miniature or Tom Thumb Golf gave the youngsters their real start in golf and although we do not hear much about it there has been a decided revival in this town lot game this summer. Within the next several weeks a most interesting and unique game of golf will be played on the Belmont course near Preston. Two golfers with regular clubs and two archers using bows and arrows will compete in a game of archery golf. Golf is an excellent game for growing young people.

Books: Golf for Young Players—Glenna Collett; Golf—Cotton; Down the Fairway—Jones and Keeler; Cut Your Score—Largner; A New Way to Better Golf—Morrison.

RADIANT LIVING The Sufficiency Of Divine Revelation

By Rev. C. M. Griffith
Sudlersville, Md.

Why did not the Christ make Himself known to the two disciples as He walked with them along the way to Emmaus? Why did He wait until He broke the bread at their humble home that evening?

Perhaps a sudden revelation of His identity would have been too much for their credulity. They might have taken it as a hallucination. It must have been to safeguard them against all such danger that He took the precaution to prepare the way before making Himself known by first walking, talking, and eating with them.

And as they recalled how He had talked with them and how He had eaten with them, the disciples knew that they had not seen an apparition. He was a real man!

And then again, in the breaking of bread and in the handing of it to them. He was, in reality, approaching that inner shrine of sacred truth wherein the glory of Deity itself could no longer be concealed. Nobody had extended bread to another as He once did in that upper room. And in the handing of that bread and in all that it signified, He stood revealed!

I thank God that when Christ reveals Himself to the soul there can be no mistake. There can be no lingering doubts. The soul has recognized Deity and that is enough!

"The Word of Our God Shall Stand Forever"
Mary Jones And Her Bible
By Edgar Cordell Powers
Executive Secretary

In the year 1788 there was born in the rugged country of North Wales a baby girl whose influence has wrought more good than the wisest student of Sociology and Religion could compute. She was the daughter of a crippled weaver and his pious wife. Her name was Mary Jones.

When little Mary was old enough to accompany her mother to the church, let us say at six or seven years of age, she astonished her parents by her natural love for Bible verses, invariably repeating to her invalid father those she had heard the minister read at the meeting. From year to year her interest in the Bible grew with her stature, until at ten years of age she resolved to have a Bible for her very own; but the Jones family were too poor to pay the price for the Word of God. This price was necessarily high because of printing costs of small editions.

So Mary Jones began to save the tiny sums she was able to make taking care of neighbor's children, helping with house cleaning, running errands, or any other chores within her strength and ability. After six years of planning and saving, Mary found herself in possession of the necessary sum for the purchase of a Welsh Bible; but the only place where such a book could be obtained was at the home of the Rev. Thomas Charles, of Bala, twenty-five miles away. Mary Jones, then sixteen years of age, obtained the consent of her parents to walk to Bala—much of the way over fields and unimproved roads—that she might secure the precious Book. It was an all day journey. When she arrived at Bala, footsore and weary, it was only to learn that Rev. Mr. Charles had promised to another person the last volume in his possession. This was indeed the last straw. Six years of self-denial, twenty-five miles on foot, and disappointment at the end! Mary did what any other girl would have done under the circumstances, she sat down and had a good cry.

Pastor Charles and his good wife were so touched by Mary's grief, and the story of her long struggle to obtain a Bible, that he said: "There, there, Mary, don't cry any more. You are going to get your Bible, and the other person will have to wait until more are published. Dry your tears, eat a good dinner, and then have a good sleep. Tomorrow you shall return, taking your Bible with you."

We may be sure that Mary's smile was like sunshine after rain when this comforting word came from the good Pastor, and that her journey home did not seem so long nor even so wearisome. For she carried with her not only the Word which was a light unto her feet, a lamp upon her path, but which contained the divine promise of strength and help for every time of need.

When the story of this brave and loyal girl's quest for the Word became known, it created such a stir among Bible lovers that steps were immediately taken to publish more and cheaper volumes of the Book of Books, and in the languages of the people. A group inspired by this story as told by Rev. Charles, formed a Society in 1804 for the translation, publication, and distribution of the Holy Scriptures, which was to be known as The British and Foreign Bible Society.

"A little child shall lead them." Had it not been for the story of Mary Jones and her Bible, this great missionary enterprise might have been much longer delayed, or might never have been born. The consequences of her love for the Book and her devotion to it will roll on through the ages like a mighty tide, until through the printed page every nation, kindred, and tongue shall know the truth which makes men free indeed.

Let that be a LESSON!

CLASSES ORGANIZED AT MARION SCHOOL

Officers Elected At Session On Wednesday

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION HELD MEETING FRIDAY

On Friday, September 11, the two Literary Societies, Whittiers and Longfellow, held a meeting for the purpose of allowing the pupils of the Freshman Class to draw slips determining the society to which they should belong.

The two societies showed the most enthusiasm which had been shown for years while they were drawing. This is how they were arranged.

Longfellow—Emily Adams, Virginia Burton, Margaret Coons, Katharine Hayman, Pauline Maddox, Ruth Swift, Ruth Worth, Jesse Johnson, Benson Long, Carisle Marshall, and Vance Miles.

Both the Whittiers and the Longfellow are very well pleased with the new members and cordially welcome them in their societies. They feel sure that within a short time each newcomer will be a full-fledged Longfellow or Whittier.

Athletic Association. The first meeting of the Athletic Association of Marion High School was held on Friday, September 11.

The purpose of this association is to encourage and promote on a higher plane intra and inter-scholastic athletics, and directly aim to improve the physical condition and strengthen the moral fiber of all students. The officers, who were elected, are as follows:

President—Elmo Dryden.
Vice President—Caroline Burton.
Secretary—Betty Jane Green.
Treasurer—Margaret Gibbons.

Representative of Student Body—Hall Miles, Jr.

Cheer Leaders—Norma Barlowe, Emyne Taylor, Walter Brittingham, Raymond Wootter.

The officers are efficient ones, and we feel sure that the Athletic Association will fulfill its purpose.

In order to start the new year off in a systematic order, and to develop good fellowship throughout the classes, our first class meeting was held on Wednesday morning. The following officers were elected in each classroom:

Senior. President—Earl Parsons, Jr.
Vice President—Hall Miles, Jr.
Secretary—Isabel Maddox.
Junior. President—Emlyne Taylor.
Vice President—Cooper Long.
Secretary—Evelyn Howard.
Treasurer—Mae Butler.

Vice President—Ernest Bradshaw.
Secretary—Francis Swift.
Treasurer—Muriel Lewis.

The Freshmen Class haven't chosen their officers at present, but they expect to choose them at the next class meeting.

With such a good set of officers in each class and with the cooperation of everyone, this school year should be a successful one.

Not only do we see the regular members of the high school, but we often notice that several of our alumni are back in school. We always enjoy having them, and we are proud to know that they are still interested in Marion High, even though they have been graduated. Those who have visited us are: Mary Horse, Lorraine Massey, Lake Matthews, Pete Ward, Eloise Adams, Thurman Taylor, Miles Tull, Paul Marshall, Olive May Whitington, Austin Matthews, Joyce Adams, Robert Miles, Harold Littleton.

We have had quite a few to come back, and we hope that they will continue coming to see us. We know that many others will come also.

One of our objects this year is going to be to increase our library. Already we have added two new books, one of which is "Reading Menus for Young People". This book contains several chapters about much-loved books old and new with biographical notes also. Its purpose is to familiarize the students with the famous classics.

Our other new book is "How to Judge Motion Pictures". It was written especially for high school students. Since all films cannot be judged by the same standards, this book uses different standards as subjects for discussion. With this book, education takes one more significant step toward controlling intelligently the out-of-school activities of students.

When our English teacher, Miss Lynch, was asked what she thought about the classics being made into motion pictures, she gave the answer which her professor at Columbia University gave this summer. He said that when the first classics were made into movies, professors awaited their outcome with fear and dread. They were afraid that people would no longer read these books now that they could see them on the screen; in this way the author's style and diction would be completely lost. Upon investigation, however, they found to their delightful surprise that the outcome was just the opposite. Thousands more readers were buying clas-

KEEP THIS CRISFIELD INDUSTRY IN CRISFIELD

When you speak of Wilmington, you think of duPont. In the years to come, when a person speaks of Crisfield, the name will likely immediately be associated with Briddell. Why?

Well, it is just like this: Charles D. Briddell, Inc., of which Charles D. Briddell is president and A. Wellington Tawes is vice-president, has been developing and growing at a rapid rate. From the manufacture and sale of oyster knives and oyster tongs, a small business, it has been expanded by the energy and ability of the directing heads into a company that stands well up in the field of novelty advertising manufacturing, of butchers tools manufacturing, and finally, by virtue of owning a basic patent on animal traps, the manufacturing of muskrat traps on a huge scale.

It is interesting to know that this concern has paid out in wages in the past ten years in Crisfield $316,635.00; for fuel, $25,581.00; for fire insurance, $9,960.00; for supplies and sundries, office supplies, etc. $43,480.00; and for postage, $15,405.00.

In 1935, labor was paid $39,800.00 and it is estimated that the pay roll for the 72 persons now employed by this concern during 1936 will be about $47,600.00, or nearly a thousand dollars a week.

Of course a business such as this cannot be built up without spending money for new machinery—ploughing back into the business some of the earnings. It needs more money for raw materials and it needs more money for pay rolls so that it can pay for the manufacture of a greater volume of articles. These articles are sold all over the United States and in some foreign countries. They must be charged on the books of the concern, and the concern must wait thirty, sixty or possibly ninety days for payment.

In the meanwhile, the wheels in the plant are turning day and night. Men employed there must be paid every week. Material must be paid for. And mind, there is an ever increasing demand for money for these purposes because the business is growing.

The managers of Briddell's cannot just say "Abracadabra" and pull the money out of the air. They can finance themselves at the Banks in Crisfield for short periods, it is true, and they do this, but a Bank cannot lend them money for their long time needs, and here is where the private investor comes in. He or she can loan this money, and should loan the money, provided the investment is safe and yields a reasonable return.

According to the statement of this firm, they are making a profit on their business—enough of a profit to justify them in going to the people in Crisfield and asking them to subscribe a small amount of working capital, for which the concern says it is able to and can pay a reasonable rate of interest and put enough of its assets back of the money loaned to make it safe.

There is every reason why Crisfield people should help to furnish this concern with working capital. It is growing fast and has great future possibilities. It may eventually turn Crisfield from a sea food into a manufacturing city. Outside interests are trying now to obtain the basic patent rights on the animal trap this concern owns, and if they do, that business, which some time will employ hundreds of men, will go away from Crisfield.

Here is a challenge to our Chambers of Commerce, to our civic pride. We have been and are trying to locate new industries in Crisfield. Here we have one already set up, with men working every day in the week and getting their pay every week to be spent in this community. We have been crying for industries that will employ men. HERE WE HAVE ONE THAT IS EMPLOYING MEN!

SHALL WE, FOR THE WANT OF A FEW DOLLARS TO BE INVESTED IN A CRISFIELD ENTERPRISE, RUN BY CRISFIELD PEOPLE, LET THIS INDUSTRY GET AWAY FROM US, and continue chasing our tail round and round like a cat at play, trying to fool ourselves into believing that we are accomplishing something. OR SHALL WE JUSTIFY OUR EXISTENCE AS ORGANIZATIONS AND AS INDIVIDUAL CITIZENS BY PRODUCING THE MONEY THIS CONCERN NEEDS DURING ITS PERIOD OF EXPANSION?

RAISE THE PRICE FOR PICKING CRABS AND SHUCKING OYSTERS

Some time ago, when the depths of the depression made the action necessary, the price for picking crabs and for shucking oysters was cut by our local packers. It can be said for them they held the price up until competition from other sections that had cut the price for this labor made it compulsory for our people to take some action.

The "Times" was reluctant at that time to accept the action of the packers, but conceded there was necessity for it.

Now, when there is an excellent demand for both crab meat and for shucked oysters, at fair prices, and when the country is admittedly far along the road to recovery, IT IS TIME THAT THE PACKERS RAISED THE PRICE OF PICKING CRABS FROM FIVE CENTS TO SEVEN CENTS PER POUND, AND THE PRICE FOR SHUCKING OYSTERS FROM .25 CENTS TO AT LEAST .30 CENTS PER GALLON.

In several of the Southern states such action is contemplated. In Maryland, if Crisfield led in the undertaking, we believe the balance of the state would follow our lead.

It might be well for the Conservation officials of this state to meet with the officials of the Bureau of Fisheries of the state of Virginia, and endeavor to secure cooperative efforts in the matter.

The raise in prices for picking crabs and shucking oysters would be a big boon, first to the workers, and next to the merchants. It would benefit the landlord, and finally, the coffers of the city of Crisfield would receive some of the money. As a matter of fact, WHILE THE WORKERS AND THE MERCHANTS WOULD BE THE GREATEST BENEFICIARIES OF THIS PRICE RAISE, nearly everybody in the community would benefit, some way, too.

The cost of living has advanced, and the crab pickers and the oyster shuckers must live, just as the rest of us must live. They can give better service and happier service when they are earning a living than when they are merely existing, as many of them are doing at present. The increase in price for their labor would give them most of the necessities of life and occasionally, some of the comforts.

So—AS A MATTER OF BUSINESS AND AS A MATTER OF TREATING LABOR SQUARE—the price raise should be put into effect.

THE BALTIMORE "SUN" AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

In it's old and enfeebled age, after a long period of hesitation, the Baltimore "Sun" last week announced it could not support President Roosevelt for re-election.

The editorial announcement was begun clearly enough, the reasons given for it's non-support of the President were understandable, the admission of the good that Roosevelt's administration had accomplished was there, but then, like an old man in his dotage whose attention can be centered on a matter for only a limited time, the editorial utterance wound up weakly with the assumption by the writer that the "Sun" would be unable to support Mr. Landon also. It was as through two men had written the article—one virile, aggressive, determined, uncompromising, raised in the atmosphere of the financial and wholesale districts of Baltimore; the other vacillating, complaining rather than courageous, shrewish, timid.

What it's effect will be on the electorate of Maryland is problematical. It wasn't just cricket to make the announcement while carrying on a straw vote in the State—it should have been made sooner. That it is resented is plain; that it will help Mr. Landon much in Maryland is doubtful; that it will help Mr. Roosevelt is likelier; that it will have more effect outside the State than in it seems a surety.

As a Maryland newspaper supporting President Roosevelt for reelection we would rather have had the "Sun" support him, too. On the other hand we cannot believe the "Sun" can support Governor Landon, on his record and his utterances, actively, without stultifying itself. Therefore, such comfort and aid as it gives to Mr. Landon must be done with its tongue in its cheek and a mighty bitter taste in its mouth, and that kind of aid and support usually don't amount to much.

Letters To The President

Sept. 16th, 1936. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President: I am well and hope you are the same. Well, Mr. President, the straw ballots are getting under way and wherever two or three are gathered together the talk is about whether you are going to reelect or whether Mr. Landon is going to be the next President, and usually the arguments finishes with people in the same state of mind they was in when it was begun, and not knowing any more about the matter than they did before.

Down here in Maryland they are taking one of them straw votes and every day your vote is getting bigger and bigger and some of the people can't understand just how it is happening that nearly every county in the State and all but one of the wards in Baltimore city are voting majorities for you, but the answer is that it is the common people who are your friends, and as long as you have the common people with you, why, there is no danger that you will get licked. I see by the papers, that Mr. Acting Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, who was Governor of Kansas himself just before Mr. Landon was elected Governor, also balanced the budget in Kansas, and the reason he and Mr. Gov. Landon balanced the budget out there was because the State law in Kansas makes the Governors balance the budget or else.

Like that woman out in Kansas who wrote the local paper that "during the last Republican administration we hauled our wheat to elevators for the magnificent sum of 22 to 28 cents a bushel—delivered. How do you suppose we met expenses, you are right. We didn't!" there is a whole lot of a real story in those few words, and if people's memory was a little longer, why, you would have so many votes in November that it would take two or three days to count 'em all, and you probably will have enough anyway.

Now Mr. President, your greatest handicap, as me and the boys see it, is what the speakers in our own party say when they are talking over the radio or out at some political gathering, and we had a sample of it here the other day when a lady from Pennsylvania came down in Maryland and made a political speech at a Maryland Women's meeting and said something about Governor Landon trimming Christmas cards down in size so they would go through the mail for one cent instead of one and a half cents each, and it is little things like that that come from people who ought to know better that turn votes here and there against a man and sometimes lose the election for him.

As you know, I am always looking out for your interests, Mr. President, and while you have made a good many mistakes, and some times you have made me so mad that I wanted to fight, by and large you have done such a good job that you are entitled to four more years in the White House, and the people are going to see that you stay there that long, because you have seen that people didn't starve, and you have seen that many other people got jobs, and you have helped to improve communities and cities and towns, and there is a great many beauty spots all over the country which is the result of spending some government money, where before there was things that were ugly and dirty and dangerous, and the effect of spending money, on the health of the Nation, means a whole lot and freedom from disease will help pay back a lot of the money that has been spent, and the whole country will be better off for having had you as a President.

As old man Tutwiler says, it aint the "squish" that does it, it's the "squash" and the "squash" both that's needed, and by gravy, you have had both the "squish" and the "squash" at the right times. Hoping you are the same, and with best regards from me and the boys, I am,

Democratically and oratorically yours, Juniper Tarr.

SQUAWKS

By ACE BELL

A man was once caught by his Mrs. To the maidervant giving some Krs. On perceiving his plight, He suggested in fright, What a most inconvenient mess Thrs. —College Humor.

If all our misfortunes were laid in one common heap, whence everyone must take an equal portion, most people would be content to take their own and depart. —Socrates.

Greetings, dear, dear pippie. We're considerably unrepresent in times ago, and this here now "newspaper" has been destitute of our scrivening, and you beloved readers have had to depend upon Mr. Juniper Tarr for your smiles. But now, much to your delight, we are again back in your midst. So we will pick up where we left off and try to bring a little sunshine in your drab lives and coax a smiler out of the subscription list once each week.

We were grieved last week when Uncle Esid failed to commit any copy. But 'twas ever thus. As soon as we got adjusted to something, that something is removed, so what are we going to do with the adjustment?

But we still got the feature "Treasure and Trash." Now we ask you, Ain't it about time we got a little of the "Treasure"?

And the Presidential campaign swings into the final lap, and the candidates are expressing themselves with abandon. It appears that the "outs" are pointing out the errors of the "ins" and the "ins" are defending themselves, and indications are that there will be an interesting time November third. We make no prediction other than that somebody is sure to be elected, and on that particular day at least, the forgotten man will be remembered.

A young lady up the street there files a bill of complaint. It appears that she was attacked by a grasshopper. Now we hasten to reassure her. A grasshopper has a reputation for kicking brains out and many are said to chew tobacco, but the bite is practically harmless.

It appears that the new State road from Westover to Crisfield has been relegated to a dusty pigeon hole. There seems to be even no agitation now. We have left it to our civic organizations. But it now seems that we shall have to take action ourselves. Now that Boulder Dam is finished, attention should be given to that road.

SALISBURY COLLEGE

NOW HAS 200 STUDENTS

Largest Enrollment in History Of Shore Institution

With the return of Mr. Bryden Moon of Oakland, Md., a freshman during 1935-36, the Salisbury College has attained its goal of 200 students. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the college. Additional students are expected, since they may enroll for full credit up to and including Tuesday, September 22nd. All available graduates in the three and four years classes of June, 1936, with one exception, have already been employed as teachers. There is now no doubt that there will be a shortage of elementary teachers in Maryland beginning almost immediately.

Miss Elizabeth Harcum and Mr. Arthur E. Williams, of Salisbury, students at this college during 1934-36, and Miss Hastea Smith of Greensboro, a freshman this year, have just received notice to the effect that they have each been awarded scholarships at the University of Maryland.

The following students from Somerset county are attending the College this year:

COMMON SENSE REMEDIES

Since the early days of the depression the people have had it dinned into their ears that "prosperity was just around the corner." For a long time—too long for our good—the reiterated statement was accepted literally and interpreted to mean that all we had to do was to sit still and let prosperity come around that corner and come to us. And, of course, we waited in vain, until we changed administration and policy and decided that it must be us, the people, who must go around that corner if we expected to reach prosperity. We haven't fully accomplished the task, but we have in part succeeded. And whatever and however the critics rave, and in whichever way we have attained the present degree of recovery, there is no disputing the fact that this attainment has been as remarkable as it is gratifying and we can accept the statement to that effect by the Nation's Chief Executive with total disregard of possible political effect and as simple assurance that economic illness has yielded to common sense remedies. —Atlantic City Evening Union

TREASURE AND TRASH

Virgin Parity

The morning pearl, the beautiful, the Bodo which has attracted the best riders and steer throwers in the country, Chrysler Hall, and the exhibit Law West of the Pecos, a replica of the Alamo. And there was the Black Forest in which one was carried far away to a picturesque old German town, with their quaint costumes and yodeling waiters. Here one could watch the foremost ice skaters of the world perform; imagine ice skating in Texas in the middle of July.

Patience

Patience!—why, 'tis the soul of peace: Of all the virtues, 'tis nearest kin to Heaven:

It makes men look like Gods. The best of men

That e're wore earth about him was a sufferer,

A soft, meek, patient, humble, tranquil spirit:

The first true gentleman that ever breathed.

Impress Of The Creator

There's not a leaf within the bowler, There's not a bird upon a tree, There's not a dewdrop on the flower, But bears the impress, Lord, of Thee! Amelia Opie.

The circus is coming! It doesn't make any difference how big or how little it is, or whether it is a "dog and pony" or a "three ringer" there is something in the very thought of it that brightens the countenance and develops interest and makes us start to figure just how we can get there in the afternoon to see just what kind of a circus it is. The one that is coming next week is going to be of some benefit to the community, for it is going to share its receipts with the Liljan Stratton Corbin Memorial Public Library, which does, by the way, need the help it is going to get from the circus. So here's to all of us who never get too old to be thrilled by the very mention of the fact that a circus will be here, and who are thrilled even more when the parade goes through town, and then, scale the very heights of contentment when we sit on the circus seats and watch the various acts.

Maybe President Roosevelt should sue the Baltimore "Sun" for non-support. He has a good case.

"Wings over Crisfield"

The local boys who have just received their new airplane and have established a base for it down near the old LaVallette place, have been showing Crisfield some regular flying every day this week and as a consequence there will be more requests for airplanes in years to Santa Claus this Christmas than for many years. We are, and ought to be, right proud of our local flyers, and their effort to establish a flying business here will be successful, we hope, and profitable. And may their hours in the air be safe hours, and their landings always be happy landings.

The Little Church up in the country

The little church up in the country last Sunday afternoon when the Bishop presided at a confirmation service when a young lady and a young man were confirmed. In the church, the chandeliers have glass lamps that burn coal oil, and the chimney of each lamp was as clear and polished as glass possibly could be. While the Sun was shining brightly outside, warming the breasts of the graves in which rest children, women and men who are there awaiting the general resurrection, inside the church was a mixture of light and shade, and in the front part of the church where the Bishop and his assistants conducted the service the shadows and dimness were more noticeable. And as the hymns were sung, and as the prayers were said, and as the white haired Bishop raised his eyes to Heaven and with outstretched hand blessed the congregation gathered there, it was easy to imagine that Christ might have held such a service in the hills near Jerusalem, where the living were assembled and the dead lay in peace, and with His face raised to where He knew His Father dwells, asked a blessing on his followers.

CONCERNING VACATIONS

By CHAS. F. RICHARDSON

The buildings at the Texas Centennial are not temporary affairs but permanent structures, many of them decorated with lovely murals painted by artists of renown while at the entrance are works of modern sculpture. It is quite impossible to describe all of the buildings with their wonderful exhibits; there were far too many and one would have to stay a week to really see all the marvels of science achievement and engineering development that are on display. The Travel and Transportation building with its exhibits of ancient and modern means of transportation, the Hall of Fine Arts, the Varied Industries Building, the Hall of Religion, the Federal Building, the Texas Rangers Cabin, the marvelous exhibits in the field of electricity. Ford and General Motors were represented by fine buildings and exhibits. Oh, yes, and the Streets of Paris. I must go to Paris some time, not that this particular thing impressed me as much as some of the exhibits, of course not, but you understand how it is—the necessity for a little frivolity along with serious things. The Apple dance was very aesthetic and let me assure you your education will be sadly neglected if at some time in your life you fail to see it. There was the city of China, very interesting, Hollywood and the beautiful Texas Hall of State, the Bodo which has attracted the best riders and steer throwers in the country, Chrysler Hall, and the exhibit Law West of the Pecos, a replica of the Alamo. And there was the Black Forest in which one was carried far away to a picturesque old German town, with their quaint costumes and yodeling waiters. Here one could watch the foremost ice skaters of the world perform; imagine ice skating in Texas in the middle of July.

The public address system employed at the Centennial was really something to admire for at any time of the day or night it was possible to contact anyone within the grounds. At intervals, over it were heard programs featuring the foremost artists of radio and screen. To fully enter into the spirit of the occasion Wallace and myself were wearing typical cowboy somberas and one little incident that happened will always amuse me. We had stopped at a shooting gallery and Wallace picked up one of the rifles to try his skill, possibly it was the somberas that did it, at any rate quite a crowd gathered around us as he proceeded to knock down the little clay pigeons and hit the various bulls' eyes with precision and dispatch. Personally I think it was just luck but as he laid down the rifle, pushed the cowboy hat on the back of his head, hitched up his trousers and sauntered off some of the crowd gasped and exclaimed "Boy, can that Cowboy shoot!" Well, was he cocky for awhile! I fully expected to see him take the horse of one of the rangers and proceed to give a demonstration of bronco busting.

The Cavalcade of Texas

which we saw on our last night in Dallas was the most impressive pageant it has ever been my privilege to witness; it alone was well worth the entire trip. Staged in an open air theatre, which I believe was formerly used as a race track, we sat with thousands of others under the stars and watched this magnificent spectacle depicting the glorious history of Texas under six flags. Every spoken word as clear and distinct as tho the listener was within a few feet of the speaker and when the scenes changed for the various periods a curtain of water arose from the ground colored with all the hues of a rainbow and blotting out the entire setting. It was one of the most ingenious arrangements imaginable. At the dramatic finish of the pageant the thousands of spectators arose as one in a wild and well deserved ovation that must have made a native Texan tingle with pride.

If you can possibly go to Texas during their great Centennial don't fail to do so. Failing that, go to Texas anyway, for there you will find a state gigantic in size, unsurpassed in hospitality and boundless in its opportunities, progressive to the ninth degree and offering the visitor enough to satisfy the most demanding. Never will I hear anyone from Texas make a boast of his state that I think can't be substantiated. We said good bye to it with reluctance.

Leaving Dallas we decided on another route back to New Orleans

one that took us through Houston and here one finds another great city. Stopping for dinner I had one of the largest and tenderest steaks you ever heard tell of. To any unmarried man that may read this let me say if ever you meet a young lady with a heart as tender as that steak, marry the girl. On through Port Houston with its maze of shipping and finally back into Louisiana. Just at twilight we were travelling through the Louisiana rice fields, the green rice stretching out as far as the eye could see, through Lake Charles, Morgan City, New Iberia, and from New Iberia into New Orleans was the longest ride I ever took, utterly played out from so much driving we thought we would never make it but finally about midnight we arrived and boy did that bed feel good that night. We spent the next day taking in more places of interest in the city then drove on to spend the night at Biloxi by the Gulf.

SAVERS ARE NOT MISERS

There are men who can't keep a ten dollar bill long enough to get finger-prints on it. They admit that they are extravagant.

In striking contrast, are a few strange individuals who will go to almost any lengths to save a dime. They hoard their thrift. That is not thrift.

Thrift is something more than "tight-fistedness". Thrift is not a flower that blooms in the miser's garret.

Thrift puts as much money in circulation as it does in the bank. Thrift spends. Thrift saves. But Thrift never WASTES.

Special Important Notice

Much has been advertised in the last few weeks about Ambulance Service. For several years we refused all calls of that kind because we did not consider it sanitary or proper to carry the sick in our Hearse as others were doing. A touring car was a poor substitute, so we got a sedan delivery, which was neither a dead wagon nor hearse but ideal for ambulance cot and patient but not so good for passengers.

Now I have a car built by Sayers & Scovill of Cincinnati, Ohio, the largest makers of ambulances in America. Built especially for invalid use, plenty of room and comfort. There is no reason for free ambulance service, only an advertisement for other business. I have undoubtedly given more free service in the forty-five years I have been a Funeral Director, than anyone on the Shore, and if Crisfield is to have free service to and from the local Hospital there is no reason why our neighbors should not enjoy the same privilege. Therefore, we shall extend free service up to Marlon, and realizing how painful it must be for sick people on the Islands to be carried from home to boat and from boat to wharf I will tend to such people an adjustable cot on which they can be placed and remain there until they reach the Hospital.

With the addition of a new Hearse and our staff of workers we are prepared for any emergency. Our lady assistant for women and children can't be beat. We have lately added to our force Mr. John R. Corbin, Jr., a competent young man of good habits, refined and intelligent, who is willing to serve our clients to the best of his ability. When in need of our service call 120 from 5 P. M. to 8 A. M. from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. call 146.

EFFORTS OF CONGRESSMAN GOLDSBOROUGH IN ASSISTING AGRICULTURE APPRECIATED

National And State Farm Bureaus And Grange Laud Him

MARYLAND FARM BUREAU THANKS HIM FOR SUPPORT

The Caroline Sun has been very much impressed with the great efforts which have been made by Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough to help the farmers of the country, since he has been a member of the American Congress.

Congressman Goldsborough's efforts are deeply appreciated, not only in Caroline county and on the Eastern Shore, but are appreciated throughout the State of Maryland, and throughout the United States.

The following are recent letters received by Congressman Goldsborough from the American Farm Bureau Federation, The National Grange, The Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America, The National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, The Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, and also a resolution passed by the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, and an extract from an article appearing in the National Grange of October, 1935.

(American Farm Bureau Federation. General Office, 58 East Washington Street, Chicago, Ill. Legislative Department, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.)

Washington, D. C.

Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, M. C. House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

My dear Congressman Goldsborough: At the approach of the end of the present session of Congress, I know you will permit me to write you to express my personal appreciation and that of the entire American Farm Bureau Federation for your activities in behalf of agriculture during the session and throughout prior years.

I cannot forget also the wonderful speech, mostly devoted to monetary matters, which you delivered at the last annual meeting of the federation in Chicago, Ill., in December, 1935, which address made a tremendous impression on our people.

Your activities as a Member of the House of Representatives are always useful from farm points of view, and I constantly find you trying to help us in the legislative projects which relate to the welfare of agriculture.

There are many efforts, however, which lie ahead of us, great as have been some of the triumphs which already we have enjoyed. I feel sure it will be possible in future years, as in the past, for those of us who represent the federation to continue to work with you in bettering the economic conditions which surround agriculture.

Very truly yours,
American Farm Bureau Federation,
Chester H. Gray,
Washington Representative.

(The National Grange. Fred Breckman, Washington representative, 1943 H Street NW, Washington, D. C. National Grange Officers: L. J. Taber, master, Columbus, Ohio; J. C. Farmer, lecturer, South Newburg, N. Y.; R. P. Robinson, treasurer, Wilmington, Del.; Harry A. Cason, secretary, Coshocton, Ohio. Executive Committee: F. J. Freestone, chairman, Interlaken, N. Y.; E. A. Eckert, secretary, Mascoutah, Ill.; Ray W. Gill, Portland, Ore.; L. F. Taber, ex-officio, Columbus, Ohio.)

May 28, 1936
Hon. Thomas A. Goldsborough
House Office Building,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Goldsborough, Referring to our conversation of yesterday, I want to thank you for the active part you have taken in seeing that the interests of farm co-operative organizations will be adequately safeguarded under the bill to regulate chain stores.

We are, of course, in favor of proper steps to put an end to false brokerage and advertising allowances, unreasonable quantity discounts, and other abuses that this proposed legislation seeks to correct. We are concerned, however, that the rights of legitimate farm co-operative associations shall not be unwittingly impaired. I know that you feel the same way about it.

Assuring you that we appreciate the loyal service to agriculture that has characterized your career as a Congressman, I am Very sincerely yours,
Fred Grenckman,
Washington Representative.

The Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, Office of Edward E. Kennedy, Secretary, Kankakee, Ill., May 7, 1936.

Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough: Representative of the First District, State of Maryland, Washington.

My dear Mr. Goldsborough. Having had occasion to review and become intimately acquainted with your record as a Member of Congress for the past several years on legislation inserting our resolution in the Congressional Record.

We greatly appreciate the fine support you have always rendered the farmers of this state.

Very truly yours,
C. E. Wise, Jr.,
Secretary-Treasurer, Maryland Farm Bureau Federation.
Resolution passed by the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, March 2, 1936:

The past 6 years has seen the general price level go from the high level of 1929 to the low of 1932.

The experiences of the past have proved that in an abrupt price-level change salaries always lag from 5 to 10 years behind prices. Farm prices today are still out of fair relation to taxes, freight rates, farm machinery, professional services, etc.

During a time that price disparity exists, interchange of goods between farm groups and other groups is greatly decreased. Farmers with low purchasing power meet only necessary obligations, their farm buildings and equipment suffer, education and health are neglected, and millions of idle men walk the street.

Prosperity cannot return when agriculture furnishes one-sixth of the Nation's capital, represents one-fourth the gainfully employed labor, and receives only one-tenth the national income.

On May 8th, last, Representative Alan Goldsborough, of our state, introduced an amendment to the banking bill which was lost by a vote of 122 to 128. Had this amendment passed, it would have made it mandatory that the price level be raised to the 1929 level. It would have created legislation to prevent violent price level fluctuations. Be it therefore RESOLVED, That we reaffirm our position on backing the A. F. B. F. in their program for monetary reform.

We believe that the right time to enact legislation, to restore price levels, and create a managed currency is now, while the entire Nation knows that the need exists. Be it further

RESOLVED, That we send a copy of this resolution to President O'Neal, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and to the committee for the Nation.

(Extract from an article appearing in the National Grange of October 1935, in reference to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.)

Besides securing a direct representative of agriculture on the Board, various agricultural leaders also favor the appointment of Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough, of Maryland. Mr. Goldsborough, who is serving his eighth consecutive term as a Member of the House, is one of the most prominent members of the Banking and Currency Committee.

During the recent session of Congress he made an active fight to secure some amendments to the banking and currency bill intended to promote monetary stabilization, in harmony with the declared policies of the major farm organizations of the country.

The efforts of Congressman Goldsborough on behalf of Agriculture have not only been of great assistance to the farmers but to every other element in the communities of the country, because when you help the farmers, you help everybody else.

April 27th, 1936
Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough,
House Office Building,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Congressman Goldsborough: As the present session of congress draws near to adjournment, we want to take this opportunity to thank you for your support in connection with legislation affecting the dairy farmers of this country.

Not only do we appreciate the work that you have done in Congress for dairy farmers but we also desire to express our appreciation for your leadership in the battle which agriculture is waging for an honest dollar.

Sincerely yours,
Charles W. Holman,
Sect. National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation.

In addition I want to thank you for

Home-Made Jellies and Jams Adorn Cupboards of Cinema Stars' Homes

Juvenile Players Love Sweet Spreads, Mothers Say

COME along for a visit to the homes of two lovely little cinema juveniles, Juanita Quigley and Jane Darwell, that charming leading lady, Maureen O'Sullivan and that splendid character actress, Jane Darwell.

In the kitchens of all four, you'll be struck by the fact—that all boast attractive jam cupboards with jars and glasses of various sizes and shapes filled with home-made sweet spreads.

Like women everywhere, the mothers of Jane and Juanita know the value of jellies and jams in the diet of children. They're aware that besides being wholesome and nourishing, these foods satisfy the natural child craving for things made with a plentiful amount of sugar. Small wonder both women put up generous jelly supplies when fruits are ripe.

During a time when busy planning to do likewise, here are a few timely recipes for your guidance. They have been thoroughly tested and are completely reliable.

Blueberry Jam

4 cups (1 lb.) prepared fruit
1 cup (1/2 lb.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush about 1 1/2 quarts fully ripe blueberries. Add juice of 1 lemon. Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 6- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, 1/4 teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 9 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Cinnamon Candy Jelly

2 1/2 cups (1 lb. 2 oz.) sugar
1 1/2 cups (1 lb.) water
1/4 pound cinnamon sticks
1/4 bottle fruit pectin

Measure sugar, water, and cinnamon sticks into saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 30 ounces jelly.

What Constitutes An Adequate School Lunch?

An inadequate school lunch often leads to malnutrition. An examination of 292 freshmen girls in Iowa State college revealed that nineteen of them had serious nutritional difficulties...

One hot dish in the noon lunch every day may make the difference during the grade school years of a well-nourished and a poorly nourished child.

Pack the school lunch carefully. The paper sack is unsuited for carrying a balanced school lunch, and the cardboard box is not satisfactory unless it is changed every day.

AMATEUR PILOTS ARE WORRY TO SKIPPER

Almost Sailed To South Pole Trying To Find Tangier Sound

NEXT TRY GOT THEM NEAR ONANCOCK'S MAIN STREET

Mr. William J. Holland, owner and skipper of the large power boat "William J. Holland, Jr.," gave a delightful sail and fishing party to a number of his friends on Friday evening of last week.

Among those on board were Mr. and Mrs. Alonso Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, of Chicago, Mr. Edward J. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Holland and William J. Holland, Jr. There were also several other guests whose names we were unable to obtain, except to learn that one of them was Sheriff William H. Druden.

The party left Crisfield about seven o'clock for a cruise, with the old dory the battleship Texas, as the destination, for thereabouts is the choice fishing grounds of the Chesapeake bay region.

After the boat got away from the wharf and well out in the river, skipper Holland turned the wheel over to our genial sheriff, Mr. Dryden, who besides being an excellent officer of the law, is, to hear him tell it, as great a navigator and waterman as Christopher Columbus was. The Sheriff pointed the bow of the boat in the general direction of "Little America," where Admiral Byrd spends his winters, expecting no doubt to sight Tangier Island and the old battleship Texas on the way. If skipper Holland had not happened to go into the pilot house when he did, it is very probable that the boat would have hit an iceberg—in time, as Tangier Island had been passed without even a sight of it and the party was almost lost in the vast stretches of the Chesapeake.

However, there was another sailor on board, "Ned" Holland, who formerly owned and skippered the yacht "Sadie G." and incidentally scared almost to death a number of Crisfield citizens whom he persuaded to accompany him on some of his excursions with the "Sadie G." around the Sounds and the Bay. After making a few appropriate remarks about Sheriff Dryden's seamanship, "Ned" took the wheel and endeavored to locate Tangier Island and the fishing grounds. He was about to tie the boat up at the wharf in Onancock, Va., when skipper Will Holland again entered the pilot house and took over.

Then the boat had to be turned around and considerable time lost before skipper Holland could get back to anywhere near where he started for in the first place. To help him out, Paul Hickman, who don't claim to be much of a sailor but used to be a good farmer, wanted to take his turn at the wheel, but skipper Holland said "NO" in big letters, as he had suffered enough messing around out there with amateur navigators and burning up a whole lot of fuel oil needlessly.

The party, with the exception of the Sheriff, caught a lot of fish. The Sheriff's alibi was that the fish recognized him as an officer of the law and knew that he did not have a warrant for them, so they calmly passed him by. Then again the fish might have known the Sheriff sometimes catches chicken thieves by having them run right into his arms, and of course the fish could not do this.

At any rate, when the party returned home at about two o'clock in the morning, after enjoying the fishing, and eating a whole lot of fried chicken cake, deviled eggs, ham sandwiches, ice cream, etc., etc., the guests voted Mr. Holland a great skipper and an excellent host.

ORGANIZE NEW SOFT BALL LEAGUE HERE

First Game Played Under Flood Lights Tuesday Night

PROCEEDS WILL BENEFIT CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUND

With the interest of local sport fans continuing unabated in soft ball, a new league was formed in Crisfield last week and games are now being played four nights each week on the High School grounds, under powerful floodlights.

Twelve huge bulbs of one thousand watts each, have been installed on the high school grounds and practically turn night into day. This modern flood lighting system is said to be the only one south of Wilmington.

Like the first soft ball league, this one too is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. League games are being played every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, from 8 to 9 P. M.

Other teams, who do not belong to the league, may play the same nights from 7 until 8 o'clock. Those desiring to organize teams are urged to get in touch with Coach "Gimp" Carrington and arrange the dates they wish to play.

No admission is being charged to the games but a free will offering is being taken to cover the expenses of operating and lighting. All proceeds above expenses will go to the children's playground fund to be used for play ground activities.

Six teams have been organized to form the league and are captained by the following business men: N. R. Coulbourne, Elwood Dize, "Dido" Tawes, Raydie Sterling, Millard Tawes, Bob Tull.

The opening game of the new season was played Tuesday night when Elwood Dize's Yanks met and defeated Nel Coulbourne's Cards by a score of 24 to 3.

In a hard-fought game Wednesday night, Raydie Sterling's team defeated one captained by Dido Tawes, 20-18. Hundreds of fans have been attending the games this week, and more people are becoming interested in the newest sport every day. With the proceeds going toward a most deserving cause, the Crisfield children's playground fund, sport fans who attend these games are not only getting a lot of pleasure and entertainment but are really helping a cause that needs help.

The company has one artesian well on its property, down about 175 feet, but because of the scarcity of rain lately this well is about dry, and the new well is being bored to a greater depth, about 300 feet, as it is believed at that depth there will always be enough water for the company's needs.

She is a most charming woman, besides knowing very definitely what she is about. Born in the United States of Russian parentage she married one of the noble Russian refugees. She has spent much time in stage designing, both here and abroad, has had her own object of art shops in New York, knows much about old lace, and is now a representative of the Quaker Lace Company.

In addition to her lecture she will show pictures of modern homes to illustrate her talk. She has a display of miniature rooms—a perfect doll house.

Invitations have been extended to all home lovers to attend these lectures. During her three day visit here Miss Zagat will offer advice on difficult window treatments and color harmony. Those people desiring special advice will be given every opportunity to have their problems solved by Miss Zagat either before or after her lecture.

This is Miss Zagat's first visit to the Eastern Shore and already much interest is being shown on the part of the public. R. E. Powell & Company wishes to stress the scheduled time of the lecture, 2:30 P. M., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 24th, 25th and 26th.

OYSTER DREDGING MAY BE IN FOR REVIVAL AS NEW BATTEAU IS EQUIPPED FOR WORK IN BAY

Big New Vessel Brought Here This Week For Outfitting

CRAFT JUST BUILT FOR CAPTAIN ORVILLE PARKS

Is dredging on the Chesapeake Bay to have its renaissance just as other industries that for years declined finally showed some signs of life and eventually "came back"? This question has been asked many times this week in Crisfield.

The reason why watermen, sea food packers and people generally here became interested in this question this week is that a brand new boat was brought to this port to be rigged out for dredging this winter, and such an event is enough to cause tongues to wag and questions to be asked and prophecies to be made.

The boat, a large batteau, was built down on the Eastern Shore of Virginia by Thomas Young, who is an old-timer in the boat building game. It was built for Captain Orville Parks, of Cambridge, and if there is to be a revival of the dredge boat era on the Chesapeake, this type of boat will probably lead in it.

When the craft is completed, ready for work, it will represent an estimated investment of about three thousand dollars, and one of the reasons why the people here are beginning to think that possibly this ship is the advance guard of a fleet to be built along similar lines and for dredging purposes is that they know Captain Parks to be a careful man, a man who does not go into anything blindly, but proceeds only after careful consideration, a man who has made a real success in life.

People feel that Captain Parks would not make so heavy an investment in this type of craft unless he believed in the future of dredging in Maryland waters.

The arrival of the boat here to be outfitted caused watermen generally to discuss when the last dredge boat had been built in this section and it was agreed that the last one was built by the same builder for Captain Tom Ed Somers about 1926, along the same lines as this new batteau, and that she was later sold to Mr. Carl Hoffman, of Deal's Island, who is now a member of the Maryland Legislature. Her name was the "Lena Rose."

For years the fleet of big dredge boats on the Chesapeake has been declining. Some of the big schooners, bugeyes and brogans and even batteaus, have been sold to New Jersey buyers and to buyers down East. Of those that remained, many have been allowed to "die," that is, they have been sailed into shoal water somewhere and allowed to go to pieces, as the owners felt the profits from dredging did not justify the expense of fitting up the boats for work in the fall.

So, gradually, the really big boats have been disappearing and their place has been taken by small craft. But even here there has been, apparently, a decline in tonnage in the past few years, and where great many small shalyards and carpenters used to be engaged every year in building small dredge boats, for some time what work they have done has been in the line of building power boats to be used for freighting, trot-linging, and the like.

Now, if sail is coming back, if the waters of the state are to again be dotted with the sails of the dredge boats, catching oysters for an ever growing market, the next twelve months will witness increased and sustained activity among the local shipbuilders in all sections of Maryland's tidewater. Old boats, even, will be brought out, repaired, and placed in commission.

Time alone can definitely determine if the outfitting of this new batteau means a revival of dredging that will call for the building of a new fleet of boats, boats that are smaller than the old schooners and bugeyes and brogans, boats of the big batteau type that were profitable in the past, or if the building and fitting up of this boat is but an unusual occurrence, without any particular significance.

The new batteau is a beauty and looks to be of a size that will carry about five hundred to five hundred and fifty bushels of oysters. Her owners expect to have her in commission when the dredging season starts the first of November, and she will be named the "Joy Parks."

WM. E. DAUGHERTY DIED LAST SUNDAY

Political Leader Passed Away At Hospital

WAS A VICE-PRESIDENT OF BANK OF CRISFIELD

William E. Daugherty, one of Somerset county's most prominent business men and civic leaders, died at the McCready Memorial Hospital on Sunday morning from a complication of diseases. He had been in ill health for about two years and about a week ago had entered the hospital for treatment. He was 70 years of age.

Mr. Daugherty was a son of the late B. Frank and Julia Daugherty, of near Crisfield, and spent his entire life in this community. When a young man, he became interested in the Crisfield Hardware Company, later becoming owner of that concern and conducting its affairs with the assistance of a son, W. Frank Daugherty.

Since he was a young man Mr. Daugherty has been a leader in the Democratic party in Somerset county. He came from a large Democratic family and his attitude on public affairs influenced many voters at election time. He was the first city clerk in Crisfield, and held that position for several years.

On several occasions he was elected and served as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee, and for many years he has been a member of the Somerset County Board of Education and lately, served as president of that body.

Mr. Daugherty became associated with the Bank of Crisfield at its organization in 1893. He was a large stockholder in that institution, a vice-president and a member of the finance committee. He also was a large property owner, of both city and country real estate.

He was a member of Chesapeake Lodge No. 147, A. F. & A. M., and always took an active interest in the affairs of that body, serving as secretary for a considerable period, and as Master of the lodge also. The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, Harry B. Wright, attended the funeral and took part in the Masonic ceremonies.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace Sterling Daugherty, and the following children: Mrs. A. Wellington Taves, Miss Inez Daugherty, of Crisfield, and Mrs. William Garman, of Philadelphia, Pa. Three sons, Mr. W. Frank Daugherty, of Crisfield, Mr. R. Julian Daugherty, of Baltimore, and Mr. Edgar S. Daugherty, of Philadelphia, one sister, Mrs. A. L. Hardester, of Crisfield, also survive.

Funeral services were held at the home on Main street on Tuesday afternoon, under auspices of the Masonic fraternity, conducted by the Rev. C. M. Elderdicke, pastor of Mt. Pleasant M. P. Church, assisted by the Rev. J. R. Bicking, pastor of Immanuel M. E. Church, and the Rev. J. Yancey Fincher, pastor of the Baptist Temple.

All burials were Earl Dixe, J. Coyne Sterling, Wilmer Daugherty, William S. Sterling, Elwood Sterling, A. B. Fitzgerald.

Seldom in the history of Crisfield has the high esteem of relatives and friends been shown for the dead like it was shown to Mr. Daugherty in the number and beauty of the floral pieces sent to the home.

Church, Mrs. Lillian McGrath chairman, will hold a Bake at the office of the Gas Company on Main Street this Saturday, Sept. 26th, beginning at 11 o'clock. Home-made bread, rolls, Maryland Biscuit, pies, cakes, candies, salads and many other good things will be for sale at reasonable prices. Your patronage will be greatly appreciated.

SCHOONER LOST IN STORM LAST FRIDAY

CAPTAIN CHRIS NELSON AND CREW OF TWO ABOARD

In the devastating storm of Friday the big schooner "Clemmie Travers" owned by Captain Chris Nelson, of Crisfield, went ashore on the breakwater at Port Norfolk, Va., and is a total loss.

Aboard the vessel at the time the storm struck were Captain Nelson and his crew, George Lawson and John Messick.

The schooner was lying at Port Norfolk, off Lambert Point coal piers waiting for a charter for lumber to go to Philadelphia when the storm struck. Thursday night her anchors held, but early Friday morning the vessel began to drag the anchors, and shortly struck on the stone jetty or breakwater that protects one of the large plants along the waterfront in this section.

The Captain and the crew expected to be lost. The vessel pounded against the stone jetty and the Captain and crew stood in water up to their waists in the cabin, every minute expecting that one of the masts might fall and crush them or that the boat would go to pieces under their feet.

So heavy was the storm in the Norfolk area that it was impossible to send help to Captain Nelson and his men, even if their plight had been noticed, and it was not until afternoon, when the storm had subsided to some extent and the tide had gone down that the men were able to walk and crawl ashore, over the stone jetty against which the schooner was pounding to pieces.

It was a most horrifying experience, according to the men on the schooner. Every minute from early Friday morning until the middle of the afternoon they waited, water swirling around them, to hear the rending crash that would mean the masts were going down and that they would be crushed to death, or fearing that the hull would be crushed against the stones and they would be thrown into the stormy waters to be battered and torn and drowned.

Captain Nelson and his crew made their way home, thankful that the storm took no toll of human life from their vessel. The loss of the "Clemmie Travers" is a heavy blow to Captain Nelson, as it was with his boat that he made his living, and we understand that the vessel was not insured.

Surprise Birthday Party Given For Mrs. Oscar Howard Tuesday Night

A very delightful surprise birthday party was given to Mrs. Oscar T. Howard at her home on North Third street Tuesday night by her sister, Mrs. Ella Sterling and her daughter, Mrs. C. Custis Cartwright.

Early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright persuaded Mrs. Howard to visit with them for about two hours, and while she was away from her home her sister and a number of her friends decorated the home with different colored streamers, placed a beautiful cake on the table in the dining room, and fixed the many presents that were given around the table until it seemed almost like Christmas time. Then when Mrs. Howard returned home, to a darkened house, she was very pleasantly surprised to find the home in the possession of friends and relatives who greeted her with best wishes for many more happy birthdays.

During the evening the visitors and the family were entertained by songs and recitations. Mrs. Arintha Marsh recited very effectively "She Has Done What She Could," and little Miss Jane Sterling sang "Jesus Loves Me."

Among the guests present were Mrs. Fannie Parks, Mrs. S. W. Somers, Mrs. Della Riggin, Mrs. Arintha Marsh, Mrs. H. E. Tilghman, Mrs. Colie Evans, Mrs. Harold Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Smith, Mrs. Tillie Middleton, Mrs. George Lewis, Mrs. Belle Evans, Mrs. Carrie Daugherty, Mrs. Norman Nelson, Mrs. Edward Holladay, Mrs. Percy Nelson, Mrs. Lola Sterling, Mrs. Maggie Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace M. Quinn.

CHORAL CLUB PLANNING START OF THIRD YEAR'S PROGRAM OCTOBER 2ND

Congressman Goldsborough Notified Of Favorable Report On Channel

Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough was today informed that the Chief of Engineers had submitted to the Secretary of War, to be transmitted to Congress, a favorable report on the preliminary examination and survey of the waterway from Little Annapessex River to Tangier Sound, Maryland.

The recommendation provides for a channel 60 feet wide and 7 feet deep from that depth in Little Annapessex River via Cedar Creek, a land cut, and Daugherty Creek, to Big Annapessex River, at an estimated cost of $77,500 with maintenance estimated at $1,000 annually.

The report states that the annual savings in fuel costs to fishing craft due to the 6 miles shorter distance between Crisfield and the extensive sea-food grounds are estimated at $8,000, and the savings in the time of members of the boat crews would be worth an additional several thousand dollars per year.

Congressman Goldsborough, secured in the Rivers and Harbors Bill of 1935 passage of legislation providing for the preliminary examination and survey.

Maytop Club Held SEPTEMBER MEETING

Interesting Session Was Held On Tuesday The 15th

NEW MEETING PLACE IN KINGSTON SCHOOL

The Maytop Club at Kingston held its regular meeting on Tuesday, September 15th, at the home of Mrs. E. F. Broughton. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Dashiell, the vice-president, Mrs. Broughton, presided.

The meeting was opened by repeating the Lord's Prayer, followed by the Homemakers' Prayer and singing "Maryland, My Maryland."

During the business meeting the discussion was about the new meeting place in the Kingston school. What was needed to make the room look attractive and ways and means of getting the necessary things. The Board of Education has given the club permission to use the room and it is hoped to make it a community get-together place where plays, parties and other social activities for the club and church may be held.

It was voted that the corresponding secretary send cards of sympathy to any of the club members or their families during bereavement or illness.

Mrs. Jay Bowland gave some interesting current events and Mrs. Mortimer Davis, Jr., read some lovely poetry. "A Homemaker Prays at Twilight," by Lucille Reynolds was especially beautiful and fitting. Edgar A. Guest's poems of home were enjoyed by all.

After lovely refreshments of ice cream and cake, the club adjourned to meet on October 20th at the home of Mrs. Ned Long. Mrs. Long and Mrs. Bowland are entertaining. Everyone went home with a song in their hearts and as the poem "A Homemaker Prays at Twilight" says:

"Let there be laughter, gentle words and singing Under the shelter of this roof tonight." And homemakers not only tonight but every night through all the years to come.

HAS WON PRIZES AT UNIVERSITY FOR TWO YEARS

Mrs. Benjamin T. Dryden Will Again Be The Director Of The Organization

MRS. A. ROY WOODLAND TO BE THE ACCOMPANIST

By HILDA TOFFER

County Home Demonstration Agent. The Somerset County Choral Club has made plans for their third consecutive year.

After winning the State Music Prize of $10.00 for the first two years the Club under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin T. Dryden is showing much enthusiasm and is determined to repeat its enviable record.

The prize was awarded the Club this Summer at our State University, College Park, Maryland competing against Clubs from twenty-three Counties. The award was judged solely from the report which showed the accomplishments of the Club during the year.

The first rehearsal this year will be held Friday, October 2nd in the Manokin Presbyterian Lecture Room at Princess Anne. The set-up of the organization will be the same as last year, with meetings every Friday afternoon from 2 to 4 P. M. Mrs. Dryden will again be director with Mrs. Roy A. Woodland accompanist. The price of each lesson will be 10c per member.

The first public performance will be rendered at the County-Wide Meeting of the Homemakers Clubs this Fall in Princess Anne. Tentative plans at present call for concerts to be rendered in Princess Anne, Crisfield and probably on Smith's Island.

The prize was awarded on the merit of this report:

A record of the actual study of the work accomplished by The Somerset County Choral Club in its weekly meetings which began on October 1, 1935, must first of all be a review of last year's activities and the continuation of those fundamental teachings which may be found in the following outline:

a. A study of the staff—G or Treble Clef.
b. Meter signature.
c. Name of notes on lines and spaces.
d. Practice of note reading, using do re mi.
e. Study of the Major Scales C, G, A, E, D, F, and B flat-B.
f. Ability to read musical notations. Principles of Choral Club singing; as breathing, posture, enunciation and pronunciation are ever kept before the Club.

In its second year of study the Club continued to work out its songs by applying the rules learned through these studies, and branched out further. Continuing the study of the major scale the Club completed its study, adding to its list F sharp, C sharp, E flat, A flat, D flat, C flat, G flat—

Whereas in its first year the Club learned the syllables of each tone as natural; this year they learned sharp-re natural ri sharp—a natural de sharp—re natural ri sharp—a natural le flat.

To add interest to the reading of notes, the technical names of each tone were learned.

The Director in her report to the Committee states that not only has the Club made a marked improvement in the use of these fundamental studies in working out and interpreting its choral studies but that the principles of good chorus singing have been adopted and used to unusual degree, the outstanding of which may be classified as noted:

1. Proper breathing.
2. Proper standing position.
3. Excellent pronunciation and enunciation.
4. Good phrasing.
5. Intelligent interpretation of meaning of song and music.
6. Expression.
7. Attention to musical markings.
8. Unusual efficiency in following Director.
9. Teamwork.

As a basis for study the Club continued the use of "Twice 55 songs", which the Club was happy to find was given a high rating by Mr. Zanig.

Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon will be the following from the Bible—Isa. 54:1—"Come near, ye nations, to hear; and hearken, ye people; let the earth hear, and all that is therein; the world, and all things that come forth of it."

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, page 276—"Harmony in man is as real and immortal as in music. Discord is unreal and mortal."

Here the steward astonished Tischendorf by saying, as they resumed the former subject of conversation: "And I, too, have read a Septuagint," and so saying, he took down from a shelf in the corner of the room a bulky kind of volume wrapped in a red cloth and laid it before the scholar. To his great joy he recognized not only the very fragments taken out of the basket on the occasion of his first visit, but also other parts of the Old Testament, the New Testament complete, the Apocryphal Epistle of Barnabas and a part of the Pastor of Hermas.

The Prior was at Cairo: but his consent was later obtained to present this precious codex to the Emperor and Empress of Russia, as a loan. This loan was later changed to a gift. The Sinai Codex remained in the royal library, unharmed by the ravages of the revolution. In 1935 it was purchased from the Russian Government by public subscription, the price being 100,000 pounds, of which the British Government furnished one half.

SAFEGUARD AGAINST FOOD INFECTIONS

Be Sure That Meat Used Comes From Healthy Animals

WASH HANDS THOROUGHLY BEFORE HANDLING FOOD

Asked what is meant by "food poisoning," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said: "There are certain diseases that are contracted in eating or handling meat from diseased animals, or in drinking raw milk from diseased cattle. While these are due to foods, they are more accurately described as 'food infections' rather than as 'food poisonings.' Such diseases include rabbit fever (tularemia), contracted in handling diseased rabbits or in eating incompletely cooked rabbit meat; trichinosis and other diseases contracted through eating raw sausage or eating incompletely cooked pork; undulant fever caused by drinking raw milk from cattle that have Bang's disease. We usually hear of such diseases through individual cases.

"The best safeguard against these diseases is to be sure that all meat used as food comes from healthy animals and is thoroughly cooked; and, as a preventive against undulant fever, that all milk used, comes from cattle free from disease, is properly handled, and, as a special precaution, is pasteurized.

"But ordinarily, when we speak of 'food poisoning' we think of outbreaks that affect a number of people at one time. Such an outbreak may be due to the use of infected meat, meat products, sea-foods, milk or to other foods from infected sources. It may be caused by food infected by human carriers—unwashed hands—in preparation or in serving; or contaminated by rats, mice or flies. It may also be caused by toxins—the technical word for poisons—which develop in certain types of infected foods, including milk and egg combinations, custard fillings and other foods of that sort, if left standing in a warm moist atmosphere. Individuals as well as large groups of people are likely to be made ill after eating foods contaminated in any of these ways.

"We are all familiar with outbreaks of food poisoning that have followed some community gathering or some other affair for which large quantities of food had to be prepared in advance. There are certain precautions that should be observed by those responsible for handling, preparing or serving food, for affairs of this kind. Here are some of them:

"Wash your hands thoroughly before handling any of the food. Have plenty of water, soap and clean towels conveniently at hand for your own use and for your helpers.

"Be sure all food ingredients are fresh. Cook thoroughly. Keep the food covered and protected from contamination by flies, rats or mice. Avoid rich foods and indigestible combinations.

"Scald your utensils before you use them; cool them off; pack the more perishable foods lightly—not solidly—into the containers in which they are to be kept until used. Use several small containers instead of one or more large-sized ones. Keep on ice or in a cool place. Serve from the smaller containers as needed. Perishable food taken off the ice and exposed to the warmer air for some time before serving will spoil quickly.

"All of these precautions are equally applicable to food handled, cooked and served in individual homes."

Hollywood Star-Lites

By CHUCK COCHARD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept 22—Have you ever stopped to wonder what makes great motion pictures? Your correspondent had a chance to see the inner workings of a large movie studio at play—namely the employees of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios enjoying themselves at their annual picnic held last Sunday at a nearby country club.

More than 10,000 men, women and children attend this gathering of which no one outside of employees and their families were admitted. Perhaps the most striking part of the whole event was the fact that the employees of an organization of this size were more than just workers of a factory but were workers of a large family in which harmony was the main factor.

Another important point was that everyone from Mr. Louis B. Mayer, vice-president, on down to the smallest worker on the lot was there with his family enjoying the occasion. In his address in the middle of the day Mr. Mayer said that the reason for the many successful motion pictures wasn't due to the three or four executives, but was due to the entire organization. He mentioned that everyone put something into each production and that it was this which made the company outstanding.

All your writer can say is that Mr. Mayer is the ideal executive for any company. Outside of being a great leader and organizer he is a grand man—and what more can be said of a man. He loves his workers and his workers love him. "Star-Lites" takes its hat off to a studio that has turned out one hit after another until with the release of every picture they are saying here in Hollywood—M-G-M has done it again.

COMING ATTRACTIONS: Paramount will produce a short entitled "Knock! Knock! Who's There?" based on the currently popular song craze authorized by Vincent Lopez. Can you imagine a more perfect combination than Lionel Barrymore and Freddie Bartholomew in "Kipling's Captains Courageous." Barrymore will play Capt. Disko and Freddie Bartholomew as Harvey, the millionaire's son who is swept to sea and picked up by a fishing craft. There will be an all-star cast in "Show Business" a forthcoming production which will include Gladys Swarthout, Jack Benny, Fred MacMurray and Cary Grant. If you like Boris Karloff you ought to like his next which will be "The Case of the Constant God."

FASHIONS BY HAZEL MAY: Joan Crawford starts new HEADLINES in more ways than one. She is going to put blondes back on the map again in a big way. At a time when a blonde in Hollywood is as scarce as gold dollars Joan Crawford announces that she is going to be a blonde. She says, "there are so many brunettes and 'brownettes', I think it would be interesting to become a blonde. In fact I'm going to!"

Jack Dawn, famed makeup artist tells that Joan will make a lovely blonde, Joan's new hair, according to Dawn, "will be light, with a touch of red in it."

"I predict," he said, "that it will bring blondes back into high favor."

The friendships between the stars and their stand-ins are closer than most people think. Even little Freddie Bartholomew, the lad who portrayed the youngster in "David Copperfield" to perfection, helped his stand-in, 12-year-old Ray Sperry to obtain a job at another studio, and then even coached Ray in his lines for the part. That's real unselfishness.

It now looks as though Freddie may have to finish his current picture "The Devil Is a Sissy" without a stand-in. He will have to stay on the set between shots while electricians adjust their lights and cameramen get their focus.

And speaking of roles Freddie may enact the title role for "Peter Pan" in a forthcoming production of the James M. Barrie story. Although the character is really a boy, it has generally been played by a girl. In a previous silent version, the role won fame and stardom for Betty Bronson.

FILMTOWN MURMURS: George Raft happy that Virginia Pine's back is in town. That romance between Gail Patrick and John King may end with the ringing of certain bells. Louise Rainer still receiving those daily long distance call from Clifford Odets, now in New York. They say it's serious and that she'll be heading eastward before long.

INSIDE GOSSIP: The very popular brunette star who has all Hollywood guessing about her secret heart throb is Rosalind Russell.

WHAT very fast speaking masculine player who got into some trouble a few years ago in Mexico was visited on the set of his current picture by a young lady with whom he was very friendly with last year. That's all for today. Until next week I remain your Hollywood correspondent who says "when you see a man buying a pair of silk hose you can bet some girl is going to get her foot in it!"

EXERCISE, WATCH DIET AFTER FIFTY

More Men Hurt By Overeating Than By Overwork

MANY FOODS DO NOT HAVE THE NECESSARY VITAMINS

The "forgotten man" of medical science, is the man who has reached middle age, according to Dr. Lucas A. Miller, Colorado physician in the Rotarian magazine.

"More middle-aged men commit suicide by overeating than by overwork," he says in the Rotarian magazine.

"With the aged, a single gastronomic excess may be fatal. Someone has truly said that the greatest menace to the health of an old man is too good cook."

"It is estimated that 20 millions of people in the United States alone are living near or below the borderline of nutritional safety. Expert advice is necessary in the rationing of dependent peoples. Unfortunately, many of the cheapest, most satisfying foods, fail to provide the necessary vitamins: potatoes, for instance, the basic food of so many families. The dangers of the modern diet are too much starches and sugar, too much animal protein; too little of fruit, milk, vegetables, and whole grains."

"There is grave danger in following fad diets or changing food-habits, too suddenly, after 50. After someone who has devoted years of study to the subject helps you to find your nutritional balance, you should stick to it religiously, no matter what facetious friends or family may say. It isn't easy, but it can be done."

"Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Sr.," he cites as an example, "with every temptation to self-indulgence that wealth can suggest, has lived rigorously for years. At 97, he can say, 'I am grateful every day for the contentment I find in living a quiet and simple life'."

"Next in importance after the proper diet," continues Dr. Miller, "is the budgeting of energy. Failure to recuperate quickly after strenuous exertion is a danger signal. There is a let-down of energy at 50, and another at 60. It is sheer folly to overdraw a dwindling account. This does not imply that the aging man should live in idleness. Doing nothing is bad for anyone, it is particularly bad for the old. But one of advanced years should never work or play to the point of exhaustion. The strain on vital organs should be reduced and balance restored by frequent rest."

TOOK FIRST OYSTER CARGO TO CAPITAL

PREDICTS BANNER SEASON, GOOD QUALITY AND PRICES

The Washington "Post" announced the opening of the oyster season last week with a big picture of Captain Clifton M. Evans, of this city, and an interview with him in which "Clif" predicts that this will be a banner oyster season. The newspaper said: "Today, September 16, is 'officially' the day when the oyster is the world's first shipment of the mollusks arrived at Washington's waterfront yesterday when the smack Virginia Estelle nosed up to the dock after an overnight trip from Crisfield, Md.

Capt. Clifton Evans brought only nine bushels with him and they were grabbed in no time by oyster-starved Washingtonians, who, he says, ease 2,000 bushels a week down their throats with appropriate cocktail sauce during the height of the season. Capt. Evans sees something deeply significant in the oyster and crab. "We had the biggest crab season in history," he declared, "and we're going to have a bigger oyster season. Now that means only one thing. Those crabs and oysters are luxury foods and I say that prosperity is back when people buy 'em in record quantities. The answer is—Roosevelt!"

While yesterday may have been the official opening of the bivalve season, oysters won't begin to sell in big quantities until the "first nor'wester blows around," because "somehow folks just don't seem to like 'em until it gets a little chilly. But wait until it gets cool and the boats will be in here three deep around the wharves, loaded down to the waterline with oysters."

Oystering is one of the great industries of the Eastern Shore. It has grown tremendously with increased efficiency in refrigeration, and today Evans estimates there are 3,000 oyster fishermen in the vicinity of his own little town of Crisfield. "We ship 20 to 25 carloads a day out at the peak," he said, "with Chicago the principal market. Washington is one of the best markets on the Eastern Coast." The holidays will bring the season to its peak. Around Thanksgiving and Christmas Evans will sell 500 gallons in Washington every three days. Oysters are rigidly inspected by Government agents. "They're on our necks every minute," Evans said, "at the shucking bars. The shuckers are examined by a doctor once a week. They have to wash their hands in hot water every time they leave the room and return, the tins must be sterilized and we must have concrete floors everywhere."

It is said 60,000 persons make a living from oysters and it is the sole source of livelihood for whole communities, many of which are in nearby areas. Shipbuilders, blacksmiths making tongs, ice plants, box factories and railroad lines and, more recently, truckers, all share in the industry's business.

"Oysters," says Evans, "are darned good to eat all the year around. I've eaten bushels of 'em right dab in the middle of July. That business about the months with 'R's' in them don't mean a thing—except it cuts us oyster-men out of a lot of money."

Oyster fishermen, with their long scissor-like tongs on which are rake teeth, earn $3 a day. Shuckers make 25 cents a gallon and their earnings range from $25 to $50 a week, depending on their speed.

CHORAL CLUB PLANS 3RD YEAR PROGRAM

and added supplementary music in octavo form. The Club turned its attention to learning groups of songs and preparing them so that they might be used for public appearances, a number of which were made through the year. At the request of the Merchant's Association of the County Seat, Princess Anne, the Club sang Christmas Carols at the Community Christmas tree. From then the winter months were spent in preparation for a Spring Music Festival held in the Princess Anne Elementary School on Easter Monday Afternoon, April 13th. A group of 14 songs, many of which were memorized, were offered. As its contribution to National Music Week, on Thursday evening May 7th the Choral Club gave a Concert in Crisfield for the benefit of the Crisfield Nursery School. This was followed by its appearance at the program at the Tri-County Meeting in Salisbury on May 13th. The weeks remaining to the Club for work were given to the preparation of a group of songs to be sung at College Park on the evening of June 18th in a Concert "Songs from Many Lands."

The programs given included two part song form, trio or three part song form, and two part song form with the descent.

The Club had the distinct honor of being invited by the Pocomoke Women's Club to attend a lecture recital on Madame Butterfly presented by Mrs. Paul Cribbet of Baltimore.

While last year the Club depended on the Adult Education Fund for help, this year the Club was entirely self-supporting, an evidence of the growing strength of this new project of the Homemakers Clubs of Somerset County.

The appearance, behavior and performance has seemed to impress the audiences most favorably if the Club is to accept press notices of not only the local news columns but that of Baltimore papers as well.

It is with a feeling of decidedly fascinating and successful session that members close the pages that tell the story of another year, and plans are already in the making to continue this satisfactory project in the new year when a new book will invite records of even greater fields of work.

MONSTER WHALE TO ARRIVE ON MONDAY

Spectacular And Educational Display Of Deep Sea Life

HUGE SEA MAMMAL MORE THAN 55 FEET IN LENGTH

The most spectacular and educational display of deep sea life ever presented in any inland city opens their engagement in Princess Anne Monday. It will be housed in a specially constructed railroad car which will be stationed on the tracks near King's Creek Canning Factory and will be open to the public from 11 a. m. until 11 p. m. Monday, Sept. 28. The big feature of this novel exhibit is a giant whale, which weighs more than 58 tons and is over 55 feet in length. The huge sea mammal which was harpooned off the coast of San Clemente a few months ago is said to be a most amazing sight. This particular whale has achieved fame and unusual mention in the press of the nation, owing to the chapter it has written in the annals of whaling history, by giving 'he whaling crew of the ship Hawk, the hardest battle in their experience, before finally yielding to the harpoon and bomb.

Captain D. L. Barnett, who for the past 25 years has been making whaling history, gives a gripping description of his many thrilling fights with these great sea mammals, and also gives an illustrated lecture on the habits, life and capture of whales.

Other interesting features that accompany the exhibit are the Penguin village, a group of real live penguins from Little America, Madam Sirwell and her troupe of trained fleas, presenting the famous European Flea Circus. Madam Sirwell has over 50 performing fleas that kick footballs, juggle, push little carts, dance and many other astonishing feats. Over 40 specimens of deep sea life also accompany the whale on its trans-continental tour.

MORE THAN THREE THOUSAND PEOPLE HEAR CONGRESSMAN GOLDSBOROUGH LAST NIGHT

Crowd Packed Every Available Space Near Post Office

PREDICTS ROOSEVELT VICTORY IN COUNTY

Under threatening skies that gave promise of a down pour of rain every minute Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough last night addressed a crowd of more than three thousand people who gathered on Main street to help celebrate "Goldsborough night" in Crisfield.

Late in the afternoon a heavy rain storm passed over the city and it seemed for awhile that the celebration would have to be called off, but just before sunset there was a break in the clouds, and while there was the promise of rain all evening, none fell, and the meeting was held as scheduled.

Main street was roped off for a distance of about two blocks, and Congressman Goldsborough delivered his address from a sound truck stationed just in front of the new post office building, to a crowd that packed and jammed every inch of available space.

The Congressman arrived in Crisfield at about six o'clock and after having dinner at the home of Wallace M. Quinn, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Somerset county, attended a meeting of women at the home of Mrs. Mayne A. Collins, a member of the Maryland Legislature, who lives in the suburbs of the city.

Following this meeting he came down into the business district of the city and greeted a number of people in the huge crowd that had been waiting for him for about two hours.

The Congressman was introduced by Clerk of the Court J. Millard Tawes, who predicted that every county on the Eastern Shore would give a Goldsborough majority.

Calling attention to the "Sun" poll, as the figures appeared in the Evening "Sun" yesterday, showing that Somerset county had given President Roosevelt a majority of one vote, Congressman Goldsborough said that it was his firm belief that when the poll was concluded, Somerset, as well as the other eight counties on the Shore would be in the Roosevelt column.

When he was introduced the Congressman was loudly applauded. His speech was an old fashioned Democratic address, which pointed out what he considered were the benefits that had been conferred on the people by the present administration.

The Congressman spoke for more than an hour and many of his remarks were greeted with sustained applause.

After the speaking a crab feast and street dance was held.

TROPICAL STORM HERE LAST WEEK

MANY ROOFS DAMAGED AND WINDOWS BLOWN IN

Accompanied by gales of hurricane force and torrential rains, the tropical storm that played havoc along the Atlantic Seaboard from Florida to Maine last week reached Crisfield late Thursday night.

Although the full force of the hurricane was not felt here, for a time gale force winds were felt by residents that a recurrence of the hurricane that visited this section in August 1933, causing thousands of dollars of damage to property, was about to be remedied.

The vanguard of the storm was noticeable here early Thursday afternoon. The sky seemed to be tinged with a yellow pallor and dark, lowering clouds, heavy with rain began to make their appearance on the southern horizon before dusk.

The wind began to blow fitfully and in gusts of varying and increasing intensity early in the evening. By midnight, it had reached a velocity of from 50 to 75 miles an hour and seemed to be steadily increasing.

Under the pressure of the high winds several large plate glass windows in the up-town business district were blown in. Among these was a window in Peyton Pharmacy, the Modern Beauty Shop, and several others.

A part of the roof of the Pennsylvania Railroad freight office was blown off, trees in many sections of the town and suburbs were blown down as were many poles carrying the electric light and telephone wires.

The storm had completely left this section of the country by Saturday morning, and after an inventory of the damage suffered here and compared with reports from Norfolk, Va., Ocean City, Md., and other places on the coast, it was felt that Crisfield was indeed fortunate.

BUS LOAD OF SPORTSMEN HERE ON FISHING PARTY

Made Great Catch Of Blues, Weak Fish, In Spite Of Storm

Thirty-four employes of the ABC Washing Machine Company of Allentown, Pa., arrived in a big bus Thursday at the Somerset Hotel to spend four days here fishing.

Local fishermen provided boats and tackle and took the party out in Tangier Sound Saturday and Sunday. Unfortunately, the weather was not suitable for any amount of fishing Friday, so one day of their excursion was wasted.

They caught a nice load of bluefish, trout, croakers, etc., and seemed well satisfied.

The party left Sunday evening to return to their homes in Pennsylvania after saying that this section deserves its reputation for providing real sport.

LAUGHING AT THE SAINTS

Rev. Roy L. Tawes, one of our own boys, has written a book, and the only kind of book Roy could write would be a good book—a book worth reading.

The title of the book is "Laughing at the Saints." That title, somehow, shows originality, and so there must be much that is original in thought and outlook in the book itself.

In another column of this paper is a communication from him telling something of the book. It is a collection of sermons, sermons that Roy believes shed new light on some parts of the scriptures.

People do not get tired of reading the Bible—that sacred volume is never tiresome. They do, however, like to see in print the defining of the meaning of various passages by minds different from their own because in this they find new food for thought and new inspiration.

Knowing this young minister of the Gospel as we do, it is our firm belief that he has put into the book some inspirational messages that will make for the greater glory of God on this earth, and we trust that the book may come into many hands everywhere, and particularly in many hands in this, his home community.

WILLIAM E. DAUGHERTY

In the death of William E. Daugherty the community has lost a man of integrity, honor, and of strong convictions.

During his lifetime his attitude on public affairs had a direct bearing on the action of others. He was not a man of the type to jump at conclusions; rather, he made his decisions only after careful consideration, but once they were made there did not seem to be any earthly power that could change them.

He was a man other men respected and admired. They might differ with him, and many did differ with him at times, on matters that affected this community and the country at large, but everybody felt that his stand was sincere and believed by him to be right.

His store was the gathering place for men who discussed, day after day, questions of importance that affected their lives. His advice was sought by many and was given only when asked for. His daily appearance at his store, his regular meetings with the officers and directors of the Bank of Crisfield, his attendance at the Masonic Lodge, for years was a part of Crisfield's life.

Mr. Daugherty was the head of a fine family, three girls and three boys, all of whom inherited from him and from their mother, the traits of character that make for the finest type of American manhood and womanhood.

Men of his kind built solidly when they builded. To him the community in which he was born, was raised, was married, and in which he reared his family, was the greatest and most satisfying community under the canopy of Heaven. He was not only satisfied to live here—he was proud to live here. And he was proud to have had a good hand in helping the community grow.

There are many people in Somerset county and elsewhere who sincerely regret his death, for out of the community and out of the world has been taken a man in all that the word implies, a man of the type of which we have too few, a man who was not dazzled by the passing show but kept his feet on the ground and stood steadfast in the practice of those virtues of honesty and fair dealing that had been handed down to him by his forefathers.

MESSAGE FROM PASTOR TO HIS CHURCH FAMILY

My Very Dear Friends:

This message brings to the Church family, and to our friends, and we would be the friend of all, the affectionate greetings of the pastor who gratefully rejoices with you in the goodness and loving kindness of our merciful Heavenly Father. Surely we are all inexpressibly grateful to God for His Innumerable blessings and healing mercies that have come to us and our's; and fervently do we pray for His all sufficient mercy and comfort for those who may be ill and in any kind of trouble. Let us more and more seek to obey this Bible injunction: "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ."

Certainly one of the best ways whereby we may bear one another's burdens is by prayer. Sometimes this is the only way whereby we can help, but what a glorious privilege it is! Prayer is a vital force—it changes things—it secures blessings to be had in no other way, Paul says, "Ye also helping together by prayer." The shut-ins, hidden away in the home, can help others, marvelously, by prayer, and let us never forget that to fall to pray for others is to sin grievously. Thus did the prophet Samuel put it: "God forbid that I should sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you." More and more may we pray for one another and for everybody else! Neglected prayer, means withheld blessings from ourselves and from others. The fact is that prayer precedes any and every great spiritual blessing that is ever passed out from God's good hand, upon the people. Great revivals of religion are always preceded by prayer. Pentecost—the World's most wonderful revival was preceded by a long extended prayer meeting. It was so with the great Wesleyan revival. It is always so. The great preacher, Charles G. Finney, said: "Prayer is an essential link in the chain of causes that lead to a revival, as much as truth is." Another great minister says: "A revival without accompanying prayer is an impossibility, and without antecedent special prayer has probably never occurred." The first work for every Christian is prayer—earnest, importunate, believing prayer.

As we continue to give ourselves to the brief daily services being conducted for and by our Church family for the next several days, by all means, let us magnify prayer. Oh, there are so many for whom we should pray! Some are loved ones in our homes, some are in the Sunday School, some are our friends and neighbors, some are strangers who are not saved. Do we realize the meaning of those two words, "Not saved"? Think of applying those two words to any soul—"not saved"—and the heart must fairly shudder. Day and night, let us bind the people in our prayers to the heart of God. Let parents pray as never before for their children and teachers for their pupils, and friends for their friends. Let us as Christians pray for ourselves that our own hearts may be revived, that our spiritual strength may be renewed, that we may be fitted and empowered of God to win the lost to Him! Of old, God's people prayed: "Will thou not revive us again, that thy people may rejoice in thee?" Has the joy of Salvation gone from us? Have we neglected the vital habits that make for a strong Christian life? Have we failed to interest others to turn to Christ for Salvation? Surely, surely, we need to pray—to pray with all our heart, and to begin now. When Jesus came in the long ago, John said: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord." By self-examination, by prayer, and by personal work, let us seek to prepare the way of the Lord. How solemn and specific are these words from God's Book: "If my people who are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." We are not only to pray for the people—we are also to seek by faithful, personal work to help them.

Yours affectionately and earnestly, J. Yancey Fincher.

Letters To The President

September 23rd, 1936. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President: I am well and hope you are the same. Last Saturday morning, Mr. President, I was in to see old man Bibbins and he was just sweeping out his store and he wasn't in a very good humor, so I said "mornin" and he said "Howdy" right short and snappy and when I set down in one of the chairs he come right along and moved me, and he done this four or five times and I said "what in tarnation ails you this mornin'," and he said "it's my dyspepsy; the Missus warn't well this mornin" and she told me to git my own breakfast, and whenever I do I get the durndest feelin' in my stomach and just as sure as I get that-a-way you come in a-pesterin' me and the hull day is spoiled."

Having got this off his chest, old man Bibbins settled down comfortable in his own chair which there aint nobody else dares to use, except his wife, and begin to look over the mornin' paper, and pretty soon he grunts and says "now look here, there aint nobody goin' to libel the President and git away with it while I'm around. Did you see here where it says that he is going to get the Communist vote? He don't need no Communists to vote for him, because he is goin' to have enough votes without them, and why don't they send all them Reds over to Russia or somewhere, and let the country get shet of 'em, and anyhow, I guess if they are goin' to allow 'em to vote over here, why, it is a whole lot better for 'em to vote for a good man like President Roosevelt than it would be for to vote for and maybe elect a man of their own stripe, and you know if you want to get the best of anything, like a crop, for instance, you got to put in some fertilizer, and maybe them Communists votes is just fertilizer votes, anyhow."

"I see," he says, "that both the Democrats and the Republicans are tryin' their best to make the farmers take out crop insurance, which I don't just understand how the thing is worked, but if it is like other kinds of insurance it is a good thing and would be a boon to the farmers, provided they wouldn't go down the lane and out to the road to get a crop insurance policy if they were giving them away, while on the other hand most of the farmers that are real farmers is making so much money that they don't need no insurance, and that's the way it goes."

"Here it is again, by gravy, where Governor Landon is tryin' to outdo President Roosevelt about what he would do for the farmers if he was elected, like giving 'em' bounties, etc., and maybe out there in Kansas they need some bounties on account of the drought and the hard luck a lot of them people has had and if they do need help, why, I say give it to them, only it don't seem like funny that them Wall street bankers is willin' for their candidate, Mr. Landon, to promise so much, but it may be like some of them prospectuses that they put out about gold mines and oil wells, etc., that have a lot of pretty pictures on 'em and a lot of figures that say you would have got rich if you had bought ten shares of Henry Ford's motor stock when he first started business, but a lot of politics is promises and some people seems to be best satisfied with the most promises, whether they ever get anything or not. The thing I say is that when a man needs help, help him, but first be pretty sure he really needs something."

"Now Juniper," he says, "you bein' so much in the confidence of the President, and standin' so high in the councils of the Democratic party, don't you think you could arrange with one of them departments or with Mr. Postmaster Farley to advance you enough cash to buy your old woman's dress she has been wantin' for so long? Seems to me if I was so popular and so prominent I could turn it to some account, and besides, your store account is runnin' right high again, and I could use something on that."

"Bibbins," I says, "Bibbins, your dyspepsy is making a bitter man of you, and a man that's irresponsible. Me and the boys is personal friends of the President, and between friends such as we are, money is seldom passed."

"That's just the pint," he replies, "almighty too seldom."

Hoping you are the same, and with best regards from me and the boys, I am,

Off On Vacation

Miss Lena Cannon, assistant manager of the Somerset Hotel, left Monday to spend her ten-day vacation visiting friends in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Clarkburg, W. Va. She was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. C. F. Cannon, Marion, and Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Thomas of Mount Vernon.

Army Man Here

Mr. Robert Blades, of Baltimore, spent a couple of days recently as the guest of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Ward. He returned to his home in Baltimore, from where he will leave for the Panama Canal zone to join his company in the U. S. army.

TREASURE AND TRASH

Autumn Woods Ere, in the northern gale, The summer tresses of the trees are gone, The woods of autumn, all around our vale, Have put their glory on.

Wm. Cullen Bryant.

Mt. Vernon No gilded dome swells from the lowly roof to catch the morning or evening beam; but the love and gratitude of united America settle upon it in one eternal sunshine. From beneath that humble roof went forth the intrepid and unselfish warrior, the magistrate who knew no glory but his country's good; to that he returned, happiest when his work was done. There he lived in noble simplicity, there he died in glory and peace. While it stands, the latest generations of the grateful children of America will make their pilgrimage to it as a shrine; and when it shall fall, if all it must, the memory and the name of Washington shall shed an eternal glory on the spot.

Edward Everett, Oration on the character of Washington.

Time To Rise A birdie with a yellow bill Hopped upon the window sill, Cocked his shining eye and said: "Ain't you 'shamed, you sleepy head."

Robert Louis Stevenson.

There is a real thrill in leading a circus; if you don't believe it, try it some time. Of course the circus that we led was a small affair, compared to Barnum & Bailey's, but last Sunday morning, after our door had been banged and our door bell had been "rang'd" for about half an hour, we got up out of bed, went down stairs in our pajamas, opened the door, and were greeted by the circus man who said he had been sent to us to learn where the lot was on which the circus was to "pitch." So we got dressed, got in our car, and drove out to the edge of the city where the circus trucks were parked, waiting for a guide, which was us. We turned our car so as to head the caravan and started for the circus grounds on Cove street, followed by the big red trucks, and we stopped and waited while the "direction man" got down off the leading truck and made some funny marks on the telephone poles so that the rest of the circus trucks which were to arrive some time during the day, would know where to turn. When we reached the lot the circus man politely thanked us for our courtesy and went right ahead marking off the lot for the erection of the tents, big and little, the ornery bugger, without even asking us our opinion as to where they should go. In other words, as a guide we were "tops," but as a "boss on the lot" we just weren't there.

Speaking of the circus, if you read the funnies in the newspapers you may have seen those about the "little man with the big stuff?" In the side show they had him, except the whiskers, in the person of the person who played the bagpipe and strutted his stuff.

Some years ago when country stores were the merchandising mart of the rural communities to a much greater degree than they are today, one of the "drummers" that made weekly calls stopped in at a Parsonville emporium one rather cold winter morning and naturally the subject of conversation was the weather, and the drummer told the assemblage about how cold it was out in North Dakota, where several people had frozen to death in a blizzard. Sitting around the stove were a number of local residents, among whom was the late Jack Bell. As though the severe cold weather in the west was a reflection on the Parsonville weather, Mr. Bell spoke up and told the drummer that the North Dakota weather was mild compared with local weather. "When only last week," said Mr. Bell, "when I went down to look after my muskrat traps it was so cold I thought I would freeze before I got started, so I built me a fire right there on the marsh. Well sir, that fire blazed right up as high as my head, and it was as purfy fire as you ever saw, but it didn't give out any heat. You know, gentlemen, that fire was frozen right there in the air. I knew nobody would believe me, so I reached over and broke off a piece of that fire and put it in my pocket to take home and show the folks, but when I got home I was so cold I forgot all about it. I just set down and thawed out, and gentlemen, that danged piece of fire thawed out, too, and burned a hole in my pants and set my shirt tail afire."

CONCERNING VACATIONS

By CHAS. F. RICHARDSON

I will never forget that beautiful Sunday morning sitting under the old shade trees on the lawn of the Riviera Hotel, the blue Gulf stretched out before us with here and there a white sail on the distant horizon. The sky a canopy of blue and the whole world bathed in yellow sunlight. Work and worry were far from my mind, it was one of those intervals that come all too infrequently in the lives of we humans when for some unaccountable reason we feel in perfect harmony and accord with the world and life seems good. The next night we stopped at the San Carlos in Pensacola and then on into Fernandina.

I had decided to end my vacation with a trip on one of Wallace's boats so at midnight I boarded the "Osborn Holland" and bunked down. When I awoke in the morning we were sailing down the Coast. If you think there can't be much beauty found on a fishing vessel then you have never fished off the Coast of Florida for climbing to the mast-head I beheld a scene that would satisfy anyone who loves the water. To the east the mighty Atlantic and to the west the Florida Coast, its white ribbon of beach on which the speeding auto looked like toys, stretched as far as the eye could see, the colored tile house tops of the hotels and cottages, of Atlantic and Jacksonville beaches, shone in the morning sunlight while around our vessel a school of porpoise played; over head and totally indifferent to us several Pelicans, that strange bird of the southland, winged their lazy way.

As I looked I could make out the other vessels of the Quinn fleet, the "J. Earl Morris," the "Wallace M. Quinn" and the "Osborn Holland" on which I was sailing and last the newest of them all the "Harry C. Dashiell." I certainly felt that I was among friends and I hope that those for whom these boats were named are as proud of them as I was and proud of the friendship which prompted their naming. Capt. Larry Daugherty and a crew of Crisfield workmen spent the past several winters in Florida building them and they are really the finest fleet of fishing boats on the Atlantic coast. All day long we fished and I thrilled to watch the striker boat go out followed by the purse boats, to see the skilled way in which those colored men handled those immense nets and standing on the bridge I never tired of watching them haul it to the surface, singing all the while. You never knew what the net would bring up; sometimes large sharks or a gigantic sea turtle. I got a big kick out of it all.

Just at sunset we turned the bow towards home. I stood on the bridge gazing into the west, the sky was alizah with color—yellow and blue, pink and crimson—while the sea took on a deep bluish green coloring. It was a picture I will never forget. As I stood there a deep baritone voice down on the deck burst out in song followed by the voices of the fifteen or eighteen other colored fishermen. They sang the old colored spirituals as only the darlies of the south can sing them. Plaintive, wailing, imploring and as I stood there listening and looking at the glory of the Heavens a lump came in my throat. I don't know why, maybe I'm just funny that way, but such things as this are always had great appeal for me. Just as the sun was disappearing below the horizon the voices were stilled, there seemed to be a mutual understanding that noise at this time was almost sacrilegious. Suddenly the sun was gone and there was only the swish of the waves, the throb of the motor and the new moon hung low in the sky.

Well that's about all, but it was sure grand and to anyone who has bothered to read all this and I imagine there are only a few, for vacations and operations are somewhat alike, its lots more fun telling about your own, but to any who have read it and that goes for the proof reader too, I hope that some day you enjoy a vacation as much as I did mine. As I look back over it now, and recall the Carolina's with the sweet smell of the jasmine, Charleston and lovely Savannah, many interesting places in Florida with its gorgeous sunsets, Sunst days and starlit nights in Old New Orleans, Texas with its great Centennial, lovely by day enchanting by night. The majestic Mississippi and the picturesque Suwannee. That marvelous drive beside the blue Gulf of Mexico, the soft yellow sunlight of the deep south and the highways of Dixie always beckoning arousing the wanderlust that lies deep within us all and always the thrill of wondering what adventures lay ahead. I realize it was more than just a trip, it was a revelation. Take a trip like that sometime yourself for when you return I am sure that you will feel as I did, that this country is a wonderful place in which to live and this old life of ours is all right after all.

SQUAWKS

By ACE BELL

Happy the man whose work and care, A few paternal acres bound. Content to breathe his native air, In his own ground.

Whose herds with milk, whose fields with bread, Whose flocks supply him with attire; Whose trees in summer yield him shade, In winter fire.

Blest, who can unconcern'dly find, Hours, days, and years, slide soft away In health of body, peace of mind, Quiet by day.

Sound sleep by night, study and ease, Together mixed, with sweet recreation, And innocence, which most does please, With meditation.

Thus let me live, unseen, unknown, Thus unlamented let me die; Steal from the world, and not a stone Tell where I lie.

The more we study, the more we know, The more we know, the more we forget.

The more we forget, the less we know, So why study? —Penn Punch Bowl.

Wander where at is that mug Jack Ducy these days. Sincerely hope he hasn't gone off someplace and got his just deserts. We don't get nobody to fight with.

Soon it gives roller skating weather. Wonder if the armory will provide this entertainment for this winter. Lotta folks are asking. Soon we know, we'll announce.

Which reminds us that pretty immediately we're going to have basketball, too. Many of the old team are all set to romp around the floor, and us customers are looking forward to the opening of the season. Capt. Wash McCoy will superintend the 'ootin' as per custom.

All of which shows conclusively that the melancholy days are about gone. Much as it grieves us, we find ourselves facing another winter. No fishing, no swimming, no nothin'. We don't like winter. Nobody don't.

There's a lot of bicycles equipped with motors nowadays. Walking around whil' sitting down has been a time honored method of transportation in Crisfield since long ago. It begins they don't walk. They just sit.

And that new craze of batting rubber balls with a rubber band attached. There doesn't seem to be any point. The record seems to be 26,000 consecutive successful bats. Just another excuse to look vacuous and while away time while waiting for supper.

Saw somewhere where President Roosevelt has good cause for action if he wishes to bring suit against the "Baltimore Sun" for non-support. And the Eastern railroads have reduced the passenger rates. That's good news to most, but it doesn't get any reaction in Crisfield. Nobody here goes any place anywhere.

The hayfever season is at the peak now. When you see a brother wandering down the street, looking grief stricken, don't walk up to offer your sympathy. It's probably hayfever what's got him.

Customers have called it to our attention that folks which keep dogs should feed same, so they won't be eternally foraging in garbage cans, etc. for something to eat. People should realize that a hungry dog is a social menace, and if they can't afford to feed the dog, get rid of it.

These "Squawks" are certainly feeble this week. But it is onna count this here typewriter has got the colic. Driving a truck, or shoveling coal, is child's play compared to trying to write on this thing.

Mrs. Maud E. Ford, who has been visiting her daughter in New York City for the past two months was called home this week because of illness in the family. RADIANT LIVING

The Recognition of Infinite Love

By Rev. C. M. Griffith Pastor Calvary M. E. Church Sudlersville, Md.

When Hagar, lost in the wilderness and crazed by the suffering of her dying child, saw that well of water to which God led her, she also saw much more. She recognized the fact that God was not unmindful of her need. Driven by his fiery wife, Abram had sent Hagar and her son forth into the wilderness to perish. But God was not to be thus misrepresented by harshness. By disclosing to her a well of water, He would reveal to Hagar His true nature of compassionate mercy.

The greatest of the wells of Grace which God reveals to men perishing in the death valley of sin is a revelation of His infinite love—so fascinating to the soul, that a man's whole life is changed by it.

And so it might be that somewhere, in some crisis of a sinner's life, when the world has cursed him, and the self-righteous people have spurned him, leaving him to perish in discouragement and doubt, that there has come to him a revelation of the fact that, as John says, "God is love!"

Thank God for the marvelous change that comes to those whose eyes have been opened to behold the well of divine love from which the soul can drink the cleansing waters of mercy and forgiveness.

Communicated

TO MY HOME PEOPLE AND FRIENDS:

On the fall list of religious publications will appear my book, "LAUGHING AT THE SAINTS." The manuscript has already received editorial approval, and advance comments are very favorable.

My book is a collection of twelve sermons, including the Sequenential sermon I preached at historic Barrett's Chapel two years ago. The sermons are written in the language of every day, and represent the effort of a young preacher to make the Old Gospel interesting reading. I have tried hard to express my faithfulness to the great truths of Scripture, and the great teachings of the Church. It has been so my earnest endeavor to make an application of my message to the need and condition of these changing and trying times in which we live.

This book being my first one, I desire to secure as many orders as I can on the first edition. I have asked my publishers to have the book popularly priced at one dollar. The book will be cloth bound with individual cover, and printed on fine paper in easy type. Your reservation for a copy or copies of the first edition may be made by seeing Rev. J. T. Rowienson, pastor of my home church (Asbury), or writing to me at Seaford, Delaware. Books will be sent from the publishers.

The old home town has highly favored me in days past, and I feel sure that I will have your encouragement now.

Sincerely, Roy Lawson Tawes.

ON THE WATERFRONT THIS WEEK

Capt. Herman Evans of the powerboat "Dewey" arrived Saturday morning from Eastern Bay with a load of oysters. His motor stopped near Jans Island Lighthouse, and he drifted all night, landing at Tangier Saturday morning, where he made repairs and came to Crisfield.

Captain H. C. Drevler in the powerboat "H. C. Drevler" arrived last Wednesday from Baltimore to load shell lime for Baltimore. He left Sunday morning.

Capt. Jesse Taylor with Mr. Wesley Linton on the powerboat "Etta Marie" arrived Friday morning to load lime for Baltimore.

MAYBE "SENCE" CAN PLAY SOME OTHER GAME BETTER

Can't Be Mrs. Corbin's Fault They Lose So Consistently

In the weekly Rook game between Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. "Pete" Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison "Sence" Corbin this week which was played at the home of Mr. Lowe on Maryland avenue, the Lowes tightened up and four games were played without the Corbines being allowed to score. The situation is now becoming serious, and action must be taken. "Pete" intimates that "Sence" is to be disfranchised until October 1st, or until after the softball season is over, so he can get his alleged mind on the game.

Special Important Notice

Much has been advertised in the last few weeks about Ambulance Service. For several years we refused all calls of that kind because we did not consider it sanitary or proper to carry the sick in our Hearse as others were doing. A touring car was a poor substitute, so we got a sedan delivery, which was neither a dead wagon or hearse but ideal for ambulance cot and patient but not so good for passengers.

Now I have a car built by Sayers & Scovill of Cincinnati, Ohio, the largest makers of ambulances in America. Built especially for invalid use, plenty of room and comfort. There is no reason for free ambulance service, only as an advertisement for other business. I have undoubtedly given more free service in the forty-five years I have been a Funeral Director, than anyone on the Shore, and if Crisfield is to have free service to and from the local Hospital there is no reason why our neighbors should not enjoy the same privilege. Therefore, we shall extend free service up to Marion, and realizing how painful it must be for sick people on the Islands to be carried from home to boat and from boat to wharf I will lend to such people an adjustable cot on which they can be placed and remain there until they reach the Hospital.

With the addition of a new Hearse and our staff of workers we are prepared for any emergency. Our lady assistant for women and children can't be beat. We have lately added to our force Mr. John R. Corbin, Jr., a competent young man of good habits, refined and intelligent, who is willing to serve our clients to the best of his ability. When in need of our service call 120 from 5 P. M. to 8 A. M. from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. call 146.

Purchasing Poultry

Poultry may be purchased alive, dressed, or drawn. Buying live poultry has at least one advantage, it is certain to be fresh. A desirable fowl should have a bright red comb, clear eyes, smooth shiny feathers, a pump firm body, a flexible breast bone, legs that are not too scaly or rusty, and otherwise have the general appearance of health.

Dressed poultry is that which has been killed and picked, but the entrails have not been removed. Drawn poultry has the entrails, head, and feet removed. Young chicken should be white-skinned, with pin feathers instead of hairs, and have a full rounded breast, flexible breast cartilage, and soft yellow feet.

The price of fowl depends largely on the age. One may expect to pay varying amounts a pound for fowl as one purchases broilers, fryers, chickens, capons, hens, or cocks. Usually the younger the fowl the more it costs a pound. Older birds, especially cocks, are moderately priced and are satisfactory for soups, stews, and chicken loafs. Only younger birds should be broiled, fried or roasted. Young fowl should be cooled quickly. It is best to keep it from six to ten hours before cooking it.

STRAWS in the Wind

By MARY WATSON

WHAT with talk of alibonettes and gored skirts again, anyone with wardrobe full of straight lined dresses, is going to welcome a mid-season fashion trick of Rochas, the French designer. Rochas shows wide bands of color up the sides of narrow skirts, like the stripes on a guardman's trousers. At his Paris opening, a heavy white cotton lace evening gown had stripes of military red broadcloth. A clever fashion, flattering to heavy figures as well as slender, it suggests an easy way to disguise that last year's model.

Women in the News
From shoe model to foremost New York shoe fashion consultant in nine years is the record of blonde Ruth Kerr of Oregon, who styles shoe polishes for the Shinola-Bixby Company as a sideline. Yes, shoe polishes have to be styled, too, these days. Fall shoe and shoe-shine colors, according to Miss Kerr, fall into three brackets: staple colors, which are black, brown, navy blue and gray; promotion colors, to be green, wine and London Tan; and high fashion colors, which include any number of special shades sponsored by individual stores.

Health
Of course you've seen a cat turn and turn until it got itself into a perfect curl of comfort? Well, that's how we should sleep, experts tell us—in a half circle, knees drawn up, the back curved forward. This is the position that requires the least expenditure of effort and least use of muscle.

Honored for New Atlantic Record

Captain Sir Edgar T. Britten
Chief Engineer Llewellyn Roberts

These two men, more than anyone else, are responsible for the remarkable new transatlantic speed record just captured by the Cunard White Star liner Queen Mary. Captain Britten was the man who set the course and gave the order for the run; Chief Engineer Roberts was the man who carried out this order by keeping the propellers churning at the fastest pace ever attained by any liner.

SHOE STYLES STAGE A REVOLUTION

Fashion Advisor Tells How Revolutionary Shoe Designs Beautify Unattractive Feet

THE greatest revolution in fashion design "since the whalebone corset was relegated to the scrap-heap" has occurred in the shoe industry within the past two years, according to Miss Ruth H. Kerr, fashion advisor for the 2 in 1-Shinola-Bixby Corporation. Miss Kerr, an authority on style trends, says this revolution is due to the discovery that shoes designed specifically to complement the natural contours of the human foot contribute materially to the general smartness of a woman's appearance.

In place of the exaggerated narrow toe of a few years ago, and the still more fantastic "needle toe" of the nineties we now have nature conforming "lasts" over which shoes are built. In working out these "lasts," shoe sculptors have found that the proportion of the human foot is in direct relation to the proportion of the individual measurements of the body. The problem therefore has been to bring the individual foot—be it long or short, wide or narrow—into conformity with current style trends.

"The long narrow foot that used to be admired because it was 'aristocratic' is not the fashionable foot today," explains Miss Kerr. "Shorter, wider, lower heels—all are part of the stylist's scheme to bring the shoe into relation to the fashionable silhouettes of broad shoulders and general squarish effect. Feet must be designed to fit the mode."

For feet are becoming more and more an integral part of fashion, now that women have learned to think in terms of the ensemble.

At the same time that more emphasis is placed on simplicity, fine materials and color interest, as part of the recognition by manufacturers that feet are worthy of fashion interest, it has become absolutely essential for a woman to know how to take care of her shoes, according to Miss Kerr. The first step in shoe care, is to place the shoe on a tree the very minute it is removed from the foot. The second step is to choose the correct cleaner or the type of leather. And choosing a cleaner seems to have become an art in itself, for no longer will one box of shoe polish take care of a shoe wardrobe.

The modern woman must have special paste cleaners for glazed leathers like kids and calskins; liquid polishes of the Shinola type for suede; two cleaners for shoes of combination materials, and if she is really serious about being smart and beautiful from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet, she probably invests in one of the shoe beauty treatment kits that have recently been introduced to the market.

"Because," concludes Miss Kerr, "W designers give beauty treatments to feet with their clever shoe designs, the least we women can do is to learn to give beauty treatments to shoes."

COMFORTABLE DRIVING IS ECONOMIC DRIVING

Also Eliminates Strain That Is Cause Of Accidents

To be comfortable is an entirely human and understandable wish. "And in driving," says L. K. Marshall, general service manager of Pontiac Motor Co., "a motorist can realize this wish without the usual sacrifices—for comfortable driving is very closely related to safe and economical driving."

"It is easy to see why this is true," he continues. "Comfortable driving eliminates the strain on the human mechanism that so often causes accidents. Likewise, it does away with the wear and tear and waste that go with sudden starts and stops."

"The comfortable driver, for instance, never strains the safety margin of his vision by 'over-driving' the range of his headlights or his eyes. He does not indulge in nerve wracking attempts to pass other cars on curves or hills. He does not waste energy by gambling on beating the light or slipping past another car to a parking spot."

"Everyone has seen the driver who dashes up to a through street and suddenly jams on his brakes and comes to a jarring stop. His method of driving is neither comfortable nor economical—it is hard on human nerves, it wastes gasoline, and it wears out tires and brakes."

"Furthermore, there is the driver who swerves around corners at a high speed. His passengers who have been jerked against the side of the car can tell you whether he drives comfortably—or safely!"

"The safe and comfortable driver may sometimes decide that he can afford the extra cost of driving at high speed because of the time saved. If he is in a hurry, however, he cannot always get economy as well as comfort and safety."

"Speed is hardly ever the determining factor in matters of safety. Rather, it is the alertness of the driver at the wheel—the quickness of his response to demands on his hands and feet, his presence of mind, his desire to play fair with others on the road, his knowledge of what his car will do or can't do at the time he is driving."

Candied Sweet Potatoes
4 tsp. brown sugar
2 tsp. white sugar
2 tsp. Karo syrup
1 tsp. butter

Peel potatoes; add the rest of the ingredients and put in a covered saucepan. Allow to come to boil and simmer until potatoes are done. Remove cover from saucepan and allow syrup to cook to desired thickness.

Stuffed Frankfurters

Partly split eight frankfurters, lengthwise. Stuff with a mixture of a cup breadcrumbs, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 teaspoon melted butter, poultry seasoning and salt to taste and water to moisten. Wrap each sausage in bacon, fasten with toothpicks and broil about 10-15 minutes. (This is very appetizing to children.)

Knitwear Rates A+ for Campus Wear

The two-piece suit at the left is in a smooth cashmere knit, perfect for travelling and perfectly at home on the campus. It is in natural color with a maroon zipper extending almost to the leather belt. Note the heart-shaped breast pockets. The suit at the right is knitted in striped design of wool ratine and zephyr using the popular dubonnet strap combined with navy blue. The two flap pockets at the hips are echoed by simulated ones above. The low V neck has a turned-back collar and a silk kerchief worn ascot-style. One of the leather belts is in blue, the other dubonnet.

PERFECT for travelling, and perfect for the campus! That describes the new machine-knitted suits in a burst of self-confidence that comes from knowing that she is clad in the very smartest of apparel, the young girl student is all set to make straight A's right through her courses.

Simplicity is combined with practicality in the clothes offered for college wear this fall. So many new ideas have been worked out by American manufacturers in both designs and colors that the jaded Senior has become just as enthusiastic as the timid Freshman. The two suits shown above illustrate all these points: They are simple in silhouette and carefully tailored, and extremely practical, since they don't wrinkle when packed or worn for travelling and emerge from airplane, boat, bus or train fresh and ready for classroom wear.

Sweaters and skirts are the hardy perennial, of course, although the popular culottes are ranking high in the fashion textbook. Contrasting sweater sets—navy blue with orange, brown with bright yellow, black (brand new and very chic) with smoke gray—pass all exams with flying colors. Skirt-on-curtain classic cardigans, of course, but also the new combination of sleeveless slip-on over long-sleeved turtle-necked sweater.

The dressmaker type of sweater is another campus style that has high ranking. These are on the "feminine" side, having absorbed a little from the dress fashions now being highlighted. They have broad shoulders, new necklines—either high V, or standing collar, high square effects, drawstrings or soft bows—and sleeve interest.

AUTUMN PROMISES UNUSUAL STYLES IN KNITWEAR

(Left) Miss Elspeth Erie, charming actress of the Broadway success, "Dead End" is shown wearing the latest thing in knitted suits. The roman striped blouse is in rust, beige and brown, while the little pussy-cat bow is in acots green to match the plain drop needle skirt. The green knitted "overseas" cap is worn cocked at a jaunty angle. (Right) This frolicsome knitted suit brightens the day with its brilliant diagonal striped blouse of red, white and blue. The plain navy skirt has a front pleat to allow freedom of motion and the broad shouldered jacket fastens with red leather straps.

THERE will be football padded shoulders in the grandstands this fall as well as on the field, according to advance tips in the knitwear field. Broad, broad effects achieved in many different ways through strong padding, pleats and puffs will make the galleries themselves stand up and cheer.

Leather, metal and fur are outstanding trimmings and will bring but also the new combination of contrasting colors, leather, leather buttons—metal clips both ornamental and utilitarian—colored slide fasteners—bits of fur at neck and cuffs—these are fashion highlights on many a knitted outfit.

Knitting machines have been so perfected that the variety and complexity of the weaves they can now turn out is amazing. And the style development in this field has progressed in leaps and bounds so that knitwear is tops and definitely heads the fashion musts for fall. The modern girl, with her desire for freedom of motion which is a part of the characteristic trend toward activity will find in the new smart knitted fabrics the fashion fabric of the future.

Popular Setting for Hot Weather

Hot weather calls for the simple, attractive service of refreshments. This table with individual trays for beer glasses and a liberal supply of pretzels, crackers and popcorn is a welcome sight for the afternoon or evening guest. Especially appropriate are the "stubby" bottles for beer which look well on the table, and conserve space there as well as in the refrigerator.

SOFT BALL TEAMS HAVE BUSY WEEK

Kept Busy Disregarding Advice From Frenzied Fans

YANKS DEFEAT CUBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

On the baseball field at the Crisfield High School, about 20 fans saw Bob Tull's "Yanks" softball team thrash Millard Tawes' "Cubs" in a game that was packed with punch in all the nine innings.

The field was brilliantly lighted with flood lights, and at eight o'clock, after the team representing the local troop of Boy Scouts had lost to the "Broadway Aces" in a hard fought game, by a score of 18 to 17, the "Yanks" and the "Cubs" came on the field for some serious baseball.

The Tawes' team was first at bat, and Howard Riggan, who waved the willow first, spanked one way out center field for three bases. The next two men up "punched" then their teammates started something, and collected 4 runs before the side was retired.

Bob Tull's team had their turn at bat, but failed to score, but the next time they came up to the plate, they hit with serious intent, and after the smoke cleared, it was found that there was a record of five to four, with the Tull boys in front.

The next inning saw the Tawes aggression even it up, and so it saw-sawed.

Some of the best advice that was ever disregarded was shouted by the frenzied rooters. The fans stood on one leg, went temporarily insane when tight plays were made while the score was all tied up.

There were no sacrifice hits. Every batsman hit the ball with every thing he had, and made commendable efforts to score.

The wind added much to the game, by whipping up whirlpools of dust and smothering both players and spectators every few moments.

But presently it was all over. The result of the game was in doubt right up to the final minute. And the score was found to 11 to 10 in favor of Bob Tull's "Yanks."

Batteries were Reese, pitching and Webb, catching for the "Yanks" and Coulbourne pitching and Owens catching for the "Cubs."

Giants Win Over Tigers
Millard Tawes' "Tigers" and "Dido" Tawes' "Giants" met again Tuesday evening at the night baseball park at the Crisfield High School grounds, and "Dido's" team took the game by a score of 9 to 8.

The batteries for this game were for the "Tigers" Elwood Tawes, pitcher, and Jeff Webb, catcher. For "Dido's" "Giants" were Charley Ross, pitcher, and Kendall Wilson, catcher.

In the preliminary game the Rotary won from the Junior Chamber of Commerce 28 to 20. Millard Tawes was pitcher, and Harvey Bradshaw caught for the Rotarians, while the battery for the C. of C. was Charles Woolston, pitcher and Ira Lowe, catcher.

"Shockey" Nelson umpired both games.

Two Games Wednesday Night
In the first game at the Crisfield night-ball park Wednesday evening, Elwood Dize's "Yanks" and Radie Sterling's "Cubs" ran off nine innings of good fast ball. The "Cubs" won the closely contested game by a one run margin.

The batteries were: "Yanks" "Skidmore" Nelson, pitcher, and "Dynamite" Dunn, catcher. For the "Cubs" Howeth pitched and Massey caught.

In the second game Nelson Colburn's "Cards" wrestled with Bob Tull's "Tigers." The "Cards" won hands down, swamping the "Tigers." Batteries: "Cards" Dryden, pitcher and Massey catcher. "Yanks" "Scobey," Shager and Tull pitchers, with Owens, catcher.

Three Degrees Will Be Conferred On 300 Candidates

A rally of all lodges of the I. O. O. F. in the four lower Eastern Shore counties will be held in the First Regiment Armory at Salisbury Saturday, November 21.

The rally is expected to be the largest held by the Odd Fellows since the dedication of the temple here in 1921, when degrees were conferred upon 600 candidates before approximately 2,000 Odd Fellows.

Charles W. Bennett, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the rally. He will be assisted by C. M. Caddell, Noble Grand of Newton Lodge; Howeth Bramble, Harvey Campbell and C. C. Cooper, all of Salisbury.

NOTES FROM MARION SCHOOL PRESS CLUB

New Library System Has Been Established

STUDENT PATROL WAS FORMED WEDNESDAY

The aim of both the faculty and students is to make our school conditions better. One of the greatest improvements we have made this year is the establishment of a new library system. Last year, our books were repaired, and many new ones were added. This year, we mean to take care of them and to keep increasing our library. Three librarians, Anna Whittington, Caroline Burton, and Isabel Maddox, have been appointed. These girls have helpers from each class. The senior aid is Norma Barlow; the junior, Margaret Gibbons; the sophomore, Grace Stant; and the freshman member is Virginia Burton. By this scheme, students are allowed to take out novels at any time. An easy and thorough check of the books can be made. As a result, we have a more modern and efficient method.

A Student Patrol was organized Wednesday, September 16, by our principal, Mr. Donoho. This patrol was organized for the purpose of preventing students, upon their leaving school from being killed or injured while crossing the road. Those appointed are as follows: James Adams, Charles Harbaugh, William Bringham, Robert Doane, Raymond Wooster, Edward Hayman, Jackie Massey, and Walter Brittingham.

One boy is stationed in front of the school while another is stationed in front of the Marion Baptist Church during noon hours and after school. All students are requested to walk on the sidewalk as there is less danger there. This system has thus far proven very satisfactory.

September calls for more school days, even for some of our alumni. We are glad to know that many of them have entered higher institutions this fall. Among them are:

Eloise Adams, who was graduated in 1933, entered Goldey's Business College in Wilmington, Delaware.

Virginia Brittingham, Class of '33, is attending Western Maryland College, Westminster, Maryland.

Genevieve Long, class of '34, will continue her course of study at the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland.

Laura Emily Gunby, class of '34, is returning to the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland.

Olive May Whittington, class of '35, has entered a college in Sweetbriar, Virginia.

Miles Tull, class of '32, is going to resume his studies at the University of Maryland Law School, Baltimore, Maryland.

Winfield Thompson, class of '31, is entering University of Maryland School, Baltimore, Maryland, for his third year.

Jessie Wilkins, class of '33, also is entering the University of Maryland Medical School, Baltimore, Maryland.

Elizabeth Landon, class of '30, is attending Beacon's Business College in Wilmington, Del.

If there are others whom we have not mentioned, we would be pleased to list them in the next issue.

We are also glad to see still more of our alumni back in the halls, classrooms, and on the athletic field. Many of them come and play ball with the girls and boys. We appreciate this very much and do hope that they will continue to do this. We have seen Donald Mariner, Virginia Strausburg, Billy Wilkins, Gladys Powell, Kendall Wilson, Miles Tull, Lillian Bell, and Sara Long since our last news went to press.

ENTERTAINED FORMER PASTOR AND HIS WIFE

Mrs. T. H. Long Also Dinner Guest Last Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bradshaw entertained at dinner last Tuesday evening the Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Wilson, of Bishop's Head, Md., and Mrs. Thomas H. Long, of Hopewell.

Rev. Wilson is a former pastor of St. Peter's M. E. Church and he and his wife were well loved by all who knew them while he served this charge.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the Bradshaw home, and before leaving brother "Bob," as he is affectionately known, prayed a most beautiful and inspiring prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw hope that this fine couple will gladden their hearts again soon with another visit.

BALTIMORE PARTY WAS HERE OVER THE WEEKEND

Had A Very Enjoyable Fishing Trip On Saturday
